ARREST SUSPECT AS SPURGIN

PASS DEADLINE FOR RANSOMING TACOMA YOUTH

Parents Still Wait for Kidnapers.

Tacoma, Wash., May 29.—(AP)—The deadline fixed by the kidnapers for raising $200,000 to ransom 9 year old George Weyerhaeuser passed tonight without yielding any indication of the fate of the little lumber heir.

The only clew to the carefully veiled maneuvers of the distracted lumber family was a remark by a close friend indicating no ransom money had been paid.

This source declined to amplify the remark, but gave the impression that although the anguished family was willing to pay, it had not been advised of the boy's whereabouts.

Deadline at 9:35 P. M.

Curtains at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Weyerhaeuser Jr., the parents, remained drawn as the zero hour ended at 9:35 p. m. [Chicago time] and carried the kidnaping into its sixth day of veiled drama and grief.

The personal safety of the boy at once became an issue among watchers. Activities indicating a last minute attempt might have been made to meet the abductors were noted this afternoon when two men drove away from the Weyerhaeuser home.

One of the men resembled J. P. Weyerhaeuser, father of George, but identity of the second man was not known. Weyerhaeuser had returned to the house about noon from another trip he did not explain.

A postman walked into the yard of the Weyerhaeuser home in midafternoon and deposited a large stack of mail in the box in resuming delivery which had been stopped for more than 72 hours.

Ponder Actual Deadline.

Although little George had been missing for five days at noon today, there was no telling just when the abductors would consider the "zero hour" set by them for payment. The first ransom note reached the Weyerhaeuser family shortly after 6:30 p. m. last Friday and specified a five day limit for the ransom payment.

It hinted George would come to harm if payment was not made in the five days. Mrs. Weyerhaeuser and her sister three children were at home tonight. What other persons were inside the large white residence overlooking Commencement bay could not be determined.

Elizabeth, 2 year old sister of the kidnaped lad, was brought out into the yard for a breath of air and the children's black spaniel dog scampered about on the lawn.

House Appears Normal.

To all appearances normality ruled at the house, but Mrs. Weyerhaeuser plainly showed the strain of days of uncertainty concerning her son's fate. He vanished at noon Friday while en route home from school.

One police official, who declined to be named, said he believed there might be no "break" in the $200,000 ransom abduction of the curly haired boy before Friday.

"Original plans of the kidnapers have been upset," he pointed out, "by authorities and publicity."

Many commentators expressed fear the boy—in the hands of the snatch gang five days—would not be returned alive.

Mysterious Boy Seen.

A boy described as bearing a remarkable resemblance to the kidnaped youth was reported seen in a downtown café at San Francisco today, and police immediately began a thorough search of hotels and rooming houses in the vicinity.

Crime Prevention Detail Officers Frank Lucy and William Merrick were told by H. B. Clark he had seen a boy wearing a tan lether jacket, blue knickers, and black socks, accompanied by a man, breakfasting in a small restaurant.

Sees Same Pair Twice.

His suspicions were aroused, Clark said, when he recalled newspaper pictures of the missing Tacoma lad, and noticed the striking similarity to the boy in the restaurant, whom he had first seen yesterday at the same place and with the same man.

Intending to talk to the boy, Clark walked over to him and prepared to ask who he was when he was tapped on the shoulder by the man beside the youth and told to "mind your own business."

At that, Clark said, he walked back to his seat. The man grasped the lad's hand and departed from the lunchroom in haste.

SWEITZER TAX FUND MYSTERY IS CLEARING UP

Money Due Villages; Payment Balked.

One hitherto deep mystery of the $414,129 Sweitzer shortage was cleared up yesterday when it was learned that the "unclaimed" tax redemption fund, to which the bulk of the shortage was traced, had been withheld from small villages and other municipal corporations to which it belonged. Previous reports were that the money belonged to private tax buyers who failed to call for it.

It was charged that the county clerk's office during the Robert M. Sweitzer régime—from 1910 to 1934—had placed obstacles in the way of small municipalities—of which there are more than 300 in Cook county—when they tried to collect the money due them.

Payment Ordered by Monday.

According to the audit of the clerk's office, demanded by Michael J. Flynn, Sweitzer's successor, and made public last week, Sweitzer failed to turn over $380,959 from the redemption fund. The audit showed that the fund should have contained $1,135,643, but Flynn received only $754,684 from Sweitzer when the latter left the clerk's office last December to become county treasurer.

Since then Sweitzer has paid over $39,073, leaving the amount due the redemption fund at $341,886. There is also $72,243 of interest money which has never been accounted for, thus making the total present shortage $414,129. Sweitzer has been ordered to repay this amount at the county board meeting next Monday.

Charge of Berwyn Controler.

The charges that the county clerk's office obstructed the efforts of municipalities to get the money due them from the redemption fund were made by Ernest W. Mau, controler of the city of Berwyn. Since the widespread publicity given to the Sweitzer shortage Berwyn officials have withdrawn $48,367 due that town from the redemption fund.

Other municipal corporations have also hurried to get what is coming to them, so that Flynn, since he assumed office, has paid out $671,753 of the $754,684 turned over to him by Sweitzer in December. Unless the shortage is made up, Flynn said, many of the municipalities will be unable to get the money due them.

Hard to Get Money, Mau Says.

Mr. Mau, who has a private auditing practice and has been hired by many small towns in Cook county, said that it had always been difficult to get the money from the tax redemption fund for these towns while Sweitzer was county clerk.

"I made repeated efforts to get these funds," Mau declared, "but every obstacle was put in my way, as was done to representatives of other municipalities. The attitude of the employés in the clerk's office seemed to be to make it as hard as possible for us. They would insist on our filling out complete and unnecessary forms on just what was due us. They would say they needed the books we wanted to examine.

"Because of the red tape the clerk's office imposed on these small municipalities many of them had to hire accountants for months at a time to straighten out the claims. Then the clerk's employés would insist on minutely examining the accountants' reports.

Employés Want a Commission.

"The attitude of some of the employés was that they should do the accounting for the claimants and charge them 2 per cent commission.

"I ran into these difficulties in collecting money from the county clerk while I was auditing books for Berwyn and for other towns. I discovered that in some of the towns the officials never even knew the money was due them. I would find from their books that it was due and tell them and they were surprised."

The contents of the redemption fund were explained vaguely by county officials after the audit was made public disclosing the Sweitzer shortage, but it was not until Tuesday that it was learned that 95 per cent of the fund was due the small municipalities.

How Fund Is Built Up.

The manner in which the redemption fund was built up can be explained in the following example:

A village issues $10,000 in bonds for a public improvement. The money to retire the bonds is raised by special assessments. Because some of the property owners have failed to pay their assessments, the village is unable to pay $1,000 of the $10,000 bond issue on maturity.

In accordance with a usual practice,

Riot in Africa; Rush Troops; 6 Natives Slain

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

BULAWAYO, Southern Rhodesia, May 29.—Hundreds of troops were rushed today to the copper belt in Northern Rhodesia to protect whites, including many Americans, in the serious rioting that has broken out among the more than 9,000 natives on strike.

Six natives were killed today in a clash between the miners and police at the Roan Antelope copper mines near Luanshya, Northern Rhodesia. Three thousand strikers wrecked the mine compound and the company's offices, and another 300 attacked the power house.

Drastic measures were taken to handle the disorders and an entire regiment entrained for the copper belt to stave off any possible uprising against the comparative handful of whites. Police were sent from Ndola, while the riot act was read at Luanshya.

Europeans Act as Constables.

Tin helmets were issued to the police and troops owing to the intensity of the natives' attacks, floodlights were set up and mine patrols were equipped with fixed bayonets. At Ndola, where trouble also is feared, Europeans were summoned to act as special constables.

The natives appear to be efficiently organized and it is believed that agitators connected with some subversive movement are behind the strikers, who are demanding considerably increased wages because of the government's raising of the poll tax from 10 to 15 shillings. The strike is not directed against the company so much as against the government.

Trouble Began Monday.

The trouble began two days ago at the Mufulira mine and later spread to the Nkana mine. Two platoons of a Northern Rhodesian regiment were rushed to Ndola Monday in four royal air force troop-carrying planes which happened to be nearby on the annual Cape-to-Cairo flight.

Northern Rhodesia, like Southern Rhodesia, is an African crown colony of the British empire. It is rich in minerals, the copper output being especially valuable. Gold, manganese, zinc, and vanadium also are produced.

Only about 11,000 whites, the great majority of whom are Europeans, reside in Northern Rhodesia, while the native Negro population is in the neighborhood of 1,400,000.

SEAGOING AUTO CROSSES ENGLISH CHANNEL IN 8 HRS.

DOVER, England, May 29.—(AP)—A novel amphibian motor car clambered, dripping wet, onto dry land here tonight and rolled on toward London after crossing the channel from Calais in eight hours and 20 minutes. The machine was operated by Jacob Doulig, German sportsman.

The channel—which has been the scene of many freak passages, including ones by mermaids, mermen, water bicyclists, and another German who tried to walk across on water skis—probably never saw anything quite so complacent as today's slow moving "land ferry," chugging along with its paddle wheels cutting a leisurely wake.

It was the first such crossing, but such an auto is not likely to prove popular, since regular channel steamers from Dover to Calais make the trip in about an hour.

San Diego Fair On; Roosevelt Phones Crowd

San Diego, Cal., May 29.—(AP)—Amid the cannonading of salutes, the blare of brass and the rattle of drums, the California Pacific International exposition, depicting four centuries of progress, opened today.

Some 25,000 persons swarmed into the beautiful 300 acres of Balboa park during the morning and afternoon to see an array of exhibits and to witness the dedication ceremonies by national and state officials of the two largest structures, the United States government and the California state buildings.

Traffic was all but stopped at the entrances as an even larger audience poured in in the evening for President Roosevelt's address by remote control from Washington, D. C., and the lighting ceremonies.

Confidence in Future.

The President spoke a word of "confidence in our prospects" in the first formal address since the governmental uncertainty following the Supreme court scrapping of most of the NRA.

"What is before you represents progress, steps which have been taken and which led us to this very moment in which we pause to look forward," he said.

"I think that we may well have confidence in our prospects. Government is being animated more and more by a desire for the well-being of the people as a whole.

"A public conscience is demanding that those engaged in private enterprise in turn be guided by conduct based on good ethics and good morals as well as on thoughts of profit."

Mr. Roosevelt said he hoped to attend the exposition "later in the year."

Replica of Gold Camp.

Under the direction of George M. Sears, chief of police, Sergt. E. Thomas Osborne of the vice squad descended upon Gold Gulch, depicting the gold rush days of California, and closed down roulette, dice, and faro games in "the Stamp Mill," the gambling hall of the replica of a roaring mining camp.

In presenting the federal government's $125,000 structure to the exposition, Daniel C. Roper, secretary of commerce, expressed hope that it would be of "educational value to the country and its exhibits furnish a lesson to humanity."

Under the archway, which presented a story of the 400 years' progress in mural mosaic from the day Juan Rodrigues Cabrille landed here and claimed western United States for Spain, Gov. Frank F. Merriam praised the ex-

Man Missing 14 Years May Be in Custody

A man reported to be Warren C. Spurgin, once president of the Michigan Avenue Trust company, who disappeared in 1921 leaving a deficit of more than $1,000,000, was under arrest in New Orleans last night, according to word received by Chicago police.

Spurgin, who has been the object of a search in Central America, Mexico, the United States, and Canada for the last fourteen years, is wanted here for embezzlement, forgery, and receiving deposits while his bank was insolvent.

Assert Descriptions Tally.

The police declined to reveal the name given by the suspect. He denied that he is Spurgin, but investigators for the Penn Mutual Life Insurance company, who brought about his arrest, declared that descriptions of the prisoner and the missing man tally in important respects.

Spurgin was an unusually large man, some 6 feet 2 inches in height and weighing some 260 pounds. He had a cleft at the base of the left thumb, a prominent gold tooth, and a peculiarity in his walk. These all tally with the prisoner, who, however, lacks a mole on the back of his neck which Spurgin had.

Spurgin, when he fled Chicago, was 45 years old. He would be 59 years old now, and New Orleans police say the prisoner they hold appears to be about that age, although he maintains that he is only 45 years old.

Police Press Investigation.

The police there said they wanted time to investigate the prisoner's story of his history, which is expected to enable them to decide quickly whether or not he is Spurgin.

However, the suspect was booked as a fugitive and held pending action from Chicago authorities. Walter Storms, deputy chief of detectives here, wired New Orleans to keep him informed of the results of their investigation.

The arrest of the suspect was reported to be the culmination of a search conducted by the life insurance company since a Chicago acquaintance of Spurgin reported he saw the missing man in El Paso, Tex., two years ago.

The trail led west to Los Angeles, then east to Mobile, south to Key West, and finally to New Orleans, where they lost track of the man.

Tell How Clew Is Traced.

A few weeks ago investigators learned there that a man answering the description of the banker was in the habit of calling at a neighborhood store each day to buy a cigar. They watched the store and traced him to a rooming house where he lived alone. They then called New Orleans police and the arrest was made.

In the suspect's room police found several shares of oil stock that the man admitted he had been selling. A trail of oil stock sales had been their chief clew in tracing the suspect over the country. The suspect is said to have confessed that he was arrested in Grand Rapids, Mich., in 1932 on a charge of passing bad checks.

Fight for Insurance.

Since Spurgin disappeared on July 17, 1921, numerous rumors have circulated concerning his whereabouts and his death, and the recent search was due chiefly to legal action to collect $30,000 on life insurance policies held by his daughter, Mrs. Vivian Tilton.

At one time Spurgin was reported slain by Mexican bandits under the notorious Pancho Villa. Again he was reported a suicide in a Miami, Fla., hotel.

However, Mrs. Tilton lost two suits for a $5,000 policy in the Ætna Life Insurance company. Last month, however, a federal court verdict in Santa Fe, N. M., declared Spurgin legally dead and directed the Penn Mutual company to pay $25,000 on a life insurance policy. The case has been appealed.

FORMOSA ISLAND IS ROCKED BY ANOTHER QUAKE

TOKIO, May 30.—[Thursday.]—(AP)—A slight earthquake occurred at 4:45 a. m. today [2:45 p. m. Wednesday, Chicago daylight saving time], in Taichu and Shinchiku provinces of the Island of Formosa, said Rengo [Japanese] News agency dispatches. Officials of the island said thus far no casualties or damage had been reported. Three thousand lives were lost in a quake on the island in April.

NEW DEAL AIDS STUDY 3 PLANS TO REPLACE NRA

Voluntary Pacts One Course Considered.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—[Special.]—After another day of bewildered contemplation of the collapse of the NRA and the jeopardy of other phases of the New Deal resulting from the Supreme court decision administration leaders disclosed that three courses of action are under consideration. They are the following:

1. Revival of the NRA in such form (if possible) as to comply with the Supreme court's opinion.

2. Preservation of the minimum wage, maximum hours, collective bargaining and other provisions of the late codes through voluntary agreements of trade associations which would be exempted from the anti-trust laws.

3. Submission to the states of an amendment to the constitution conferring upon the federal government the powers to control intrastate industry denied by the Supreme court.

Declines to Discuss Decision.

At his press conference this afternoon President Roosevelt declined to discuss the Supreme court decision and its consequences. He said he had discussed the situation in the last two days with about 75 business men, lawyers, and newspaper editors whose names he declined to give, though he admitted later that two of them were Gen. Hugh Johnson, first administrator of the NRA, and Felix Frankfurter of the Harvard law school, who is a charter member of the brain trust. Both Johnson and Frankfurter slipped in and out of the back door of the White House and elaborate efforts were made to prevent their presence from becoming known.

The President said he would not have anything definite to say about the situation created by the reverses suffered by the New Deal until he decides on a course of action. That may not be for several days. It is possible that when he does talk it will be in a radio broadcast to the public.

Mr. Roosevelt indicated that the course he adopts will be greatly influenced by the public attitude toward a revival of the NRA in some form and by the outcome of the efforts being made by industry to preserve the wage and hours of labor provisions of the late codes.

President Cites Resolutions.

Resolutions have been pouring in, the President continued. He showed a stack he had in front of him at least two inches thick. A typical one, he said, is from the cotton textile industry asking the cooperation of the President to carry on wages and hours agreements and also asking him to go on the air. He thought that a fine thing, but added that there's a small minority that will hit under the belt and cut wages and lengthen hours. It is squarely up to the cotton textile industry, he thought, what will happen to the 10 per cent that will hit under the belt. He is sure 90 per cent will play the game fairly.

The spot news, the President said, is what is happening and what's going to happen around the country. Suppose some one in New York, in the garment workers' union, he suggested, cuts wages from $12 to $8 a week. Suppose some one tells the girls at 5 o'clock that there is a rush of business and they should stay until 9. What are the girls going to do—walk out at 5 and lose their jobs?

Suggestion for Spot News.

Or if you are a miner in a coal mine and your wage is cut. What would you do? asked Mr. Roosevelt. The wage situation has been fine for two years under the code. He said there were no labor troubles in sight providing the code was carried on. That's where your spot news is, the President said with great deliberation.

He declared that he had not given a thought to going on the air.

The President was asked what Johnson's place is in the picture. With some heat he declared that Johnson was only one of 20 or 30 persons whom he had seen on the NRA. He added that he had called many others with some knowledge of the NRA throughout the country.

He said that any theories that Johnson is coming back in the NRA was not spot news but spotted news. He said that this is no time for personalities. Personalities will come into the picture eventually, but not now, he asserted.

The President said that at this moment he couldn't even guess when he would be ready to announce a definite plan.

Gen. Johnson, self-advertised architect of the NRA, advocates a revival of the institution remodeled in such manner as to avoid the defects found by the Supreme court. In his syndicated column yesterday Johnson set forth his views of the way in which this could be done. He would eliminate any effort to control wages and hours of labor involved in purely intrastate manufacture of commodities not "held, used or sold" in connection with interstate commerce, as the Supreme court phrased it.

"I believe," he said, "that labor provisions of new NRA applying to labor on commodities or things 'held, used or sold . . . in relation to . . . further transactions in interstate commerce or . . . destined to transportation in other states' would be squarely within the exact wording and definition of this opinion.

"From my experience in NRA and the lessons it has learned, I believe further that this would do all that NRA should ever have attempted to do.

Would Eliminate Small Ones.

"It would eliminate from labor provisions all service codes—barber and beauty shops and the like—and all small enterprises. It would include all major industries and while it might tend to the establishment of highly localized industries which might have some slight competitive advantage intrastate, I doubt if this would much impair the basic principle of NRA."

Altogether the New Dealers present a chastened and crestfallen appearance. Gone is the tone of confident superiority with which for weeks they have met warnings that the attitude of the Supreme court in the hot oil case spelled the doom of the NRA.

Donald Richberg, chief of the defunct NRA, who at the height of his power was called the "assistant President of the United States," remained inaccessible to reporters. Mme. Secretary of Labor Perkins called off her press conference yesterday. Secretary of Agriculture Wallace called off his press conference today.

Waiting on President.

In general the New Dealers are still running around in circles, waiting for the President to tell them where they go from here. They are relying upon his well known resourcefulness and political acumen to evolve a course of action that will tend to save the face of the New Deal, if nothing more. Most of the brain trusters forced off the pay roll by the collapse of the NRA expect to be "taken care of" in other branches of the administration.

In seeking a way out of the fiasco Mr. Roosevelt has obtained advice from Democrats of all shades of opinion except those who, like Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, Al Smith, and John W. Davis, have spurned the New Deal. The advice he has received from the New Dealers and Democrats who for political reasons are "going along" with the New Deal is conflicting.

Many of the New Deal lawyers have given it as their considered opinion that it will be futile to attempt to revive the NRA in anything like the form which the Supreme court held unconstitutional. They have suggested that the most practicable means of accomplishing the objectives of the NRA in a constitutional manner would be through voluntary trade agreements on wages and hours of labor, in return for which such industries would be exempted from some, if not all, provisions of the anti-trust laws under the supervision of the federal trade commission.

Regarded as Makeshift.

Progenitors of this plan contend that the assurances being given by a multitude of industries to maintain code wage and labor provisions cannot be regarded as more than a temporary makeshift. They do not expect them to be any more lasting than were the assurances obtained by President Hoover after the 1929 crash that wages would not be reduced and that employés would not be laid off.

Unless a substantial degree of recovery should materialize in the near future, it is pointed out, prices hitherto kept up by the artificial device of the NRA will decline and manufacturers will declare themselves unable to continue to pay the wage scales of the late codes. Business entered into the NRA scheme in the first place only because the jacking up of prices would enable them to pay the increased wages. Now it is suggested that by exemptions from the anti-trust laws industries could make certain agreements under which prices could be maintained at levels that would warant maintenance of higher wage scales than otherwise.

Those supporting this line of action think that the Supreme court would uphold an industrial structure based on voluntary trade agreements. They point out that the court said of the NRA in its decision last Monday:

"It does not seek merely to endow voluntary trade or industrial associations or groups with privileges and immunities. It involves the coercive exercise of the lawmaking power."

Thus the opinion is hazarded that the court would approve the grant to voluntary trade associations of the privilege to make trade agreements and the extension to industrial units of immunity from the anti-trust laws.

Amendment Is Favored.

By the more academically minded New Dealers these efforts to get around the impediments of the Supreme court decision are viewed as temporary expedients for salvaging something from the wreck of NRA. But to achieve the grand New Deal objective of a new economic, if not a new political, order resort to more radical measures, in their opinion, is imperative. For that reason they favor a constitutional amendment wiping out state lines so far as control of production by the central government is concerned.

Mayor La Guardia of New York sounded the keynote of this movement yesterday in a speech advocating the amendment of the constitution. The "liberal bloc" of the house, headed by Representative Vito Marcantonio [Rep., N. Y.], put out a statement today proposing a constitutional convention "to revise the constitution in the light of present day requirements."

The statement warned that the relief "crisis" would be aggravated as a result of the Supreme court decisions of Monday and that unless a constitutional convention was called only "patchwork New Deal legislation" could be passed by the present congress.

"Any such attempt as the latter," said the statement, "would be designed simply to circumvent the limitations placed on congress by the decisions and 'be a dishonest and futile gesture toward meeting the present problem.'"

Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.] said that it would take "forever" to get a constitutional amendment. More enthusiastic New Dealers, however, point out that the latest amendment was adopted within ten months and contend that the President, in view of his phenomenal popularity, would be able to get a New Deal amendment into the constitution in less time than that.

Amendment in Committee.

An amendment to the constitution legalizing the New Deal is already pending in a subcommittee of the senate judiciary committee headed by Senator William H. King [Dem., Utah]. It was introduced by Senator Edward P. Costigan [Dem., Colo.]. The Colorado senator said that he planned to press for early consideration and has already talked with a number of senators in regard to it.

Members of the subcommittee, besides Senator King, are: Logan of Kentucky, Burke of Nebraska, Norris of Nebraska and Hastings of Delaware.

In order to expedite ratification of the amendment, Senator Costigan suggested a conference of the governors of the 48 states might be called. Such a conference could be held as soon as congress has submitted the proposed amendment to the states. If the proposal is dramatised and it becomes evident that public opinion is back of the New Deal and the better regulation of business and labor, Senator Costigan believes ratification may be obtained within a year.

He admitted speed was the essence if effective action was to be had.

The Costigan amendment would empower congress to regulate hours and conditions of labor and to establish minimum wages in any employment. It also would empower congress to regulate production, industry, business, trade and commerce to prevent unfair methods and practices therein.

House Members Proposing Bills for NRA Substitutes

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—[Special.]—The fertile minds of congressmen today began turning out legislative proposals designed in some instances as substitutes for the National Recovery act and in others as aids to business in general.

The house adjourned, for all practical purposes, until next Monday. There was a brief session today and there will be another Friday, due to a constitutional limitation of three days upon recesses.

Typical of those laws tendered to replace the NRA was a bill offered by Representative James A. Shanley [Dem., Conn.] providing for federal licensing for the construction industry and distributing trades engaged in interstate commerce.

Claims "Constitutional Manner."

Shanley declared that the provisions of his bill could be used to extend the NRA principle to all industries "in a constitutional manner." He disclosed that the bill had been drawn with the aid of labor lawyers and said it was backed by labor forces. He announced that he would bring the bill before the house ways and means committee for a hearing next Monday.

A measure designed to aid small industries in particular was introduced by Representative Chauncey W. Reed [Rep., Ill.]. Providing for the establishment of a "United States industrial loan insurance corporation," with a capital stock of one billion dollars subscribed by the secretary of the treasury, the bill was referred to the committee on banking and currency.

A board of twelve directors, one from each federal district, would direct the affairs of the corporation, Reed explained. This board would establish in each district an advisory committee of five persons, each of whom would possess as qualifications at least ten years' practical experience as an industrial executive.

Provides for Board.

The board, under the law, would have the power to guarantee to any federal reserve, national or state bank the payment of principal and interest of any note issued by the bank for industrial purposes. Such paper must, under the law, be secured by negotiable warehouse receipts for industrial products; by chattel mortgages or mortgages not exceeding the realizable value of the property covered; or by life insurance policies in an equal amount to the note upon lives of the principal officers or directors.

No loan of more than $500,000 would be authorized and no guarantee would be furnished for loans maturing in more than five years. Any business would be allowed to deduct payments made upon such a loan from its income tax.

REILLY'S ACTION TO TIE UP HAUPTMANN FUNDS DISMISSED

Trenton, N. J., May 29.—(AP)—The action of Edward J. Reilly, Brooklyn attorney, to place Bruno Richard Hauptmann's defense fund in receivership, was dismissed today by Vice Chancellor Malcolm G. Buchanan.

Reilly, former chief defense counsel for the man convicted of the Lindbergh baby slaying, sought to restrain C. Lloyd Fisher, of the defense staf and the Flemington National Bank and Trust company for making disbursements to protect his own claim of $22,398 for services.

The vice chancellor, who heard arguments yesterday, asserted that instead of Hauptmann's being indebted to Reilly, the Brooklyn lawyer apparently owed the convicted man $5,000, allegedly obtained fraudulently.

"There are several affidavits to the effect that the complainant by fraudulent and inequitable means, obtained some $5,000 for his past services and disbursements from Mrs. Hauptmann out of the funds received by her as contributions for the purposes of appear," he said.

Text of President's Talk.

The rest of the President's talk follows:

"It is significant and fitting that a great enterprise should at this time be dedicated to future generations. The decision of the people of San Diego thus to dedicate the California Pacific International Exposition is, I believe, worthy of the courage and confidence with which our people now look to the future. No one can deny that we have passed through troubled years. No one can fail to feel the inspiration of your high purpose. I wish you great success.

"I shall always remember my visit with Vice President Marshall to the Pan-Pacific Exposition in 1916.

"Your exposition is an international one. You have been prepared to share your aspirations with the peoples of other nations. They have been quick to respond and many of them are actively participating in your efforts.

"So much of your tradition in southern California is closely associated with Latin-America that I am sure you must have noted with sympathy the increased cordiality of our relations with our sister republics. Recently it has been the sincere endeavor of the United States to remove causes of international friction and misunderstanding and to reveal our country as prepared to maintain its relations with the other nations of the Americas on a basis of entire equality and in terms of complete friendship. Surely such principles are the hope of our common future on this hemisphere.

Conscious of Obligations.

"The architecture of the exposition traces the course of human progress in your part of the country. The design of the federal building is based on the genius of a great race which long ago developed an advanced civilization in the regions to the south of you. The influence of the later Spanish and Mexican traditions is apparent in different buildings. Other features portray modern social, economic, and scientific developments.

"The American people are becoming increasingly conscious of their obligations to the citizens of tomorrow.

"Rightly desiring to direct our thoughts to the future, you have endeavored and have succeeded in giving to the very act of opening the exposition a symbol of our expectations of future generations. Two small children, a boy and a girl, unknown to you and to me, are stationed somewhere near you. I wish I could see them—perhaps some day I shall—but I now delegate to them on behalf of the present younger generation and of the unknown generations to come, the honor of throwing the switches that will illuminate the grounds and open the California Pacific International exposition."

Execute Russian for Thefts Equal to 2 Lbs. of Butter

MOSCOW, May 29.—(AP)—A robber named Bykoff, who netted 29 rubles (about 5$ cents) in three holdups, was executed today at Rostov-on-Don. The total loot would purchase about two pounds of butter at the present retail prices. Pavlo Krivoshey, a Ukrainian, was sentenced to death here for posing as a German specialist and obtaining funds from government trusts on the pretense he could make imitation cork. City authorities announced that swearing and discourtesy to women on the streets of Moscow are to be considered rowdyism hereafter, punishable by fine or deportation from the city.

Drops His Glasses 7,000 Feet; Returned Unbroken

Sacramento, Cal., May 29.—(AP)—Robert N. Hicks, coast artillery unit instructor, flying in an army bomber, dropped his glasses from 7,000 feet. Two days later a worker found them, unbroken, on a plot of cultivated ground.

REVIEW VICTIMS OF 'CRACKDOWN' POLICIES IN NRA

Imprisoned Jersey Tailor Heads the List.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

When the now moribund NRA began its "cracking down" process under the call of Gen. Hugh Johnson, then administrator, victims of the codes soon began to occupy headlines throughout the nation. Some were the weak and small.

Most prominent of the cases which hit the front pages were those of Jacob Maged, New Jersey pants presser, who went to jail for the "crime" of pressing a suit for 5 cents less than the code dictated, and Fred C. Perkins, a battery man of York, Pa., who spent eighteen days in jail unable to raise $5,000 bail, on the criminal charge of defiance of the New Deal.

972 Cases on Active List.

During the "crack down" there were twenty-three criminal convictions. In some of the cases the severity of the sentences under the NRA enforcement campaign evoked expressions of amazement. All told in the NRA litigation, criminal and equity, 1,704 cases were docketed, of which 732 are closed and 972 are still active.

With this went the snatching of Blue Eagles at a rapid rate, until it appeared that throughout the country the NRA and its codes were being about as loosely observed as was national prohibition in Volstead days.

Mr. Maged, whose case perhaps caused the most sensation as indicating the extreme to which NRA was traveling, has a little tailor shop in Union City, N. J. He had no helper, did his own work. On Jan. 24, 1934, Maged charged William J. Morgan 35 cents for pressing Morgan's coat, pants, and vest. The code fixed the price at 40 cents.

Maged was taken before Judge Robert V. Kinkaid in Jersey City, who held that infringement of the code by a 5 cent cut was a menace to the welfare of the community, and that the new social order demanded 40 cents.

Maged Is Sent to Jail.

Judge Kinkaid sentenced the pants presser to thirty days in jail, with a fine of $100. It was a conviction in a state court for violation of the New Jersey law, based on NRA, and the importance attached to the case by the government was seen by the presence in court of an assistant attorney general.

Maged said that with his limited knowledge of English he had mistaken the NRA investigators for racketeers seeking to invade the pants pressing industry, and that his 35 cent price was to meet the bargain rates advertised by competing clothes pressers.

His wife carried on the business and Maged went to jail. The widespread adverse comment, however, which followed the front page publicity given this case led the judge to call Maged back into court and set him free after he had served three days of his sentence. The fine also was remitted.

As reparation the judge, so Maged reported, ordered two suits of clothes.

The Case of Perkins.

One of the most publicized victims of the NRA, due largely to the plucky fight he waged single handed against the New Deal, was Perkins, the battery man, a descendant of Capt. Miles Standsh. Perkins has a small factory on the outskirts of York, Pa., where he makes storage batteries for farm lighting plants.

A graduate of Cornell university, Perkins started on a shoestring ten years ago, and slept in his flivver while selling to farmers. By hard work and great sacrifice on the part of himself and his family he built up his factory slowly. He said he took from the profits only enough for family living expenses and put the rest back into the business.

Spends 18 Days in Jail.

When the NRA became operative the battery manufacturers' code prescribed a minimum wage scale of 40 cents an hour. Perkins said at his rate of earnings this would put him in the red and his family on the dole. He had been paying 25 cents an hour and raised this by 5 cents. He asked Washington for an exemption, which was refused.

Perkins' Blue Eagle was snatched, and last June he was served with a federal bench warant specifying that unless he posted $5,000 bail he would be committed to jail pending trial. Unable to raise the bail, Perkins went to jail, where he spent 18 days. Then Mahlon N. Haines, a wealthy New York manufacturer, dug up a deed for $250,000 property, posted it as security and Perkins was released.

Last December Perkins was convicted in federal court and was fined $1,500 for violation of the minimum wage provision of the code. He at once appealed and carried his case to the United States Supreme court, where it is still on file. Meanwhile Perkins' employé have repeatedly declared that they were content with the wages they received.

In Kalamazoo, Mich., last November, Reginald S. French, a coal dealer and brother-in-law of U. S. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.], was found guilty of contempt of court as a violator of the NRA. He was convicted of violating an order that he abide by the NRA code, and was ordered by Federal Judge Fred M. Raymond to pay a fine of $300 or serve four months on the federal prison farm at Milan, Mich. In October, French had been jailed on his refusal to post a $3,000 bond pending trial.

Coal Code Held Illegal.

French appealed his conviction. In Grand Rapids on March 30 Judge Raymond held the NRA code was unconstitutional in its application to a Michigan case as an encroachment on the rights of states to regulate intrastate business. The court dissolved the injunction under whench French had been fined.

Among the NRA victims were the elderly sisters, the Misses Mary, Jessie, and Louise West of 2234 Maypole avenue, Chicago, who for twenty years had earned their livelihood by sewing baseballs in their homes. Their grandmother, Mrs. Catherine West, was one of the founders in 1860 of the Chicago Day Nursery and Half orphanage.

Last year the sisters lost their jobs because their employer, confused in the red tape of the codes, interpreted executive orders as restricting home work. A published story of the plight of the Misses West led NRA officials to hold that their dismissal was unnecessary under the codes, and their jobs were restored.

Job Taken from Mother.

The case of Mrs. Katherine Budd, a Brooklyn artificial flower maker with two small children to support, went in the opposite direction. A state labor permit had been issued to Mrs. Budd to work at her home.

But last July Nathan Straus Jr., code enforcer in New York, ordered the permit revoked. He pointed out that the NRA did not allow home work in this trade in the case of mothers with dependent children. Mrs. Budd's lawyers advised her to defy the NRA and resume the making of flowers.

Gordon S. Harris, an automobile dealer, was the first person found guilty in New York of violating the New York law which was passed to enforce the NRA. In the state courts last August Harris was sentenced to three months in the Tombs after he had refused to pay a $500 fine. Later he withdrew an appeal and paid the fine. Harris had been found guilty of selling an automobile to a code investigator for $50 less than the code list price.

First Corporation Convicted.

The first business corporation convicted under NRA codes was the Allied Dye and Print Works, Inc., of Clifton, N. J. It was fined $1,000 in the federal court at Trenton in April, 1934, for working its employés on a Saturday in violation of the code for this industry which specifies that plants must halt production from 6 a. m. Saturdays to 6 a. m. Mondays.

Leniency was asked by the company on the explanation that silk run through the printing machinery Friday nights had to be placed in the drying machinery on Saturdays or the materials would be spoiled.

Last March James E. Campbell, a coal operator of Cleveland, was sentenced to ten days in jail and fined $17,500 for contempt of court in a case prosecuted by the NRA. He was charged with publishing allegedly misleading advertisements after the court had enjoined him from doing so. The NRA contended that Campbell cut coal prices below the coal code level. The case is on appeal.

Complaints Flood Washington.

Meanwhile complaints against the NRA poured into Washington, and never since prohibition days was there such a swarm of trouble. Business men complained of monopolistic practices under the codes, workers complained of chiseling on wages and hours, industrialists pointed to wide collapse of the codes, unions protested over section 7a, the collective bargaining provision.

Figures from Washington show that last August 71,894 complaints against the New Deal's NRA had been filed in the first 13 months since the codes went into effect.

Blue Eagles were being plucked back. In some instances this was followed by closing of factories. In Tennessee, near Knoxville, 653 employés of the Harriman Hosiery mills were thrown out of work for a time last summer when the company closed its doors after the Blue Eagle had been snatched.

In the city of Harriman 69 business and professional men pulled down their eagles as a gesture of sympathy. The attorney general later refused to prosecute the company on the NRA charges.

Another Factory Is Closed.

Another factory which closed when the Blue Eagle was yanked was that of the G. & H. Clothing company at Fredericksburg, Va. It is a unit of L. Greif & Brother, Inc., of Baltimore. About 500 workers were the victims. The company said the plant, closed for the first time in 24 years, would be shut down indefinitly.

NRA ordered the Greif company to pay $200,000 in back wages—it has ten plants. The company said it was paying the code minimum and that NRA was trying to dictate the wages to be paid above the minimum. The upshot was that last July Federal Judge W. Calvin Chesnut in Baltimore signed an order restraining NRA from its efforts, and in September NRA in Washington accepted a licking in this famous case, approved the company's proposed piece work system, and gave it a bill of health.

JAILED BY NRA

Jacob Maged, New Jersey tailor who went to jail for cutting prices below code scale, declared he "knew NRA was unconstitutional all along."

REV. COUGHLIN'S AGENT SEEKING HALL FOR RALLY

E. J. Steiner, local representative of the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, Detroit radio priest, yesterday sought a hall where the members of the National Union for Social Justice can hear their leader next Wednesday night. Use of Soldiers' field by Father Coughlin and his followers was denied Tuesday by the Chicago park board.

In Detroit, Father Coughlin declared that the refusal of the park board was "hardly worth commenting on" and added that some place would be obtained for the scheduled meeting. The Chicago Civil Liberties committee addressed a telegram to Robert J. Dunham, president of the park board, protesting the board's action and urging that Soldiers' field be turned over to Father Coughlin.

Steiner, late yesterday, had been unable to obtain an adequate hall, but insisted that the rally of the National Union would be held.

RETURN SUICIDE VERDICT.

Mrs. Gene Landon, 38 years old, 554 Meadow road, Winnetka, wife of Benson Landon Jr., official of the Bennett Landon Web company of Chicago, who was found dead of poison in her home Tuesday, committed suicide while temporarily insane over ill health, a coroner's jury determined yesterday.

Johnson Fears Wage, Price Cuts with NRA 'Dead as Dodo'

Washington, D. C., May 29.—(AP)—Warning that in the wake of destruction of NRA codes "decent living standards for labor are running out like sand in an hour glass," Hugh S. Johnson took to the radio tonight with an appeal for the agency launched under his hand.

Speaking a few hours after he had conferred with President Roosevelt, Johnson told his audience it should communicate to congress a "demand that everything left by the court's decision be saved."

Wages, Prices Cut.

"Price slashing in every direction has begun," said Johnson. "The New York office of NRA has had more telephone calls than in its palmiest day," said the former NRA chief, "all asking if it is perfectly safe now to cut wages and extend hours of labor. Spot news from the whole country is to the same effect."

Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, said his office had received today reports from 17 states of wage and price cutting. He added that he wanted to "emphasize all the general had said."

Taking cognizance of efforts outside governmental circles to preserve NRA features through voluntary effort, Johnson said: "Many beautiful gestures have been made. The chamber of commerce and the manufacturers' association have appealed to all industry to live up to code standards voluntarily. It is a commendable and sincere thought."

Tells Gist of Decision.

Then Johnson added that this course was "utterly impossible" because the "chiseling fringe—the selfish 10 per cent under our competitive system—can always kill the wages paid by the high minded 90 per cent down to their own level unless somewhere there is a power to protect decency."

"The branch of the court's opinion which destroyed the codes," he said, "merely said that a part of the law was bad because it left entirely to one man—instead of retaining in the congress—the duty of prescribing those rules to govern business which are believed to be fair and necessary and that since those rules were attempted to be enforced by penalties that this amounted to lawmaking—a duty which the congress could not delegate to the President or to anybody.

"We know now, by two years of trial and error, what practices tend toward monopoly, toward the oppression of the little fellow, toward the destruction of business in one part of the country by the domination or unfair advantage of business in another part of the country, and it will be possible for NRA to work out, for the consideration of congress, a set of precise definitions of fair practice.

"A law along that line would meet every criticism of the court on that branch of the case and would, I think, restore all the beneficial aspects of NRA in regulating trade practices."

INDUSTRIES LEAD MOVE TO RETAIN BENEFITS OF NRA

Few Businesses to Cut Pay, Lengthen Hours.

While the state National Recovery administration executives received word here yesterday from Washington to encourage voluntary compliance with wage and hour provisions of the codes until June 16 at least, reports continued to come in from almost every section of the country that industry and business leaders were determined to continue the beneficial policies of NRA.

A few scattered reports from the south announced reduction in wages and increase in working hours. From the owner of a chain of theaters in ten downstate communities came the counter announcement that he had granted wage increases of 5 per cent to 100 employés immediately after the Supreme court killed the NRA.

Taking the lead along with steel and other big industries and businesses is Armour & Co., which announced the mutually satisfactory relations with their employés will be maintained. Other firms making similar announcements were the General Foods corporation, the Warner Brothers theaters in Chicago, the Underwood Elliott-Fisher company, 210 West Monroe street, and the Greyhound Bus corporation of New York.

Druggists Hear Plea.

Members of the National Retail Druggists' association executive board, in session at the Sherman hotel, declared they were rapidly getting in touch with member concerns to urge maintenance of prices and working conditions from employés. Reports came from Denver that some drug stores there had already started a price war. Conditions in Chicago, however, were reported normal.

Industrial leaders in Texas indicated they had no intention of abandoning the present mode of operation. W. R. Phipps, manager of the Wichita Gas company, emphatically denied reports that the company was discarding the wage and hour provisions of the NRA.

No Change for Oil Company.

At Cleveland the Standard Oil Company of Ohio asserted that the decision of the Supreme court would in no way affect existing wage and hour schedules of its employés. R. E. Howe, secretary-treasurer of Appalachian Coals, Inc., sent word from Cincinnati, O., that strong efforts were being made by producers to keep the coal price structure intact.

David R. Clarke, general counsel for the Illinois Manufacturers' association, declared he would probably have a statement today for member firms. No reports had been received at his office of any price cutting or change in employés working conditions.

In New York and Kansas City department stores cut the price of cigarets and books to act as advertising leaders, and brought criticism from officials of the tobacco industry for this "unethical" practice.

Cosmetic Prices Tumble.

Cosmetic prices in New York also tumbled, while several small garment factories and business houses in Greenville, S. C.; Gastonia, N. C.; Charlotte, N. C.; Lincolnton, N. C., and Knoxville, Tenn., asserted they had cut wages and increased working hours.

A voluntary agreement pledging a continuation of provisions of the cotton garment code, with emphasis on the wage and hour provisions, was announced last night by a group of 30 Chicago and Illinois cotton garment manufacturers following a conference in the Hotel La Salle. Their plants employ 6,000 persons.

NRA Decision Anticipated.

That the Supreme court's decision had been anticipated here was revealed yesterday for the first time by Howard C. Dunn, assistant to Frederic L. Roberts, state NRA director. The lease on their offices in the Wrigley building was canceled May 10, to be effective June 16, the date NRA officially expires. Many of the employés are also prudently taking their vacations now, Mr. Dunn said, while most of the help is hopeful that the benefits of the NRA [including their jobs] will be retained in some new plan formulated at Washington.

At the headquarters of the Emergency Relief commission no effect of the abolishment of NRA has been felt yet. Contract buying, suspended during the relief crisis, will not be fully resumed until next week, and officials stated they had no way of determining how much money will be saved by non-NRA prices.

TAXICAB DRIVER SENTENCED FOR SLAYING WOMAN

Theodore Prade, 36 years old, a taxicab driver, was found guilty of the murder of Mrs. Anni Solan, 17 year old expectant mother, by a jury in the Criminal court of Judge E. L. Frankhauser yesterday and sentenced to 14 years in the penitentiary.

Prade and Frank Junior, 2556 Iowa street, Mrs. Solan's father, had driven on a round of taverns last Feb. 24 and when Prade took his passenger to his home they quarreled over a cab bill of $11.95. Junior protested he had been held up and robbed of $30 that evening and was unable to pay. When Prade left the house he fired three shots through the front window and one struck Mrs. Solan, who was visiting her parents. She died two hours later.

Judge Frankhauser set June 12 to hear a motion for a new trial. The case was prosecuted by Assistant State's Attorney Alexander Napoli.

3,000 Uniformed Policemen Undergo Yearly Inspection

While three thousand Chicago policemen stood at attention yesterday in Grant park, Supervising Captain Daniel Gilbert, head of the uniformed division, walked past the platoons for the annual inspection. Capt. Gilbert was accompanied by Supervising Captain Thomas E. Wolfe and Sergt. William J. Keenan. Uniforms were the principal object of the inspection, and it was reported that many policemen who have been assigned to plain clothes duty for several years, but not officially taken out of uniform, had difficulty in finding fellow officers of their own size from whom they could borrow uniforms for the inspection.

STEEL INDUSTRY WILL KEEP CODE HOURS AND PAY

Insists Price Levels Must Be Retained.

New York, May 29.—[Special.]—Leaders of the steel industry today said they were determined to maintain wages, hours of work, fair trade practices, and some other features of the code. Gains traceable to the code would be consolidated, they said, by voluntary, individual action of the principal companies.

This method may be necessary because of the likelihood that new NRA legislation, reviving the codes, would not be enacted at this session of congress, the steel leaders said, to make it possible for the industry to engage openly in effort to stabilize fair trade practices and wage levels.

The suggestion was made in some quarters of the industry that legislation be enacted promptly by congress, which would clearly sanction such joint activities. This might remove the fear that the anti-trust laws would be invoked against companies engaging in coöperative movement to preserve worth while code principles.

Labor's Gains Recalled.

The steel executives made their views known in a series of statements issued individually by spokesmen for most of the large companies. Most of the statements mentioned the gains which labor had made under the steel code, and warned that it might be impossible to retain the higher pay scale if the old cut-throat competitive practices were revived.

Since June, 1933, when the steel code was adopted, it was pointed out, the number of steel employés increased from 338,146 to 424,623 in April, 1935, the industry's pay roll increased from $30,561,000 in June, 1933, to $45,390,000 last month, and the average hours worked per week by wage earners declined from 39.4 in June, 1933, to 34.2 hours last month. During this period a large proportion of the steel companies were able to place their operations on a moderately profitable basis.

Prices to Be Maintained.

Although there has been no price cutting in the steel industry, it is recognized that price stability, and the maintenance of wages with the passing of the steel code, depends on the voluntary efforts of the individual companies. This attempt of the individual companies to maintain the code principles after the passing of the NRA might in time break up, unless the industry is allowed more leeway than is permitted under the anti-trust laws, some executives believe.

Buying of steel has already slowed down since the Supreme court's decision, but the industry hopes to convince consumers that the price structure would be maintained.

Nathan Leopold, "Lifer," Resumes College Studies

Nathan Leopold, who, with Richard Loeb, is serving a life sentence in the Joliet penitentiary for the murder of Bobby Franks, has resumed his studies with the University of Chicago that were interrupted by his conviction in 1924, it was revealed yesterday. He enrolled recently in the university's correspondence courses on "Introduction to Hieroglyphics" and "Elementary Theory of Equations."

Will Live in Rome

New York, May 29.—(AP)—Margaret Roosevelt, distant cousin of the President, was married today to Lieut. Alessandro Pallavicini of Rome.

They were married in St. James' Episcopal church by the bride's grandfather, the Rev. Charles Morris Addison, and her uncle, the Rev. James Thayer Addison. She wore a gown of heavy ivory satin worn 33 years ago by her aunt, the former Christine Roosevelt when she was married to Capt. James Etter Shelley, United States army.

The maid of honor was her younger sister, Medora, who is reported engaged to Massimo Treves of Milan, Italy. Two more Roosevelts, Philip and Archibald, were among the ushers.

After a wedding trip to Bermuda, where the Roosevelts have a winter home, Signor Pallavicini and his bride will live in Rome. His father, Arrigo, a former banker, is now in the radio business.

MILK DRIVERS VOTE TO STRIKE IN WAGE DISPUTE

Chicago's union milk wagon drivers voted 2,599 to 949 to strike last night because the dealers have refused their demand for a $5 a week increase in wages.

The strike vote, however, is still subject to review by the Chicago Teamsters' Joint council and the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, before an actual walkout takes place.

The ballots of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union were counted at the Ashland boulevard auditorium last night, under the supervision of George A. Mitchell of the joint council, and showed a substantial margin over the two-thirds majority required to call a strike.

The balloting came after complete failure of negotiations with the Associated Milk Dealers, Inc. The drivers pointed out that they had taken two cuts, totalling $10 a week, in 1932. Since that time, they said, the price of milk has increased at least 2 cents a quart, yet their pay remains the same. Dealers maintain that under present market conditions, they cannot afford to grant an increase.

A Wife Can't Live on Old Produce, She Tells Court

Mrs. Ruth Baren, 3616 Ainslie street, was granted temporary alimony of $15 a week by Superior Judge Walter T. Stanton yesterday. She and her husband, Elmer, a vegetable seller, are suing each other for divorce, both charging cruelty. Questioned by her attorney, Victor Frohlich, Mrs. Baren testified yesterday that the only contribution her husband has made toward her support since their separation has been vegetables and eggs that he couldn't sell because of their age.

SENATE TAKES UP UTILITY BILL AND IGNORES LESSON

Roar of 'Ayes' Brings Out New Deal Measure.

Washington, D. C., May 29.—[Special.]—If there was a belief in some quarters that the Supreme court's momentous decisions of last Monday would have a salutary effect upon congress, putting an end to slapdash legislation without regard to its constitutionality, the senate dispelled any such notions today.

Three members of the interstate commerce committee warned that the Supreme court's decisions in the NRA and Frazier-Lemke cases threatened the Wheeler-Rayburn public utility bill, urged that it be recommitted for further study, and then heard it made the senate's pending business by a roar of "ayes."

Charges Unconstitutionality.

Senator Wallace H. White [Rep., Me.] said he had been advised by an eminent constitutional lawyer that the bill was so unconstitutional "that a wagon and team of horses could be driven through it in seven different directions."

Senator Daniel O. Hastings [Rep., Del.], a lawyer himself, said the measure not only violated the fifth amendment in its attempt to confiscate property without just compensation, but was an effort to invade the commerce powers reserved to the states. The Frazier-Lemke decision would apply in the first case, and the NRA decision in the second, he said.

Senator William H. Dieterich [Dem., Ill.] pleaded that there was no "emergency" demanding immediate action on the bill, urged that it be recommitted first to the interstate commerce committee and then to the judiciary committee.

"If the nature of this bill is such that we had better move a little more slowly, we had better give it more consideration or we'll find ourselves in the same position we were in the day before yesterday," said Senator Dieterich. "If this bill means the end of private ownership of the utilities dealt with by its provisions, we should be careful."

Among Most Controversial.

The question then was on the motion of Senator Burton K. Wheeler [Dem., Mont] to take up the bill and a great shout of "ayes" went up. It is a part of the Roosevelt "must" program.

The Wheeler-Rayburn bill, one of the most controversial measures on the New Deal's program, is designed to abolish all holding companies which cannot justify their existence, to the satisfaction of the securities and exchange commission, within five years, and to regulate operating companies in such manner that will, in the opinion of some senators, lead to government ownership.

Senator Hastings, who prepared a minority report signed by three other committee members, disclosed on the senate floor that the majority had resorted to an extraordinary procedure in reporting out the bill. The committee attached various amendments to the original bill and then introduced a new bill incorporating them. In this manner the senate was prevented from considering, one by one, the committee amendments.

Wheeler Denies Deception.

Senator Wheeler denied that he or the majority members of the committee had sought to deceive any one. He charged that all objections to the measure were inspired by "power trust propaganda," saying that he himself had received more than 3,000 letters opposing it.

To this Senator Hastings replied that only three witnesses appeared before the committee in support of it—Dr. Walter M. W. Splawn, Col. William T. Chantland, and Thomas G. Corcoran—"all government employés." He also recalled that Senator Wheeler, chairman of the committee, limited the time of the opposition, saying, "There is going to be no carrying on indefinitly in our hearings."

Senator Hastings argued at length with Senator Wheeler on the question whether the bill sought to abolish holding companies which are wholly intrastate and hence beyond the reach of the federal government. Wheeler contended that such companies would be exempted by the securities and exchange commission.

Here's News! Ad Men Plan Speechless Dinner

America's advertising men have announced a "speechless banquet" for the convention of the Advertising Federation of America which opens at the Palmer house on June 9. "We have decided to give the delegate a break," said G. R. Schaeffer, advertising manager of Marshall Field & Co. and chairman of the program committee. More than 2,000 advertising executives are expected to attend.

City Honors Heroes of '61 in Mighty Parade Today

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

"The Grand Army of the Republic charges you with the maintaining of patriotism in our land by the proper observance of Memorial days to come; charges you to keep this sacred obligation to its single purpose, and charges you to provide now and in the future that the control and management shall be in the hands of veterans of wars of the nation, so long as any remain."

This preamble by the by-laws committee of the Grand Army of the Republic Memorial association, in which the soldiers of '61-'65 sought to hand on the spirit of Memorial day undimmed to the veterans of other wars of the nation, has served to direct today's observance of the day in Cook county, the 67th Memorial day in the history of Chicago.

The veterans who started this observance in 1868 by placing flowers on the graves of blue and gray alike in a southern cemetery will not be here much longer to watch the tossing plumes of the big parade and thrill to the old music.

Ten years ago 350 survivors of the struggle between north and south marched down Michigan boulevard. This year leaders of the Grand Army hope to assemble 45 veterans who, no longer able to march, will ride in luxurious automobiles. There are many towns which, like Western Springs, have no one left to tell the story.

But the Memorial association carries on, not only through the spectacle of parades, the interpretation of speeches, but in visiting the graves of all the comrade dead. Their concept of the day is to honor the defenders of our country, to draw the lessons which their sacrifice teaches and to renew our pledge that this country of ours shall remain, with the help of God, a government of free people.

Other Veterans to March.

Organizations participating in leadership of the many programs and rituals of the day are the American Legion, Dames of Loyal Legion, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, Disabled American Veterans, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, Loyal Legion, Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War, United Spanish War Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Women's Relief Corps.

The 1935 Memorial day parade is to be one of the largest ever organized. The National Guard, which has been absent for the last two years on account of participation in opening day ceremonies at A Century of Progress, will be in line with a new formation of two regiments marching side by side. They will serve as escorts of honor to the American Legion. The Thirty-third division and attached troops of Chicago organizations will participate.

The weather forecast carried a threat of shower in the afternoon, but held out hope that they might hold off until night.

Starts at Chicago Avenue.

The parade will march at 2 p. m. from Chicago avenue and will move south on Michigan avenue to Roosevelt road, turning west at that point to disband. Col. James H. Campbell, national chief of staf of the G. A. R., will be grand marshal. Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, commanding general of the Sixth corps area, will be the guest of honor of the Republic Memorial association. Gov. Henry Horner will be the reviewing officer in chief. His escort will be the Chicago Black Horse troop and band. Among the reviewing officers will be Senator James Hamilton Lewis and Mayor Edward J. Kelly. Northwestern Military and Naval academy and band will act as honorary escort to the reviewing officers. St. John's Military academy of Delafield, Wis., will act as honorary escort to the marshal and his staf.

The G. A. R. remnant will assemble on the south side of Huron street, west of Rush street. The George H. Thomas post hopes to have twenty-two members present. Six posts are represented by one veteran only.

Reception for Veterans.

A reception will be held for them in Memorial hall at 12:30 p. m. The Past President's club of Daughters of Union Veterans will serve refreshments to members of the grand army during the parade.

Next to the G. A. R. the disabled war veterans from the Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital will receive the most attention. They will be brought from hospitals in private automobiles and will assemble at East Superior street and Michigan avenue. They will leave the line of march at Roosevelt road and go to the Hotel Sherman where they will be served with a roast chicken dinner and entertained by an array of theatrical and radio stars.

A solemnly high field mass will be celebrated at the hospital at 9:30 a. m. before the veterans leave.

Special programs were held in classrooms and assembly halls in the Chicago schools yesterday. At Lake View High school a story telling circle was formed around two G. A. R. veterans. Superintendent of Schools William J. Bogan issued a statement to the schools on the observance of the day.

Naval Service at 11 A. M.

Naval post, No. 372, American Legion, will hold the only naval service of the day in Chicago. They will assemble at 11 o'clock at the Naval armory at the foot of East Randolph street. Lieutenant Commander Nathaniel Rubinkam will deliver an address, a wreath will be placed on the waters, followed by salute and taps.

Memorial day services will include the third annual roll call of Chicago firemen who died in the line of duty. The service will be held at All Saints' church, West 25th place and Wallace street.

CIVIL WAR BIRD

"OLD ABE THE EAGLE."

Seventy years ago today there opened in Chicago the Great Sanitary fair, for the benefit of returning Union soldiers, for that year, 1865, marked the end of the civil war. "Old Abe," the 8th Wisconsin regiment's live eagle, played an important part in that fair.

The Wisconsin soldiers had carried "Old Abe" through three years' of battle in southern fields, and his picture was printed on vestpocket size cards to raise money for the fair. The cards were sold for 15 cents each, 10 for a dollar or $9 for a hundred. Alfred L. Sewel, Chicago publisher, was the distributor of the cards, and a few years later said:

"I told my wife I expected to make $1,000 for the benefit of the sick and wounded soldiers who were returning from the south. I turned in to the Sanitary fair about $16,000."

ASK DISBARMENT OF MALMIN ON ICKES CHARGES

Bar Reports to the State Supreme Court.

The disbarment of Lucius J. M. Malmin and C. W. Larsen, Chicago attorneys, on the ground that they had used unethical methods in an attempt to obtain a political appointment through Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, was recommended to the Illinois Supreme court yesterday by the Chicago Bar association.

Ickes made the complaint to the bar association in March of last year and hearings were held by the association's committee on grievances, acting as commissioners of the Supreme court. The disbarment recommendation, based on the committee report, was filed by the bar association's board of managers yesterday.

Finding of Commission.

The commissioners found that Malmin, who wanted an appointment as governor of the Virgin Islands, and Larsen, who had made a complaint against Ickes' conduct of a court case, had shown "a lack of good moral character" tending to bring the profession of law and the courts of justice into "disrepute and contempt" in bringing pressure on Ickes to get Malmin the appointment.

Malmin said yesterday that he would fight the recommendation in the Supreme court. He was formerly a federal judge of the Virgin Islands. Larsen, who was not reached for comment, is a former assistant corporation counsel.

Frederick Z. Marx, Ickes' personal attorney in Chicago, declared that the case would be prosecuted to the fullest extent. Marx is expected to act as a "friend of the court" with Charles P. Megan, counsel for the bar association, when the case is argued in the Supreme court. The two defendants have ten days within which to file exceptions to the findings of the bar committee.

Larsen, according to charges of Ickes' counsel during the hearings, wanted an assistant federal district attorneyship. The bar report said he had been cognizant of Malmin's use of the documents, and that, while his purposes might not have been identical as to the fruit of the activities, his conduct was "equally reprehensible."

Prosecution Is Assured.

The background for the action reaches back to 1926, when Ickes, practicing law in Chicago, was retained to handle the estate of one Clarence Arthur Saunders, valued at $12,469 and consisting mainly of two lots in Los Angeles. Ickes received $1,352 in fees approved by the Probate court.

In 1931 Larsen, saying he represented the heirs, made complaint to Ickes that he had charged excessive fees. On the day that the news came out that Ickes was to become a Roosevelt cabinet member, according to the bar association report, Larsen served notice that he was filing a petition complaining of Ickes' conduct in the case.

Petition Is Refused.

The Probate court refused to entertain the petition and the state's attorney's office found, after an investigation, that the complaint was groundless. Malmin is alleged, however, to have called on Ickes in Washington armed with the petition and demanding that he be made governor of the Virgin Islands.

The bar association commissioners said in their report that it was immaterial whether there was ground for criticism of Ickes' conduct in the Saunders case; that the issue lay in the use of the charges for the purpose of intimidation.

SWEITZER TAX FUND MYSTERY IS CLEARED UP

Most of It Due Villages; Obstacles Charged.

the village makes up the $1,000 from its available funds, pays the bond holder and keeps the $1,000 bond as an asset in place of the cash.

Meanwhile the county treasurer, who acts as the village's agent in collecting the special assessment, orders the delinquent properties sold for taxes but the village in the case of special assessments, usually withdraws the delinquent properties from tax sale in order to save costs and interest to the owner. The property is then listed with the county clerk by the treasurer for collection of the delinquent assessment through the lien claimed by the village.

Money Goes Into Fund.

When the property owner finally pays his delinquent assessment and costs into the clerk's office, that money becomes a part of the so called tax redemption fund, subject to the claim of the municipality. But the village officials may have forgotten that the bonds listed in the village assets represent money due from the county clerk. Or they may not know how to go about getting the money from the clerk. In this way the tax redemption fund has been built up.

It is when the village becomes aware of its claim and tries to collect it that it may encounter the difficulties explained by Mr. Mau.

According to Clerk Flynn these difficulties will no longer beset the small municipalities. He announced yesterday that he was inaugurating a system whereby as soon as money is due a municipality, its officials will be notified by letter to come and get the cash.

Smith Hits "Dilly Dallying."

Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board, declared yesterday that Sweitzer's tactics in failing to make up the shortage charged against him are "dilly dallying, embarrassing to the board." Smith said that if Sweitzer does not pay the money when he appears before the board on Monday, State's Attorney Courtney will be asked to advise the county commissioners on immediate legal steps.

"Such a matter should be settled at once," Smith said. "Sweitzer is embarrassing the board by his dilly dallying and pleading for more time. He at least ought to be willing to put the money in escrow if he has it, as he has said he has. I think we are giving him reasonable time to make his accounting and if the matter ever goes to court, I don't think it can be charged that the board has been unreasonable.

"The conditions revealed in the audit are now above all of us county officials. It is the public that demands a recoking."

Sweitzer said that he had turned the audit over to a firm of accountants, whom he would not name. He said he was uncertain, however, whether they could complete their study by Monday.

It was learned that in the event crminal prosecution results from the investigation of the audit by State's Attorney Courtney's assistants, there is a possibility that an embezzlement charge could be based only on $15,225 of the $14,129 shortage. According to the statute of limitations in ordinary embezzlement cases, only transactions for three years preceding the return of the indictment can be included in its counts. The audit shows that since 1932 there was a shortage of $15,225 in the interest received by Sweitzer on funds he administered.

A Continuing Embezzlement?

If, however, a continuing embezzlement could be shown, all of the transactions revealed in the audit from 1922 on, including the shortage in the redemption fund, might be made the basis of an indictment involving the entire $414,129, it was said.

The commission appointed by Mr. Smith to investigate auditing methods in all county offices will hold its first meeting at 10:30 tomorrow morning in his office. Walter L. Gregory, president of the State Street council, one of those named to the commission, will be unable to attend, but the seven other members will meet with Mr. Smith, who is an ex-officio member.

MUSSOLINI PLANS TO PUT 1,000,000 MEN UNDER ARMS

Will Increase Italian Military Strength.

ROME, May 29.—(AP)—A communique announcing an Italian mobilization even greater than that of recent date, will be issued within a few days, it was learned today.

Since Premier Mussolini said in his speech to the senate that he intended keeping between 800,000 and 900,000 men under arms, the new communique may announce the increase of this figure to 1,000,000.

Include Fascist Volunteers.

It was explained the mobilization communique refers both to Italy's East African forces and to the government's intention of replacing immediately in Italy all troops sent to Africa.

It is expected the communique will announce the augmented forces will include Fascist volunteer divisions as well as those of the regular army.

Military circles said a new division of blackshirts would be mustered in in southern Italy after June 15 to be trained for East African service.

The division will be called the "twenty-first of April" commemorating the date of the founding of Rome. Gen. Appiotti of the regular army will be its commander.

Third New Division.

The new division will be the third to be mobilized since Premier Mussolini announced early last month that five divisions totaling 40,000 militiamen, would be sent to Italy's African colonies bordering on Ethiopia.

Two divisions are now being transported to the colonies. The "twenty-first of April" will be given 50 days of training before it embarks.

Policeman Plays with Gun and Bullet Injures Four

Poplar Bluff, Mo., May 29.—(AP)—It was a versatile bullet. It shattered as it struck the sidewalk after being fired by Policeman Eli Sliger from an automatic pistol. Sliger's feet were burned. City Fireman Barney Lieumkeuhler was injured in one eye, Fireman Kirkpatrick was wounded in the leg, and Fireman Jack Verble was struck in the right cheek. The firemen were watching Sliger pursue his hobby—"mess with guns."

'INDISCREET' WIFE DEMANDS $250,000 FOR MATE'S LOVE

Los Angeles, Cal., May 29.—[Special.]—Latest lively aftermath of the married love quadrangular litigation of the Emerson and Sewell families landed in the local courts today in the form of a $250,000 damage action filed by Mrs. Leah Clampitt Sewell against Mrs. Jane Scholtz Emerson.

During hearing of the original tangled divorce matters Mrs. Emerson and Millionaire Barton Sewell both testified they spent nights together. Their accusations bracketing the names of Mrs. Sewell and Walter Emerson, actor, were not sustained by Superior Judge Ben Lindsey except to the point that Mrs. Sewell had been "guilty of indiscretion, but not of misconduct."

Mrs. Sewell, who likewise has a separate maintenance action pending here against Sewell, in today's legal papers accuses Mrs. Emerson's wealthy mother, Mrs. Blanche P. Scholtz of a prominent Denver, Colo., family, of having aided Mrs. Emerson and Sewell in carrying on clandestine relationship. Mrs. Sewell's action states that Mrs. Scholtz repeatedly has aided Mrs. Emerson to meet Sewell since last December, mentioning the Scholtz home, the home of Sewell's rich mother, and various mountain cabins, hotel rooms, and apartment suites. Mrs. Sewell states that Mrs. Emerson possesses a personal fortune exceeding $10,000.

Barton Sewell, the estranged husband whose conduct was denounced by Judge Lindsey during the original court hearings, has taken up Nevada residence with announced intention of suing for divorce from today's plaintiff.

EX-CONVICTS HELD AS ROBBERS.

John McMahon, 32 years old, and John Lavelle, 27 years old, both ex-convicts, were held in bonds of $10,000 each yesterday by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in the Felony court after they had been identified as robbers.

FEWER DIE IN WAR GAMES THAN IN HOME BASES

Washington, D. C., May 29.—[Special.]—Results of the recent naval maneuvers in the Pacific were hailed as "highly gratifying" today by Secretary Swanson, although he expressed sorrow over the fatalities which occurred.

"It is significant to note that had the fleet remaind at anchor during this period in their home ports and bases the total number of fatalities to fleet personnel resulting from automobile and motorcycle accidents alone would—based upon past statistics—have exceeded the deaths that were the direct result of these maneuvers and exercises."

FLEET HONORS DEAD FLYERS.

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii, May 29.—(AP)—The American fleet paused a while today to pay tribute to its dead in the recent mid-Pacific war maneuvers and then went to work again on the last phase of the far-flung operations. Memorial services were held at the fleet air base for the six aviators who died when their fighting plane plunged into the sea off Midway Islands last week.

Afterward submarines departed to take up positions off Pearl Harbor. Destroyers will leave tomorrow. The base will be put to a crucial test Friday when the battle fleet "fights" submarines.

BALABAN OUTING PARTY IN CRASH; GIRL DIES; 2 HURT

Chauffeur's Car Hits Another on Road.

One girl was killed, and a woman and a 9 year old girl were seriously injured yesterday when an automobile carrying members of a holiday outing party of John Balaban, vice president of Balaban & Katz Inc., crashed into another machine on the Ogden avenue road two miles east of Naperville.

The dead girl was Miss Irma Sivert, 18 years old, maid employed by Mrs. G. S. Newsom, 35 years old, who lives on Bauer road, three miles northeast of Naperville. Mrs. Newsom and her daughter, Marcia, riding in the same car were injured.

Mr. Balaban, who lives at 4950 Chicago Beach drive, was on his way to the summer home of J. J. Rubens, division manager of the Great States-Publix Theaters, near Plano, in Kendall county. He was riding in his car with his wife and two children.

Maids, Chauffeur in Crash.

In another car, belonging to Rubens, and driving just ahead of the Balaban car, were Margie Stover and Mary Grass, maids at the Balaban home, and the machine was driven by Clifford Alman, Rubens' chauffeur.

Mrs. Newsom had driven out of a farmhouse yard and across the road, directly into the path of the car driven by Alman. The Newsom auto was overturned and partially destroyed.

Marcia Newsom, her chest crushed, was carried into the farm house. Mrs. Newsom was taken to the Copley hospital in Aurora by Mr. Balaban, who drove up just after the accident. The Sivert girl died on the way to the same hospital.

Woman Dies After Crash.

Mrs. Josephine Quigley, 29 years old, 5215 South Sangamon street, died in the Evangelical Deaconess hospital yesterday, of injuries incurred Sunday when the car in which she was riding with her husband, William, collided with a stolen automobile at 53d and Aberdeen streets. Mr. Quigley also was hurt. The thieves, who were unhurt, leaped from the other car and escaped. They had stolen the machine from A. D. Gormley, 3558 Archer avenue.

The death of Mrs. Quigley and two others brought the 1935 traffic toll for Cook county to 300. Until 4 p. m. yesterday 293 had been killed in traffic accidents within the Chicago city limits and 5,165 had been injured. The others who died yesterday:

Francis X. Hayes, 27 years old, 111 North Spring avenue, La Grange. Killed when he was struck by an automobile while crossing Ogden avenue at Linden avenue in Western Springs. He was an insurance salesman. A. J. Du Bois, 552 North York road, Hinsdale, driver of the car, was absolved of blame by a coroner's jury which returned a verdict of accidental death.

William Turner, 60 years old, colored. Killed by a hit and run driver whose car struck him in front of 3405 South State street.

Mrs. Mark A. Ross, 69 years old, of Braeburn avenue, Flossmoor, was injured seriously, and Mrs. Theodore Fisse, her niece, was less seriously hurt yesterday when their automobile collided with another in Rosehill cemetery. Mrs. Ross, who was driving, had gone to the cemetery to place flowers on the grave of her husband. John Biewer, employé of a monument company, was the driver of the other car. Mrs. Ross incurred fractures of both legs. Mrs. Fisse was cut and bruised.

Fined for Tipsy Driving.

Bernard Pallasch, 46 years old, 3611 Pine Grove avenue, was found guilty in Municipal court of driving while intoxicated and leaving the scene of an accident. Judge J. M. Braude fined him $200 on each charge. Pallasch was arrested after his truck had crashed into two others on April 22, injuring one man slightly. Judge Braude released Pallasch in bonds of $400 and set Nov. 27 to hear a motion to vacate the fines.

The Hyde Park police are investigating the circumstances surrounding the death in the Chicago hospital yesterday of Oscar T. Willard, 43 years old, 939 East 54th place, a medical student at the University of Chicago. He was found unconscious in an alley at 5337 Lake Park avenue earlier in the day, and police said he may have been struck by the automobile of a hit and run driver who carried him to the alley and left him to die.

CHIEF OF POLICE SHOT TO DEATH BY HIS PASTOR

Orange, Tex., May 29.—(AP)—The Rev. Edgar Eskridge, 40, Baptist minister and vice crusader, was arrested today as the shotgun slayer of Police Chief Ed J. O'Reilly, whom he baptized into his church.

O'Reilly was fired upon from a motor car today when standing on a street corner conversing with a friend. Yesterday he arrested the Rev. Mr. Eskridge on a charge of impersonating an officer during a raid early Sunday in the Silver Slipper night club near here.

Incensed Over Arrest.

Friends of the minister said he was highly incensed and drove around all last night in his car. C. C. Lady, accountant, who was talking with Chief O'Reilly, told police the minister was the man who fired from the car.

A. F. Burns, a steward in the church, quoted the minister as having said he had received 50 letters recently threatening his life and that he believed he was marked for "execution" this week.

Officers who arrested the minister 30 miles east of Orange said his car was "full of guns." He was placed in jail at Deridder, La.

Displayed Ranger's Badge.

O'Reilly had reported that when the minister left the night club raid he displayed a Texas Ranger's badge. The officer said he took two pistols from the minister. County officials did not press the charges and he was released.

A posse armed with machine guns, tear gas and sawed-off shotguns was pressed into the search for the minister after O'Reilly was slain.

O'Reilly, who was married and had one daughter, had been an intimate friend of the preacher.

Committee's Unfavorable Report Disregarded.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 29.—[Special.]—Permanent registration bills received more favorable consideration in the Illinois senate today than they did recently in the house, but there were still no indications that the Democrats would let them pass.

After the house, with an angry roar of defiance to Republicans who sponsored the honest election bills, had tabled the measures, Senator Earl B. Searcy of Springfield, Republican minority leader, introduced them in the senate. In all there were five bills, three putting permanent registration into operation in election board cities and two of state-wide application.

Reported Back Unfavorably.

They were referred to the senate elections committee, which met today. Perhaps smarting under criticism that followed house action in sending them to a subcommittee, or perhaps listening to other counsel, the senate committee rid itself of the bills promptly, sending them back with a recommendation that none of the measures pass.

Whereupon Senator Searcy moved that they be placed on the calendar. With no argument from the Democrats they went to first reading. Searcy promised that he would have them moved rapidly to third reading—the passage stage—where a showdown vote can be had.

Gives Chicago Schools More.

Under two measures approved by the senate and sent to the house the Chicago board of education would have more money to spend than any board in the history of the city, according to Douglas Sutherland, executive secretary of the Civic federation and bureau of public efficiency.

Sutherland referred to the passage of a bill "pegging" the board's 1936 levy at 51 millions and another measure relieving the educational fund of the obligation of reimbursing its working cash fund. The effect of the 51 millions levy, according to estimates made here, would be to increase the educational fund taxes in Chicago to $2.13 per $100 assessed valuation as compared with $1.83 for 1933 and $1.79 for 1934 and 1935.

Permit Textbook Bids.

The senate also passed the school board's bill permitting it to advertise for bids on text books, a measure that President McCahey believes will allow the board to purchase its books cheaper.

Still pending are bills to "peg" the levies of the city's tax judgment and corporate funds and the library and Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium funds, and to levy a one-half cent tax for the Chicago park district to maintain the Rosenwald Industrial museum.

A bill appropriating $12,453,802 to the University of Illinois for the next biennium was approved unanimously today by the senate appropriations committee. President Arthur Cutts Willard declared the budget was 31 per cent less than that of four years ago.

Push 15 Per Cent Tax Refund.

In the passage of a bill introduced by Representative Edward Skarda [Dem., Chicago] the senate moved a step forward the plan to give to all home owners the 15 per cent reduction on 1931 valuations that some of them already have enjoyed.

In the 1931 valuation case owners of homes and small flats who filed complaints with the County court were granted a 15 per cent reduction in valuations for that year. The bill passed today gives the same relief in the form of credit on tax bills in some succeeding year not already paid to all the other property owners in the same class.

Adopts New Crime Provision.

With the passage of senate bill 456, the senate adopted one of the provisions in the proposed revision of the criminal code. This bill would give an officer the power to arrest without a warant for any criminal offense being committed at the time, whether the officer knew of the offense at the time, and also when he has reasonable grounds to believe that a criminal offense has been committed.

The measure retains present situations where arrest by officers is permitted without a warant. It further provides that a private person may arrest where he believes that one has committed a felony.

Others Passed by Senate.

Other senate bills passed by the senate and now to go to the house for concurrence are:

300—James J. Barbour [Rep., Evanston]—Provides that special assessment bonds and vouchers may be used in payment of special assessments.

475—John M. Lee [Dem., Chicago]—If funds to pay excess costs of educating crippled children prove insufficient they shall be proportioned among the school districts on the basis of claims filed.

542—W. E. Clifford [Dem., Champaign]—Provides that the University of Illinois can retain $100,000 annually out of its collections to fulfill any contract with federal government in connection with a loan to erect buildings.

543—Clifford—Permits University of Illinois to contract with federal government to get PWA loans for building. Under consideration is grant or loan of $1,400,000 to complete medical and dental building in Chicago.

544—George C. Dixon [Rep., Dixon]—Validates foreclosure decrees heretofore entered providing for immediate sale of the mortgaged property and allowing mortgagor fifteen months after sale to redeem property.

House Bills to Governor.

House bills passed by the senate which go to Gov. Horner for signature are:

270—P. M. Luckey [Rep., Potomac]—Validates appropriation bills and tax levy ordinances of cities for 1934 where all statutory requirements had not been fully complied with.

656—Glenn H. Sunderland [Rep., Newton]—Provides preference for veterans in employment upon public works projects.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 29.—[Special.]—A deal of maneuvering to get the Quinn fall primary bill on the house calendar was abandoned today when Republicans learned of a "secret meeting" of the elections committee and prepared to do parliamentary battle.

Representative Arthur J. Quinn [Dem., Chicago] yesterday introduced the fall primary bill which would abolish the presidential preferential primary and provide for the "selection "instead of election of national convention delegates, senatorial and state central committeemen.

The bill was referred to the elections committee. This morning that body met and voted to report it favorably.

Meeting Violates Rules.

About this time Representative Frederick W. Rennick [Rep., Buda] informed reporters that the committee had met at 11 a. m. while the house was in session. This meeting was in violation of the house rules, Rennick declared, and he further charged that only two Republican members had received notice of the meeting.

"There are twelve Republicans on the committee," he said, "but ten of us were kept in the dark there was to be a meeting."

Rennick and a few others were quick to spread this word over the Republican side of the house and the report on the Quinn bills did not come in. It probably will be presented Tuesday, when both sides have a full membership.

Favor Utility Home Rule.

Other miscellaneous house action included receiving a favorable report from the public utilities committee on Mayor Kelly's utility home rule bill. The bill now includes an amendment sponsored by the mayor which would force utilities using the streets of the city without a franchise to obtain one within 60 days after passage of the bill, or "cease and desist" from use of the streets.

This amendment would affect the Chicago Motor Coach company, which, the Supreme court has ruled, need not have a franchise under the present utilities law.

FILE TAX SUITS AGAINST FIFTY MORE CONCERNS

Fifty business concerns were named in suits filed in the Circuit court yesterday to collect a total of $174,126 in delinquent 1933 personal property taxes.

James F. Ashenden, chief clerk in the tax collection division of the states' attorney's office, said the total of such actions in the Circuit court is now 150. Suits for amounts in excess of $1,000 are filed in the Circuit court, while those for smaller totals are brought in the Municipal court.

Among the businesses named in the new suits and the amounts are: United Investment company, 6000 South Halsted street, $7,198; International Bond and Mortgage company, 3026 North Cicero avenue, $5,443; Max Adler, 4939 Greenwood avenue, $1,575; Acme Wet Wash Laundry company, 4203 South State street, $2,161; West Suburban Finance and Thrift company, 1011 Lake street, $11,002; Jackson Park hospital, $5,402; Prima company, 825 Blackhawk street, $9,324, and Roseland Community hospital, $6,764.

Bribe Plot Charges Fail After Police Chief Wins

Rockford, Ill., May 29.—[Special.]—Conspiracy charges against Mrs. Frances Ashworth, John F. "Doc" Walsh, and Charles Kalb were dropped today by Circuit Judge Arthur E. Fisher on a motion by the state. They were indicted with Homer Read, former assistant chief of police, by the January grand jury. She said she paid Read to protect a handbook. Read was acquitted yesterday afternoon, but he seeks reinstatement in a case before Circuit Judge Edward D. Shurtleff.

Families Homeless

Kansas City, Mo., May 29.—(AP)—Rampaging rivers and creeks drove families from lowland homes today in southeastern Kansas, swept away railroad tracks, snarled train schedules and damaged crops.

A period of heavy rains sent streams over their banks. A cloudburst also tied up rail trafic and damaged bridges in the vicinity of Sanderson, Tex.

Clearing skies apparently removed the flood menace in southern Missouri, northeastern Colorado and Oklahoma.

The Walnut river forced several families to abandon their home at Douglass, Kas. A few residents near Neodesha fled to higher ground after the Verdigris and Fall rivers left their banks. Thirty-five families were removed last night from lowland residences flooded by the Blue river near Kansas City.

Offices of the M-K-T railroad at Parsons, Kas., reported the worst train tieup in its history because of floods.

Most sections, including southeastern Kansas, reported a slight falling of the rivers tonight. At Chanute, Kas., however, the Neosho river continued to rise.

MAYOR URGENT FOR A DRIVER'S TAG LAW HERE

Mayor Kelly yesterday took action to give Chicago an automobile driver's license law when he was informed that downstate opposition in the house to such a bill was threatening to defeat the measure.

In a telephone conversation with Speaker John P. Devine of the house the mayor urged that the bill be revised so that it would apply only to Chicago. He said this should issure passage of the bill.

"Under the revision I have asked, the fee for a driver's license examination would be included in the present city vehicle tax," Mayor Kelly said. "I consider that the licensing of drivers is necessary to promote safety. I was informed that opposition of farmers was endangering the bill and took steps to obtain its benefits for Chicago."

NAVAL HOSPITAL AT GREAT LAKES GIVEN INSPECTION

Three naval officers arrived yesterday by plane from Washington to inspect the Great Lakes Naval Training station hospital, which has been closed for two years, and gave definite assurance that the institution would open about Aug. 15. They were Rear Admiral P. S. Rossiter, surgeon general of the navy; Capt. Henry L. Dollard of the naval bureau of medicine and surgery, and Chief Pharmacist John A. McCormack. Admiral Rossiter announced that Capt. Dollard, who was formerly executive officer of the hospital, will return to that command. Rear Admiral John Downes, who went to Washington for observation in a hospital on April 11, the day after he took over command of the ninth naval direstrict here, returned to his command yesterday.

PIE MAGNATE'S WIDOW ACCUSED IN ATTACK CASE

Judge Edgar A. Jonas of the Woman's court issued a warant yesterday charging Mrs. Doris Case, widow of Elmer G. Case, head of the Case-Moody Pie corporation, with assault and battery upon Frank M. Smith, 59 years old, 817 North Dearborn street, in a dispute over a flour mill owned by Mrs. Case in Morris, Ill. He alleged that Mrs. Case, her nephew, Melvin Case, and Frank Tibbits, sales manager of the pie company, assaulted him in his room on April 25.

The warant for Mrs. Case was issued at the close of a hearing in which Case and Tibbitts were found guilty on similar charges and were placed on a year's probation. Previously Judge Jonas refused a warant for her on the ground that she would not have been physically capable of injuring Smith. Mrs. Case was released in her own bond for a hearing on June 10.

DUNHAM NAMED STATE CHIEF OF WORKS PROGRAM

Will Resign Post as IERC Chairman.

Robert J. Dunham, chairman of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, and president of the Chicago park board, yesterday was appointed director of the works program for Illinois under the President's four billion dollar work relief measure. His appointment to this post, in which he will supervise the spending of an estimated $375,000,000, was announced at Washington by Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator.

Overloaded with official duties, Mr. Dunham said yesterday that he intends to resign from the relief commission as soon as possible. He will discuss this with Gov. Horner here today after the Memorial day parade. He will depart with Mayor Kelly next Monday for Washington to confer with Hopkins on the works program.

Must Build Organization.

"It will take all of my strength to help make a success in Illinois of the new work program," Mr. Dunham said last night. "The organization I will direct must be built from the ground up. Of course I don't step in until allocations have been made for the various projects, since I have nothing to do with the granting of funds.

"My job will be to put the right people to work and to see that the work is done."

Illinois' share of the four billion dollars has not been determined. Formal applications for projects are now being received from local governmental bodies at the Chicago office of the Public Works administration. These must be totaled to obtain even the figure for the amount requested throughout the state. Which projects will be approved will next be decided.

Mayor Kelly has announced that he would seek $250,000,000 for Chicago projects alone under the 45 per cent grant and 55 per cent loan limitation fixed by the President.

EXCLUDES 5 YEAR ALIENS

Relief need not be given to aliens who have been here more than five years without trying to become citizens, Attorney General Otto Kerner ruled yesterday at Springfield. The families of at least 75,000 aliens, comprising about 270,000 individuals, are being supported through the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, it has been estimated.

Attorney General Kerner's opinion held that relief officials must continue to provide for aliens who have declared their intention to become citizens. Support can be withheld from "those who have been here more than five years and have made no effort or failed to obtain citizenship," he ruled. The opinion was requested by State's Attorney Michael F. Seyfrit of Carlinville.

U. S. HOMESTEAD PLAN READY, BUT COST IS UP $1,500

After many months of delays due to official red tape in Washington, the Federal Subsistence Homestead project in Lake county will definitly start to function for the homesteaders on June 1, it was announced yesterday by William E. Webster of Libertyville, member of the county committee in charge of arrangements.

Miss Irene Lowe, field worker for the corporation, arrived yesterday from Washington, with authorization for the announcement. She instructed Webster to notify the thirty-two family heads, chosen for the project, to meet with her in the village hall of Libertyville on Saturday and draw lots for their new ten acre homes. Eighteen others are to be selected later.

While official bickering over minor details of house design is still holding up actual construction of the homes, Mr. Webster said, he hopes work on erecting the houses will be started by summer or early fall. Meanwhile the homesteaders will be urged to start their spring planting, already delayed a month or more.

At the Saturday meeting, the 32 will also learn that their homesteads are going to cost them more than originally planned, because of frills added by the Washington brain trust. Under the original plan as devised by Maj. Gen. Frank C. Bolles, former commandant of Fort Sheridan, the government appropriated $150,000.

But the $3,000 which each home owner was expected to pay back to the government at 3 per cent interest over 30 years, has been increased to between $4,500 and $5,000, the actual figure to be determined later.

JAPAN ACTS TO SEIZE CONTROL OF NORTHERN CHINA

Army Hands Ultimatum to Nanking Officials.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, May 30 [Thursday].—The Japanese army delivered an ultimatum to China yesterday demanding, it is understood, immediate cessation of anti-Japanese activities, the abolition of secret societies, and the curbing of terroristic acts in north China. The ultimatum was handed to Chinese military and civilian officials at Peiping by Col. Takahashi, military attache.

Following close on the heels of the recent Japanese activities against bandits in north China, the present action is expected to have a far reaching effect on the situation in the far east. It may envisage a new period of Japanese aggression.

The army, which apparently is taking matters in its own hands as it did four years ago, is believed to have determined to extend its away into the regions south of the great wall.

Claim China Broke Truce.

Army circles accuse China of violating terms of the Tangky truce setting up a neutral zone in north China, and with taking advantage of the peaceful policy pursued under the late Gen. Nobuyoshi Muto and Gen. Takahashi Hashikari to stir up anti-Japanese activities.

Japanese military circles are also demanding action on the recent assassination at Tientsin of two influential Chinese publishers friendly to Japan. Col. Takashi Sakai, chief of staf of the Japanese garrison in Tientsin, notified Wang Ko-min, acting chairman of the Peiping political council, that a resolution had been passed by the Japanese garrison staf demanding thorough measures by Chinese officials to clear up the assassinations.

Threatens Peiping, Tientsin.

The following official statement on the Chinese situation was issued by Col. Takahashi, military attache, at Peiping:

"The increasing number of Chinese plots in Manchukuo, China's assistance to the self styled volunteer troops in the neighborhood of the great wall and terroristic acts committed in Tientsin against Japan violate the Tangku truce, they are a reflection of the Chinese government's anti-Japanese, anti-Manchukuo policy.

"It is very serious that the base of operations should be Tientsin and Peiping. If such a situation continues Japanese troops will find it necessary to advance beyond the great wall again and have Tientsin and Peiping included in the demilitarized zone."

JAPS 'TAKE' NORTH CHINA

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, May 29.—The outcome of fighting between Japanese troops and Chinese "bandits" within the "demilitarized" zone northeast of Peiping was disclosed in a dispatch from Tientsin today. The dispatch said that Chinese authorities will be compelled to reorganize the administration of north China in accordance with the demands of Gen. Jiro Minami, commander of the Japanese troops.

In accordance with the Japanese terms, Yu Hsueh-chung, for the last four years chairman of Hopei province, is forced to remove his headquarters from Tientsin to Tsingyuan [Paoting], 150 miles south of Peiping.

The Chinese must also reorganize the Tientsin municipal government and appoint officials satisfactory to the Japanese.

Japs Dismiss Mayor.

The former Tientsin mayor, Chang Tin-kao, and Wei Han, chief secretary of the Hopei provincial government, were both dismissed upon orders of the Japanese.

The Chinese will also be required to place the policing of the demilitarized zone under the supervision of officers subject to Japanese military authorities in Manchukuo.

Since Gen. Yu Hsueh-chung is opposed to further extension of Japanese influence south of the Great Wall, his expulsion from Tientsin is regarded as tantamount to extension of Japanese influence over Tientsin and Peiping, the two most important cities of north China.

ACT TO INSTALL R.O.T.C. UNITS IN ALL HIGH SCHOOLS

William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, yesterday recommended to Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, commanding officer of the Sixth corps area, that one additional army officer and twenty-four noncommissioned officers be assigned to the Chicago public high schools in order that R. O. T. C. units may be placed in all such schools.

Bogan pointed out that, with units in all high schools, the city enrollment would be increased from 5,370 to approximately 10,000 cadets.

James B. McCahey, president of the board of education, said it was the desire of the board to increase R. O. T. C. activities in Chicago.

"We have learned that enrollment in the R. O. T. C. strengthens pupils' loyalty, both to their country and their school," said Mr. McCahey. "Students so strengthened are not interested in communistic influences. The disciplinary training of the R. O. T. C. is the best thing to build up morale among students."

Seventeen high schools in Chicago now have R. O. T. C. units, thirteen of which do not have full time army noncommissioned officers in charge. It is proposed that new units be established in eleven additional schools.

WRIT DENIED

LILLIAN MARKOFF.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Miss Lillian Markoff, 25, years old, 5749 Augusta boulevard, sought unsuccessfully by means of a habeas corpus writ yesterday to obtain her freedom from the county jail. She was committed on May 18 for nonpayment of a $4,000 judgment, which contained a malice count.

The judgment was obtained by Mrs. Helen J. Belke, 37 years old, 1343 North Mansfield avenue, who sued Miss Markoff for $25,000, charging that she had alienated the affections of William Belke, head of the Belke Manufacturing company, 947 North Cicero avenue. A jury before Superior Judge Michael McKinley awarded Mrs. Belke $7,500, but the amount was later reduced by agreement.

Miss Markoff, who was formerly employed in Belke's office, sought her freedom on the habeas corpus writ on the ground that her board bill of $3.50 a week at the county jail, which Mrs. Belke has been paying, had not been paid at the proper time. Judge McKinley denied the writ and Miss Markoff was remanded to jail.

Belke is paying his wife $150 a month under the terms of a separate maintenance decree entered two years ago.

FRIENDS BOOST LADY ASTOR FOR BRITISH CABINET

LONDON, May 29.—(AP)—Friends of Lady Astor, outspoken Virginia-born member of the house of commons, today were urging her for the education portfolio in the British cabinet, which is to be reconstructed soon.

It now is widely believed that Lord Halifax, whose office as president of the board of education gives him ministerial rank, will retire when Stanley Baldwin, now lord president of the council, becomes prime minister replacing Ramsay MacDonald in the cabinet shakeup expected early in June.

This belief has stirred considerable activity in behalf of the former Nancy Langhorne of Mirador, Greenwood, Va. As Viscountess Astor she became in 1919 the first woman ever to sit in Britain's imperial parliament.

Those advocating her for the cabinet post point to her interest in children's welfare, and her ability in that field. Some parliamentary veterans expressed the belief she would be "too impetuous" for the cabinet.

NAZIS OPEN DRIVE TO GET JOBS FOR PARTY LEADERS

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, May 29.—The Nazi ministry of labor has issued orders to the heads of all civil service administrations that a place shall be made in their offices for "party officials and Storm Troop leaders."

The minister asserts it has proved impossible to find a sufficient number of higher posts for party functionaries who were active before the party came into power and an "examination of the administrations revealed it should still be possble to find situations for a certain number of district leaders and Storm Troop leaders."

The almost complete liquidation of the Storm Troops and the reduction in the number of party functionaries, made necessary by the party's financial difficulties, have thrown many old party members out of work.

BRITAIN PLANS NEW PRESSURE TO AID MEMEL NAZIS

Displeased with Attitude of Lithuania.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 29.—New efforts to persuade Lithuania to adopt a more liberal attitude in the treatment of German Nazis in Memel are being contemplated by Great Britain in conjunction with France and Italy.

As guardians of fair treatment for the Germans in that bit of German territory lost as a result of the world war, the thre powers profess to be dissatisfied with Lithuania's attitude, which culminated recently in sentencing four Nazis to death and many others to prison for a revolt plot.

Hold Concession Insufficient.

The death sentences were commuted to life imprisonment at the last moment and the tension between Lithuania and Germany was temporarily relieved, but the British hold this concession was insufficient.

Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, revealed in the house of commons today that Lithuania's reply to the recent British, French, and Italian note on the subject was not satisfactory and that the British government is taking up the matter further with the French and Italians.

The British hold that the Lithuanians have been given great provocation by the German Nazis in Memel, but refuse to accept the Lithuanian explanation that drastic measures had to be taken against the Germans in order to save the nation.

Austria Answers Hitler.

VIENNA, May 29.—(AP)—Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg, in an address described as his reply to Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's recent speech before the German reichstag, today reiterated Austria's demand for arms equality.

Hitler's implied suggestion that Austrians be allowed to vote as to the kind of government they want was dismissed by Schuschnigg with the assertion that no plebiscite is needed to show how overwhelmingly the nation backs his régime.

Austria voted with "blood—with the precious blood no Austrian can ever forget"—when an abortive Nazi putsch was put down last July 25, the chancellor said.

Austria's demand for arms equality includes the demand "for removal of every restriction preventing us from restored universal military service," the chancellor said.

However, "only Austria itself can decide how it will make use of its regained rights," he added.

He concluded with three Austrian demands about which, he said, there can be no debate—"equal treatment, equal rights, equal honor."

See Nazi-Italian Pact on Austria.

ROME, May 29.—(AP)—Authoritative German circles here said tonight there is a possibility Italy and Germany will reach an agreement over Austria. This agreement would be designed to relieve Italy of preoccupations in Europe while her attention is directed toward Ethiopia and relieve Germany of worries to the south while she is occupied to the northeast.

Italo-German relations have improved manifestly in the last few weeks, so much so that the Italian press has received a government order not to engage in attacks on the third reich.

PARAGUAY AND BOLIVIA REJECT TRUCE PROPOSAL

BUENOS AIRES, May 29.—(AP)—An Argentine-Brazilian effort to induce Bolivia and Paraguay to sign an armistice in their three year old jungle war failed today.

The result disappointed Brazilian and Argentine circles as today was the final one of the visit here of President Getulio Vargas of Brazil, who departed for home after an eight day state visit. The failure to obtain a temporary truce did not affect the negotiations of the mediation group, composed of representatives of Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Peru, and the United States.

Paraguay Captures Supplies.

ASUNCION, Paraguay, May 29.—(AP)—Dispatches from the Chaco front today said Paraguayans took munitions and supplies valued at $300,000 in the recent action at Parapiti, which drove Bolivians back all along the line. The enemy suffered an estimated 1,100 casualties in the action.

GERMAN MONK GETS TEN YEARS FOR "SMUGGLING"

Convicted of Taking Money Into Holland.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 29.—A sentence of ten years' penal servitude was imposed by a Berlin court today on Brother Epiphan, a Franciscan friar of Waldbreitbach monastery at Neuwied, Rhineland. The monk, accused of taking $160,000 out of Germany in violation of foreign exchange laws, must also pay a fine of $140,000 or serve another 27 months. It was the stiffest sentence the court could mete out.

The Caritas company, which participated in the transaction on behalf of the monastery, was ordered to pay $200,000, while German shares valued at $18,000, illegally purchased abroad, were confiscated.

The case was simular to those involving three nuns who last week were each sentenced to five years in prison and heavily fined because they took money across the frontier into Holland under clerical robes to pay off Dutch loans and purchase German securities.

By skillful financing the friar obtained a profit of $200,000 for his monastery. The public prosecutor declared: "If 100 persons had acted similarly, German currency would have crashed."

The defending counsel vainly pleaded for leniency for Brother Epiphan, pointing out that he was wounded in the world war and was decorated with the iron cross, and that during the French occupation of the Rhineland he carried out a "specially dangerous service."

The counsel remarked that it was especially tragic that Brother Epiphan learned to smuggle during the French occupation.

A heavy fine on the Caritas company, he said, would also handicap Franciscan activities.

France Refuses to Return Ex-Socialist to Germany

PARIS, May 29.—(AP)—Germany's request for the extradition of Julius Dreyfus, German lawyer and former chief of the Social Democrat party of Karlsruhe, was denied today after his lawyer said Nazis had attempted to kidnap him. Dreyfus, charged by Germany with swindling and the destruction of public documents, was ordered released by the French court.

EX-ALDERMEN SUE TO RECOVER PAY CUT OF $201,483

Eight former aldermen yesterday filed a mandamus suit in the Circuit court to recover for themselves and fifty-eight other former and present members of the city council a total of $201,483 deducted from their salaries in a city economy program that extended from 1931 to 1935.

The action follows similar litigation on the part of Municipal court judges, deputy bailifs, and deputy clerks, who are to receive $1,016,000 in deducted pay for the same period. Various Cook county officials also have had salary claims allowed after court action.

James W. Breen, former assistant corporation counsel, who represented the court employés in their action, initiated the mandamus proceedings yesterday for the following former aldermen: William H. Feigenbutz, Walter W. Morris, Frank A. Sloan, Jeremiah P. Leahy, Joseph H. Smith, Wiley W. Mills, Albert E. Loescher, and John J. Hoellen.

The bill states that in 1931, under Mayor Cermak, the city council provided for $5,000 salaries for aldermen and $8,500 for the chairman of the council finance committee, but that the actual appropriations provided only $3,931 salaries for aldermen and $6,739 for the finance committee chairman.

Such action, the bill asserts, was illegal and contrary to the state constitution which provides that elected officials cannot change their salaries during their term of office.

The bill asks that Mayor Kelly and the city council be directed to pay the $201,483 from miscellaneous receipts and other available funds, or that the council pass a separate tax levy ordinance to provide for such payment. The action is set for hearing before Chief Justice Joseph Burke of the Circuit court on June 7.

"The city will fight this case to the end," Mayor Kelly said. "I don't see why these aldermen should have a change of heart about salary reductions simply because they are no longer in the public eye. When they accepted the reductions they led the public to believe that they were doing so in good faith."

DIES OF HEART ATTACK.

Alex Layden, 45 years old, 3026 East 79th street, collapsed of a heart attack while at work in the Sterner bakery, 8145 Exchange avenue, yesterday, and died while being taken to a hospital.

NORMANDIE SAILS ON MAIDEN TRIP; TRIES FOR RECORD

Carries 1,070 Passengers for New York.

ABOARD S. S. NORMANDIE, AT SEA, May 29.—(AP)—The 79,000 ton liner Normandie, France's new queen of the seas, sailed from Le Havre at 6:30 p. m. [12:30 p. m. Chicago time] on her gala maiden voyage to New York. In her hold she carries $29,700,000 worth of gold shipped abroad in the new flight from the franc.

A new record for the trans-Atlantic crossing was the superliner's goal as she swung away from her pier with 1,070 passengers. Crowds on the docks fluttered handkerchiefs and cheered, naval planes buzzed overhead, and whistles blew.

Rene Lardin, a painter, who was accused of starting a fire on the Normandie May 20 by carelessly throwing a lighted match into a basinful of gasoline, was convicted at Le Havre today of violating the smoking rule and was fined 50 francs.

President's Wife Aboard.

French shipping men call the Normandie "the biggest and fastest" vessel afloat. That claim will be disputed in all probability, however, when Britain commissions her huge Queen Mary, whose exact tonnage is not yet known. The 1,030 foot French floating palace, which cost $53,000,000 to build, has hung up speeds of better than 30 knots in trial runs, and Frenchmen say the British vessel will be hard put to it to better that figure, though she has the bigger power plant.

Aboard the liner as she made her only call, at Southampton, then put out to sea for New York, were Mme. Albert Lebrun, wife of the French president, and her daughter and daughter-in-law; Leon Fraser, prominent American banker and former president of the Bank for International Settlements, and many another notable.

Four special trains poured passengers into Le Havre station during the afternoon as workmen put finishing touches on the luxury liner. Loading of mail delayed her sailing more than an hour.

Has Longer Route.

If Capt. Rene Pugnet's belief that his ship can do the distance across the Atlantic in just over four days is realized, she will collect for France ocean speed records held by Germany's Europa and Bremen and Italy's Rex.

The record for the 3,199 sea miles from Cherbourg breakwater to Ambrose lightship is four days, 17 hours, and six minutes, an average of 27.92 knots. The distance from Le Havre to New York, the route the Normandie will traverse, is 3,293 miles by the summer route, 94 miles longer.

Built to transport 2,170 passengers in all possible luxury, the Normandie is staffed by 1,320 men.

G. O. P. LEADERS AT BLOOMINGTON MARK BIRTHDAY

Hear Hamilton Fish Laud Defeat of NRA.

Bloomington, Ill., May 29.—[Special.]—Representative Hamilton Fish Jr., of New York, speaking before 1,000 party leaders of McLean, Logan, Ford, Livingston and Woodford counties and leading state officials of the Republican party, tonight said that the United States government cannot endure permanently "half unconstitutional and half constitutional."

"Just as Abraham Lincoln charged the Democratic party with conspiracy to extend slavery," he said, "I charge that the New Deal administration has been in a plot to socialize industry without the consent and approval of the American people in defiance of our constitution until thwarted by the Supreme court of the United States," he continued. 'Thank God for the Supreme court, its NRA decision is equivalent to a second declaration of independence."

G. O. P. leaders were here tonight to celebrate the anniversary of Lincoln's lost speech given in Bloomington May 29, 1865, and the birth of the Republican party which dates from the day of the deliverance of that speech.

Adopt Several Resolutions.

Resolutions drawn up by the central Illinois Republicans tonight were presented by Leslie Arends of Melvin, representative in congress from the Seventeenth district. Among the demands in the resolutions were:

1. Restoration of representative and constitutional government and the continuance of the traditional stand of the Republican party in its energetic protection of social and human rights, the safety of the citizen and the protection of his property.

2. Restoration of business confidence by removal of governmental interference in and competition with private business.

3. Protection of all farm products from foreign competition, which, through heavy imports during the last few months, has taken the place of American products and undermined prices of grain, live stock, and dairy products.

Ask Sound Currency.

4. Reëstablishment and maintenance of a sound currency and reduction of government expenses.

5. Provide for a national defense program, but "none for aggression."

6. Finally, that henceforth the Republican party, "if it is to restore democracy under the constitution, if it is to bring back a successful America, must be and remain a party of principles to which men and leaders, though necessary, are subservient."

Seated at the speaker's table tonight were Justus L. Johnson, Otis F. Glenn, John Ogelsby, Charles S. Deneen, Oscar Carlstrom and a number of other Republican notables.

Wayne Townley, prominent party leader of Bloomington, said that he believed tonight's rally had started the Republicans on the way to victory in the coming state elections. He and Representative Fish both asserted that the main issue of the Presidential campaign in 1936 will be the maintenance of constitutional government.

FISH SPEAKS IN CHICAGO.

"The Republican party is not dead in this country. The people want their constitutional rights restored to them!"

With these assertions Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr., [Rep., N. Y.] assailed the New Deal yesterday and predicted a victory for the Republicans in the campaign next year. He spoke before a crowd of 300 at the Republican Round Table in Henrici's restaurant.

"The main issue is the restoration of constitutional rights," declared Mr. Fish. We Republicans will have the right to call on Jeffersonian Democrats to help us oust the socialists and brain trusters.

"Thank God for the Supreme court. Its decision declaring the NRA unconstitutional is equivalent to a second Declaration of Independence."

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Rain Is Welcomed

May 29, 1935.

The rain which fell yesterday was welcomed by the boys on the Yorkville farm. Rain is not now an absolute necessity, since the subsoil is in good condition from the heavy rains which came earlier in the spring. However, the topsoil was getting a little dry and the added moisture will be especially beneficial to the corn which was planted first on the north side of the Fox river.

The regular planting duties went on as usual yesterday morning, the rain being so light that the men stayed in the field with the plows, planters, discs, and harrows. However, it began to shower more heavily around noon, so the workers gave the plowshares a good greasing to prevent rust and called it a day.

Farm "hunches" sometimes play an important part in planning the work schedule. For example, last Saturday Clarence Thurow and some of the other boys decided they would work the next day if the sun came out early and promised good weather for the day. The men want to get in every hour of work possible now, since they are behind on their planting schedule. Their hunch was that they were due for some rain and that if Sunday was a good work day they would use it. They followed this plan. Everybody worked Sunday and made up for losing a half day yesterday.

When the boys left the fields yesterday noon they still had about 170 acres of corn to be planted.

I drove up near the big silo a little before 1 o'clock yesterday and there I saw Eddie Johnson, Andy Shadoan, Shorty, and Ken Miller in the tool shed, where they were puttering around and joking about the rain forcing them into a half day of semi-leisure. Clarence told all of them to call it a day a few minutes later. A couple of the boys helped Louis Thurow repair a farm truck in one of the barns during the afternoon.

Nig, the big Newfoundland on the Yorkville farm, has found his master. Only a pup, the Thurow pet already weighs nearly 100 pounds. He has been running all over Binks, Clarence's fox terrier, but he found out the other day that he was no match for a turkey hen. Mrs. Thurow left a gate open, allowing Nig to get out of the back yard into the area where are the turkeys and their broods. Nig wandered in, looked inquisitively at a couple of tiny turkey poults, and an old turkey hen "gave him the works."

She didn't like the way Nig was snooping around her offspring, so she "took off." When she landed she was on poor Nig's back, pecking him for all she was worth. Nig made a bee line for the gate. The hen finally desisted. Nig hasn't gone into the turkey yard since.

RAINS AND SUN UNITE TO KILL OFF CORN PEST

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Rain and sunshine have combined during the last week to kill chinch bugs in Illinois and other corn belt states. Warmer weather encouraged the pests to come out of their winter hiding places to infest grain fields, but the subsequent rains have cut down the bugs' activities.

A survey made during the last few days shows that while many bugs still are hiding in their winter quarters, others have emerged, especially in western and northwestern Illinois counties, according to W. P. Flint, chief entomologist for the state natural history survey and the Illinois agricultural experiment station. He explained that an abundance of moisture has encouraged the development of fungus, an enemy of the chinch bug. The fungus already has killed many young pests.

Seventy-five to 90 per cent of the corn crop has been planted in northern Illinois, according to the weekly weather bureau report issued at Springfield yesterday.

DE VALERA PROMISES TO GIVE NO AID TO ANY BRITISH ENEMY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, May 29.—President Eamon de Valera stoutly defended the economic war against Great Britain and the refusal of the Irish Free State to pay land annuities in a speech in the Dail Eireann tonight.

The president, however, stressed his desire for friendly relations with Britain and strongly denied that in a European war facilities would be given by the Free State to a foreign power to attack Great Britain.

"I can say definitely," De Valera declared, "that as far as this government or any other Irish government is concerned our territory will not be permitted to be used as a base for attacking Great Britain."

Suit Filed to Test Who's Chief of Police in Cicero

The political squabble over who is the real chief of police of Cicero reached the Cook county Superior court yesterday when quo warranto proceedings were filed against Michael J. Solar, appointed chief by Mayor Joseph G. Cerny in 1933. On May 6, Solar was discharged and the village board appointed Theodore L. Svoboda. Cerny opposed the appointment, as did two of the seven members of the board, and advised Solar to keep his job.

Municipal Judge Borrelli Gets Order Commendatore

The Order Commendatore of the Crown of Italy has been awarded Municipal Judge Francis Borrelli, it was announced yesterday by Giuseppe Castruccio, Italian consul general in Chicago. The decoration, which is to be conferred Saturday, is in recognition of Judge Borrelli's work as chairman of the committee that raised funds to erect the Columbus memorial in Grant park.

POLICE GUNFIRE ENTERS CANTON STEEL WALKOUT

Shoot as Truck Lays Down Gas Barrage.

Canton, O., May 29.—(AP)—A "peaceful picketing" agreement was reached late today in Canton's turbulent labor dispute.

Representatives of the companies and unions, city and county officials and mediators went into conference shortly after police brought their guns into play for the first time since union steel workers went on strike Monday at the Berger Manufacturing company plant.

Under the "peaceful picketing" agreement, strikers promised to cease coercing employés of the plants who desired to enter the mills and work. The officials of the companies agreed to take guns and tear gas bombs from their special guards and to cease using armed convoys.

Sympathy Walkout Beaten.

A proposed sympathy walkout which would have spread the strike to the plant of the Timken Roller Bearing company was turned down late today. Approximately 1,900 workers had balloted.

Patrolmen Emon Ritz and Sam Marconi opened revolver fire today when a metal sided truck, accompanied by a convoy of two automobiles, thundered through picket ranks under a tear gas barrage laid down by occupants of the cars.

The truck sped from the United alloy plant to the Berger Manufacturing company plant. Both are Republic Steel corporation subsidiaries and picket lines have been placed around each of them.

Hit by Projectile.

A tear gar projectile, described by witnesses as about 6 inches in length and 1½ inches in diameter, struck Charles Minor, 27, who stood among the pickets. He sustained a mouth wound.

Four men were taken into custody earlier by Sherif's deputies as suspected company guards off company property.

The men held gave their names as Steve Wojanis, 28; and Harold Scarneccia, 26, of Massillon; and Frank O'Malley, 25; and Homer Warner, 28, of Canton. Authorities charged them with carrying concealed weapons.

DANA, LONGFELLOW'S GRANDSON, ACQUITTED ON CHARGES OF BOY

Cambridge, Mass., May 29.—(AP)—Henry Wadsworth Longfellow Dana, 53 year old former professor of English at Columbia university and widely known lecturer, was acquitted today by Judge Nelson P. Brown at the end of a trial in Middlesex Superior court on statutory charges involving a 16 year old boy.

Public and press had been barred from the courtroom as Judge Brown heard the evidence in the case.

Dana was indicted as a result of statements made by the youth who had been arrested on a charge of misappropriating an automobile belonging to a relative of the lecturer.

Professor Dana, a grandson of the poet Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, emphatically denied the charges. He makes his home in the ancestral Longfellow residence in Cambridge.

When the city of Boston barred presentation of Sean O'Casey's play "Within the Gates" early this year, Professor Dana was a leader of forces protesting the censorship and opposing the ban placed by authorities on the sale of the play in book form.

TWENTY AIR LINE EMPLOYES STRIKE; SERVICE GOES ON

Twenty employés of United Airlines, among them mechanics, mail handlers and clerks, walked out of the company hangars at the city airport yesterday in what they asserted was a sympathy strike. The men said they were members of a mechanics' union and that they struck because the company had disciplined a union man by suspending him with another employé after the two damaged a plane while moving it on the apron in front of the hangar.

In a formal statement issued last evening officials of the company said: "Absence of part of the crew has not affected the company's operations or standard of service, as it has available in its operations and other departments a substantial number of men who were formerly employed in similar work. Major servicing of airplanes has for several months been done outside of Chicago."

Harold Crary, a vice president, said: "We did suspend two men for two days for damaging the wing tips of two planes. The damage was slight, yet we cannot have carelessness among the servicing crew in an airline. The union is attempting to tell us we cannot discipline our own men for inefficient work. We insist that we can."

3 YOUNG BANDITS GIVEN 30 YEARS IN PENITENTIARY

CRIMINAL COURT.

Mario De Stefano, murder, sentenced to 30 years in the penitentiary by Judge Harry B. Miller.

Daniel Mirra and Joseph Aurelli, murder, sentenced to 30 years in the penitentiary by Judge E. I. Frankhauser.

Harvey Brettman and Carl Barger, robbery, sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Cornelius J. Harrington.

Daniel Gentry, robbery, sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary by Judge John C. Lewe.

Three youthful members of a holdup gang that committed fifty robberies last fall and winter pleaded guilty yesterday to the murder of a bystander who was shot in one of their tavern raids and were sentenced in the Criminal court to serve thirty years each in the penitentiary.

Those sentenced are Mario De Stefano, 19 years old; Daniel Mirra, 18, and Joseph Aurelli, 21. Mirra and Aurelli were sentenced by Judge E. I. Frankhauser, and De Stefano, who had taken a change of venue, was sentenced by Judge Harry B. Miller.

The murder victim was Benjamin Yoder, 67 years old, 5614 South Union avenue, who was killed when Policeman Thomas Lydon of the trafic division engaged in a gun fight with the robbers as they attempted to hold up the tavern of Michael Kilmartin at 5601 South Halsted street. Although himself wounded and his revolver empty, Lydon captured De Stefano and Mirra. Three other bystanders were slightly wounded.

De Stefano escaped from the detective bureau on Jan. 1 by leaping from an eleventh floor window and swinging from an ice-coated iron bar to a fire escape. He was recaptured a month later.

Election Day Slugging Victim Awarded $1,000

A jury before Superior Judge David yesterday awarded damages of $1,000 to Ralph Fordney, 2135 Cleveland avenue, in his $25,000 assault suit against George W. Chapman, 1524 North Wells street, and Louis Pagalini, 1441 Siegel street. Fordney charged he was assaulted by the two men while working to defeat James B. Waller for reëlection as alderman in the election of Feb. 28, 1933. Waller also was named as a defendant in the suit but was dismissed from the case on a directed verdict of not guilty at the conclusion of Fordney's case.

1 BRITON IN EVERY 11 FOUND UNFIT TO DRIVE AUTO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 29.—One Briton in every eleven is unfit to drive an automobile. Out of 33,824 applicants for driving licenses since March 1 a total of 3,045 have failed to pass the tests.

These striking figures were announced today by Leslie Hore-Belisha, minister of transport, who is making a strenuous effort to reduce the heavy loss of life on British highways. Before March 1 there was no such thing as a driving test in Great Britain.

The death toll in March this year dropped thirteen-nineteenths of 1 per cent from that of March last year. In London the drop was even more impressive, reaching 30 per cent, because of the campaign against jay walking.

FRENCH VESSEL WITH 40 ABOARD IS FEARED LOST

ST. JOHN'S N. F., May 29.—(AP)—The French schooner Marechal de Luxemburg was feared today to have foundered off the coast of Newfoundland with her crew of 40 fishermen.

The trawler, which is owned at St. Malo, France, has not been heard from since May 18, when she reported she was leaking and trying to make St. John's. Search for the crippled craft has been fruitless.

BANDITS HOLD UP CITY POLICEMAN AND MESSENGER

Four bandits obtained $70 and $1,200 in pre-canceled stamps, worthless to them, in a daring street robbery yesterday of a messenger for Walter Field & Co., a mail order concern at 600 Fulton street.

The holdup occurred when Carl Madsen, 2621 North Narragansett avenue, the messenger, and Policeman Emil Miller of the Desplaines street station arrived in front of the company's office on their return from a postal substation.

One of the robbers pressed a revolver against Madsen's back and seized the package containing the money and stamps. A second thrust a machine gun against Policeman Miller and ordered him not to move, but the policeman pushed the muzzle aside and knocked the bandit against the building with his fist. Before he had an opportunity to draw his revolver Policeman Miller felt a shotgun jammed into his back and he was disarmed.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

Conservator Is Sought for Niece, Now 81.

A suit for the appointment of a conservator to administer the dwindling estate of Mrs. Elizabeth Palmer Smith, 81 years old, niece of the late Potter Palmer, Chicago hotel owner and social leader, was filed yesterday in Probate court in behalf of Miss Ella Mae Mackey, 1409 Summerdale avenue, a second cousin, who claims that Mrs. Smith is incompetent.

Mrs. Smith is the only heir of the late Milton J. Potter, who was a brother of the first Potter Palmer, and who died May 27, 1905, leaving a large estate.

Wants Bank Named.

The petition asks for the appointment of the First National bank as conservator. Attorneys Isadore Fried and Vernon W. Foster are representing Miss Mackey. Hearing has been set for June 5.

The attorneys said the appointment of a conservator had been asked to safeguard the remainder of Mrs. Smith's estate and as a measure preparatory to a demand for an accounting of funds entrusted by Mrs. Smith to various persons since 1926. Miss Mackey, who served her cousin in a secretarial capacity until that year, said that more than a million dollars remained in the estate at that time.

Among her advisers in recent years, Miss Mackey declared, was Roy Wathier, a former bank clerk, and later a broker, under whose guidance, it is charged, Mrs. Smith invested large sums in several unfortunate ventures.

Married Three Times.

Mrs. Smith was married twice after the death of her father and has lived extensively in Europe. In Chicago, until recent years, she lived in the family home at 4124 Grand Boulevard and later at the Hyde Park and the Del Prado hotels. Two weeks ago she was taken to St. Luke's hospital.

"I did have money—everything," said Mrs. Smith, a tall attractive woman, whose appearance belies her age, "but there have been hospital bills—the stock market."

Among the larger sums which Mrs. Smith is said to have lost in recent years were $450,000 in the stock of an insurance company and $400,000 in real estate.

RULING AGAINST AD CIRCULARS IS OVERTURNED

The Appellate court yesterday dissolved the temporary injunction issued last March by Superior Court Judge Lewis limiting the manner of distribution of the advertising circulars of Shopping News, Inc., and the Goldblatt Brothers Department stores.

The order had directed that the publications, as delivered, be secured so that the wind could not scatter them and create a nuisance. The Appellate court ruled that such an order should not have been entered until evidence had been heard.

The suit was filed in behalf of Carl Hallberg, owner of an apartment building at 7639 Colfax avenue. In his bill Hallberg charged that the circulars left outside doors are blown into the streets and alleys and onto his lawn, creating a public nuisance. Hearing on the issuance of a permanent injunction is still pending in the Superior court.

SIX TO 18 YEARS FOR GIRL WHO STABBED FRIEND

New Orleans, La., May 29.—[Special.]—Miss Bonnie Hill, also known as Marion King, 23, found guilty two weeks ago of fatally stabbing John Irving Pierce, also 23, newspaper writer of Jackson, Miss., during a quarrel in a night club here last March, was sentenced today. She is to serve not less than 6 years nor more than eighteen years in the state penitentiary. Judge William F. O'Hara imposed sentence for manslaughter.

Miss Hill had informed the clerk that she was born in Johnson county, Ark., where her parents reside. She had used the name of King for years. She had admitted the stabbing, denying intent to kill. They had been living together in an apartment. Time for filing an appeal has passed and she will go to the penitentiary at once.

Three others were seriously injured. All the victims were natives of Honduras except the pilot, Ernst Voss, a German-American of San Francisco, Cal. Two unidentified children and two women were among the victims.

[Dispatches from San Francisco last night said Ernst Voss, the dead pilot, was former head of an aviation school there. Voss was an observer with Germany's Baron von Richthofen during the world war.]

AIR CRASH VICTIM

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Carlinville, Ill., May 29.—[Special.]—An investigation of the accident in which a pilot and passenger were killed early today when a Chicago and Southern Air Lines tri-motor plane crashed and burned near here, was being made tonight by Byron Jacobs and Bruce Braun, bureau of air commerce inspectors.

During the day an inquest was held over the bodies of the two victims: John B. "Red" Lynn, 320 Wise street, Oak Park, the pilot, and Paul Gardner, Lynn's brother-in-law, of Fairfax, Okla. The two inspectors attended the hearing and listened to the stories of witnesses, but offered no information.

The plane was headed for St. Louis from Chicago when the crash occurred.

JOHN BARRYMORE SCOFFS AT WIFE'S DIVORCE CHARGE

Claims He Gave Her Sum of $85,000.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, May 29.—John Barrymore, 53 year old stage and screen actor, slipped into Havana harbor today in his yacht Infanta, and confided to reporters that he would not contest his wife's divorce suit, that he is not in love with Miss Elaine Barrie, 19, and that Greta Garbo's feet are not big. Miss Barrie, an actress, her mother, and Miss Beatrice Drake, 20, are cruising aboard the yacht.

"I deeply resent my wife's decision to ask a divorce," Barrymore said, declaring that he had not previously heard of the suit filed by Mrs. Barrymore, the former Dolores Costello. "I will not contest her suit, however.

Apart Four Years.

"Four years ago when our youngest son was born I gave Dolores $85,000 as a final settlement which she accepted as satisfactory. We have been separated since. It is strange that my wife claims nonsupport now. It is absolutely false that my earning in 1934 exceeded $300,000 as she claims."

Barrymore said of Miss Barrie:

"It is all bunk and ballyhoo regarding my alleged romance with Elaine, although in strict justice to truth I must say I am very fond of her, but please do not mistake fondness for love. Our relations are strictly business.

"She is helping me draft our broadcast programs. We just signed a 30 week broadcast contract in New York after a trial which was a complete success."

Changes Love Scene.

Declaring that "of course, Miss Garbo has not big feet as people claim," the actor said she is perhaps the "most interesting character I ever met in my life."

"She is a great artist," he continued. "It is a pleasure to work with her. She is my favorite Hollywood companion."

He explained she once did him a favor in having a love scene in which they appeared photographed to show the side of his face which photographs best.

"It seems that one side of my face looks like an egg," he said, "and you know how much expression an egg has."

NEW DOWNTOWN SEWAGE TUNNEL IS COMPLETED

A $1,150,000 sewer project in the downtown district was declared completed yesterday by sanitary district officials. Tomorrow and Saturday it will be open for inspection by the public from noon to 8 o'clock at night.

Interested persons may enter the shaft at Quincy and Franklin streets and climb down a circular stairway thirty feet to the tunnel floor. Then they will be guided down the electrically lighted subterranean thoroughfare, emerging at the shaft on the lower level of Wacker drive at Garvey court.

The tunnel runs beneath Franklin street from Taylor street to Wacker drive, and beneath Wacker drive from Franklin street to Michigan avenue. It is 9,200 feet long, and the combined length of its branches is 3,600 feet. These branches extend from the main tunnel to points close to the river.

The purpose of the new system is to intercept all the sewage from the loop area, which is now dumped untreated into the river, and carry it away to the west side treament works of the sanitary district in Stickney. The sewage which now runs into the river will be diverted to the branches of the new tunnel. Control chambers in these branches will force it back into the main intercepting tunnel.

The new system will not be put into effect until next fall, when another tunnel, running from Taylor street and the river to Cermak road and Canalport avenue, is completed. This will provide the last link in the sewage line from the loop district to the west side treatment plant.

The walls of the new downtown tunnel are from 13 to 18 inches thick, of reinforced concrete. At the Quincy street shaft entrance the tunnel is 9 feet 4 inches wide and 11 feet 8 inches high. It grows larger as it goes south. At Wacker drive it is 17 feet below street level. At Taylor street it is 90 feet below the surface. At this point it goes under the river and there the workers had to tunel through solid stone.

The Quincy street shaft was sunk and the work begun in June, 1934. Last January the Wacker drive shaft was sunk.

ASKS U. S. FUNDS FOR BIG SEWER ON DES PLAINES

The sanitary district hopes to receive federal funds for the construction of an intercepting sewer along the west bank of the Des Plaines river from the town of Des Plaines to North avenue, Ross A. Woodhull, president of the district, told representatives of Des Plaines river towns and members of the clean streams committee yesterday. Philip Harrington, chief engineer for the district, estimated the project would cost $4,000,000.

Mr. Woodhull stated that in February the Sanitary district started construction on Imhoff tank units for sewage disposal at 15 points along the Des Plaines and two on the Chicago river. He said that these tanks were looked upon as temporary projects by the district engineers.

Chief Engineer Harrington explained that sewage from the Des Plaines river towns is now being dumped into the river.

LIQUOR DEALER FINED $200.

Robert Lazar, owner of a liquor store at 4764 Milwaukee avenue, was fined $200 yesterday by Judge Irwin J. Hasten for failure to purchase a state liquor license.

THE DICTATORSHIP EXPOSED.

The three decisions handed down by the Supreme court on Monday, all unanimous and all dealing with questions fundamental in the American system of government, constitute, as every one realizes, one of the most momentous events in the political history of the United States. What the full legal implications are must wait upon specific application in the trial of causes. Its economic consequences must also wait upon events. But its broad significance in the present situation of politics and government is clear and decisive.

We refer to these three decisions as one because they all confront and deal with the closely interrelated experiments of a régime whose leading spokesmen, though lately more guarded in their utterance, early declared their purpose to accomplish a peaceful revolution, which in fact has been proceeding as far as their power and the abnormal circumstances of the time have permitted. The Supreme court, in its discussions of the issues involved in the three cases determined, has disclosed beyond misunderstanding the full meaning and intent of the self-styled New Deal.

In sum, the intention of the New Deal, as THE TRIBUNE has repeatedly pointed out, is to abolish the system of checks and balances which the founders of the republic devised for the protection of the liberties of the individual. It has sought to substitute for it, through measures accepted by a subservient congress, what Mr. Chief Justice Hughes defines as "a completely centralized government," a government under which the executive would take to himself legislative and even judicial authority and the sovereign states would be reduced to the status of agents of the federal executive's virtually illimitable discretion.

In this swift development the congress, established as a coequal of the executive and judicial branches of government, has attempted to surrender to the executive its constitutional function as the lawmaking instrument of our government, and to bestow upon him virtually unlimited power. At the direction of the President it has enacted measures like the National Recovery Act and Agricultural Administration Act which abolish the liberty of the states and give over not merely to the central government but to its executive department wide and vague powers and responsibilities for the regulation of private enterprise and individual activities. This, as Mr. Justice Cardozo remarked, "is delegation running wild."

In the Frazier-Lemke act it attempted to authorize the taking of property without due process or, more plainly speaking, without compensation; in other words, to establish confiscation under form of laws.

The Humphrey case discloses the same tendency to centralize power in the President. The President dismissed Humphrey on the ground that his mind and Humphrey's did not run on the same lines, but Humphrey was appointed as a member of a body created by congress to be an agency independent of the executive and governed by law enacted by congress under its unquestionable constitutional authority. The grounds of his dismissal ignored this congressional authority and defeated the congressional intention. As Mr. Justice Sutherland, with the unanimous concurrence of the court, says: "The fundamental necessity of maintaining each of the three general departments of government entirely free from the control or coercive influence, direct or indirect, of either of the others has often been stressed and is hardly open to serious question." It is, in fact, essential to the protection of the people from the inordinate growth of political power, from the unrestrained autocratic will—in short, from despotism.

This "fundamental necessity" is not regarded in the New Deal, for it stands athwart the New Deal's purpose, and that purpose is the substitution for free government of a dictatorship differing only in external guise from the dictatorships which reaction has set up in Europe.

The character of the American people will not tolerate the bloody handed methods of European conquerors. It does permit, until awakened, those insidious encroachments upon liberty against which the farseeing Washington warned us at the birth of the nation. Under plausible pretenses and assertions of noble purpose, the converging lines of attack upon the rights and free institutions of the American people march to the same end. Call it a "completely centralized government," a government in which the legislative powers have been abdicated, and the judicial powers reduced to a practical futility, a government in which the executive has absorbed all power. It is dictatorship.

IN MEMORIAM.

April 15, seventy-four years ago last month, President Lincoln issued a proclamation calling forth seventy-five thousand of the militia of the several states to restore the execution of the laws of the United States against "combinations too powerful to be suppressed by the ordinary course of judicial proceedings or by the powers vested in the marshals by law."

May 5, seven years later, in 1868, Gen. John A. Logan, commander in chief of the then new Grand Army of the Republic, composed of survivors of the many great armies into which the seventy-five thousand militia had of necessity grown, issued an order appointing May 30 as a day to be observed by the veterans for the decoration of the graves of soldiers. It was lilac time in parts of the north when President Lincoln issued his first call, and it was lilac time in other parts when Gen. Logan selected a memorial day.

Massachusetts was the only state which could offer the President at once a militia equipped and ready to move, but everywhere in the north the young men were prompt to enlist. They were very young, most of them; young fellows of seventeen, eighteen and nineteen. The armies were filled, rank and file, by quite young men, boys, and adventurous young fellows who responded to the brass band in the town square, on the village green or the town hall steps, to the words of the spellbinder or the appeal of the President.

Why did these youths flock to the recruiting officer? Youth was in part the answer in itself—adventure, danger, band music, the smiles of girls, the moonlight, the oratory, lilacs, the exaltation of the senses into a sense of duty. To enlist was the thing to do. It was the duty. The country was in danger. Its unity was threatened and the young men wanted it to continue and be inherited by the people who would come after them.

The motives and ideals which influenced these men may seem to have lost merit and credit in quarters in which there is pretense of superior thought and intellectuality. They gave themselves freely to preserve an inheritance; having received it they thought so highly of it that they were determined to pass it on; it has been passed on and the present generation enjoys it. They were the grandsons of soldiers who had made the republic free. They paid a debt to their predecessors and imposed an obligation on their successors.

There is little danger that their spirit will die. The intellectuals who in times of peace gesticulate against the soldier largely delude themselves and their followers. When realities face the country the young men will do as their forefathers did, even those young men who now may think that it would be more intelligent to follow the white feather.

AN ENCOURAGING BEGINNING.

The announcement in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE of May 28 that the Surface Lines have solicited bids for one hundred new street cars is of more than passing interest to users of this form of transportation. Incidentally, this means 85 per cent of those Chicagoans who make use of a public conveyance to and from their places of work.

On receipt of satisfactory quotations the receiver for the Surface Lines will petition the courts for permission to appropriate the necessary money from the equipment replacement fund. Specifications for the new cars call for the highest type of vehicle that has yet been developed. They will be a distinct addition to the traction facilities of our city.

While we shall continue to carry in our Platform for Chicago the plank "Install Modern Street Cars," we offer congratulations for this distinctively forward movement. It is a start and, if followed by more aggressive action, the year 1936 should see a decided improvement in street car equipment on our thoroughfares. The contemplated order for one hundred cars will be welcomed by patrons of the street cars as an aperitif.

A HINT FOR MINNESOTA.

With the transit of a cargo of newsprint paper from Fort William, Ont., to Kansas City, Mo., via the lakes to gulf waterway and the improved Missouri river we are reminded that Minnesota has been an outstanding opponent of the necessary water diversion at Chicago to make the Illinois waterway a success, as well as a regular contributor to the St. Lawrence Tidewater association, wholesale distributor of propaganda in favor of the St. Lawrence seaway.

We are very well aware that Fort William is not located in Minnesota, but we are also aware that the mill at that point is one of several controled by a Minnesota paper company and further that it was located at the Canadian head of the lakes for the purpose of competing for the newsprint business tributary to these bodies of water.

Notwithstanding their ambitions for world-wide markets it should now be clear to citizens of Minnesota that the great bulk of their commerce will find markets in the United States and, therefore, a minimum cost American waterway to the Mississippi valley, to Ohio River points and to the center of the continent via the Missouri river will be of far more assistance in their future business expansion than the Canadian water "powerway" could ever be.

Editorial of the Day

[Illinois State Journal.]

There is some confusion regarding the issue which has arisen between those who advocate governmental control of farming operations and farmers who insist Washington keep its hands off their activities. Many persons regard the latter as unreasonable in opposing measures which, apparently, are for their own good as well as the good of the nation.

A better understanding can be had when we know that the objectors challenge Washington's competency to say what is best for them. They are not questioning the government's right to conserve natural resources or to intervene where there is misuse or abuse of agricultural domain. They do deny that burocrats at the national capital are better able to run the farms of the country than are the men whose money and energies are invested in the acres.

The farmers freely admit that they make errors. They do not say that each of them is as competent and as careful as he should be. They do insist, however, that they are doing a better job than could be done by politicians who want to tutor and boss them. They are not willing to subscribe to the idea that men who qualify for their jobs by haranguing and soft soaping farmers know what is best for the farm and the husbandman who tills it.

OH, THIS MACHINE AGE! Its wonders never cease. I am an amateur photographer and it always bothered me to death to guess what exposure and what opening in the lens I would give to a picture. Pooh! I've got hold of a new invention now that I hold in my hand and point at the object I intend to photograph. The light enters at the back of the thingamajig and starts an arrow on the dial to moving around, and by looking at it I am told what time I should give the picture and what size aperture of the shutter. Then all I have to do is to mind what the gadget says, fix my camera accordingly and shoot the picture. And by ging, it works! Now I am haunting the camera and photograph supply stores looking for another new invention that will develop the film while it is still in the camera and poke it out at me all finished and with the words written across it: "Having a grand time. Wish you were here." I haven't found it yet, but, by cracky, I will. The inventors are probably working on that thing right now.

THE POLICE ARRESTED a young man in a pawnshop in Chicago yesterday who was trying to pawn two saxophones. The police said if the young man owned those saxophones he could play on them, and so they asked for a tune. The young man couldn't play the tune, so he landed in the bastile. But is that a fair test? Who can get a tune out of a saxophone? The best they ever do is "oom pah, oom pah, oom pah," and nobody knows whether they're playing the "Maiden's Prayer" or "Life Is Just a Bowl of Cherries."

GREAT SCOTT! The senate passed a bill appropriating only four hundred and fifty-eight million dollars for navy supply. How come it wasn't four hundred and fifty-eight trillion, or at least four hundred and fifty-eight billion? Street car money. Taxicab fare. Loose change.

AN OBJECT LESSON.

They call the dandelion a weed, and yet
What is more purely lovely to behold
Than gracious emerald carpets closely set
With dots of living gold?

In all these years, they've never given any
Singer a theme for weaving them a song.
Perhaps tho—if they weren't quite so many
And didn't last so long—

Instead—with future crops to spur us on—
We recognize it as a sacred duty
To grub them from the lawn.

Ponder on this, oh youth! In every action

Even those deeds which give most satisfaction

THYROID REMOVAL A HEART REMEDY.

It has long been known that there exists a close relationship between the thyroid and the adrenal glands.

The heart as the pumping station for blood is naturally affected by the secretions from both these sources. We are now faced with the suggestion that the removal of the thyroid gland will relieve the heart from considerable labor and, therefore, permit it to function efficiently even though it is the seat of disease.

A few years ago S. A. Levine made an accidental observation that seemed to him to establish an intimate relationship between a normal or an overactive thyroid gland and a diseased heart. In 1927 a considerable portion of the thyroid gland was removed from a patient because the heart disease from which she suffered was thought to have some relation to excessive secretion of the thyroid. When the gland was examined it was found to be normal. Nevertheless, the patient was relieved of her heart symptoms and remained well for several years.

The remarkable result in this particular case led Levine and others to propose the removal of the major portion of the thyroid gland in certain heart conditions, including angina pectoris. After studying the effects of the procedure on several patients it was found that while there was improvement in heart symptoms for a short time, sooner or later they returned. This led another observer, Blumgart, to suggest that the entire thyroid gland should be removed, and in December of 1932 such an operation was performed on a sufferer from chronic rheumatic heart disease with symptoms of angina pectoris. Following the operation all heart symptoms disappeared and in less than four months the patient was working eight hours each day without the slightest heart embarrassment.

It should be noted that the symptoms for which removal of the thyroid was undertaken were in no instance definitly related to the gland itself, but were purely heart symptoms; heart failure or heart pain [angina].

In a recent report Blumgart analyzed the results of complete removal of the thyroid in 75 persons suffering from chronic heart disease. All the patients had been practically incapacitated because of heart symptoms. This in spite of recourse to every known heart remedy. The ages of these patients ranged from 18 to 69 years. Twenty-four have remained well for from two to eighteen months. In 6 cases the heart symptoms returned, but yielded promptly to the usual heart remedies. Two were not benefited by the operation. Of 32 patients with angina pectoris, 25 presented the symptoms in severe form and of this group 8 have had no recurrence of heart pain. Five who had been completely incapacitated have had but one subsequent anginal attack. All but four found that they could become more active and these four have pain only when exercise is indulged in.

It appears, therefore, that removal of the thyroid gland offers better than a fifty per cent relief possibility in intractable heart disease, particularly angina pectoris, and should be considered—at least in those patients in whom other forms of heart therapy have failed to improve the condition.

The question arises: Is the method worth the risk? Are subsequent complications, for example, the development of myxedema [too little thyroid secretion] serious? Those who propose the plan believe that the patient should be maintained at an activity level about twenty per cent under normal. This means that the metabolic rate should be considerably lower than the average. If myxedema develops it can be controled through the administration of thyroid extract or of thyroxin.

If the method does nothing but relieve the intense paroxysms of angina pectoris, it is worth considering in a few carefully selected cases. Naturally, the whole undertaking must be in the hands of experts, as the operation for total removal of the thyroid gland is a technical procedure requiring the highest technical skill.

WATER IN EARS.

W. P. writes: When I swim I get water in my ears. How can I get rid of it?

REPLY.

It will either absorb or run out if the head is held to one side. Sometimes a soft cotton plug may be inserted in the ear canal. This will absorb the water by capillary attraction. You may keep out water by using a firm cotton plug in each ear prior to your initial dive.

REMOVE PRESSURE.

A. T. B. writes: What will cure or remedy a tailor's bunion? It is very painful.

REPLY.

Removal of pressure is advocated. If this is not successful surgery may be necessary.

SEE YOUR PHYSICIAN.

W. H. M. writes: Is pus in the urine a bad sign?

REPLY.

Pus in the urine means infection somewhere along the urinary tract. The source is probably the bladder wall or the kidneys. Copious water drinking will help. See your physician.

IT'LL TAKE A LOT.

P. B. S. writes: Can one get delusions or delirium tremens from drinking beer? I am a good beer drinker.

REPLY.

JUDGMENT AND EXECUTOR'S POWERS.

Evanston, Ill., May 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Can a judgment of $21 be satisfied by attaching a motor car worth about $200 without lien, when balance of personal property [furniture, etc.] figures only about $100, or hardly $300 as a total? 2. Can the executrix of an estate consisting of house, bonds, and stocks, being one of several approximately equal beneficiaries, dispose of said estate, saying whether house shall be sold, who shall take certain bonds, etc.? 3. Is her opinion or vote the same as that of other heirs in reaching a majority decision? 4. Death occurred in May, 1934, and will was promptly probated for tax assessment, but probate clerk's record gives an October, 1934, date as time when inventory was filed. Does the year allowed for filing claims start at time of death or from time date of filing? 5. Must executrix give complete accounting showing all receipts and disbursements during the year that elapses before division of estate? 6. Must appraisal of stocks and bonds submitted by executrix be accepted as final or can one of heirs submit appraisal secured by him and have it receive equal consideration? M. G.

1. The exemption to the head of a family is $400 worth. To a person who is not head of a family, $100 worth. If an attorney is representing you, he is in a better position to advise you than we are.
2. The powers of the executrix depend on the wording of the will.
3. See 2.
4. The year runs from the date when the executrix qualified.
5. She must file such an account in court.
6. If the basis of your objection is that the appraisal figures enter into the distribution, then you can object to the distribution. Otherwise, we do not understand how you are prejudiced by appraisal.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

REFUSES PERMISSION.

Chicago, May 23.—[Friend of the People.]—I wrote you some time ago complaining of a bursted drain pipe on the property next door to my house. The leak results in flooding my sidewalk and back yard, making it impossible for me to get to the garbage can or garage. Nothing has been done to remedy this nuisance and I am again taking the matter up with you to see if some action can't be taken. J. H.

You are advised that, due to a former complaint, the following notice was served on the owner of the premises in question: "Properly repair roof gutter west side of building." A reinspection was made recently and the inspector reported, in part, as follows: "Interviewed the complainant relative to allowing workmen to put a ladder in her passageway to repair rain gutter on the adjoining building. She stated that under no condition would she allow any one to use her property; that the owner next door can do all the work necessary on his own property." DR. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, President, Board of Health.

COURT PROCEEDINGS.

Chicago, May 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I was the defendant in a court case last August and the case was dismissed, as the plaintif was not in court. Last week I got a summons to appear in court on the same case through the mail. I made a mistake and went to the wrong room. I found out later that the plaintif got a judgment against me. 1. Can a case that has been dismissed be brought up again after eight months? 2. Is there any way I could bring the case to court again? 3. Can my wages be garnisheed before I am notified? R. M.

1. In general, no. We suggest that you look the case up in the court records to find exactly what was done. It seems probable that a new case was started. You will probably also obtain in this way information as to the theory on which the summons was served upon you.
2. The first step would be to investigate the records.
3. After the judgment against you the next step would be the service of a garnishee demand notice, followed by a garnishment summons. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

The DEBUNKER

There is no valid reason for supposing that people with red hair are any more "hot tempered" than other people. The only thing that would indicate such a condition is the "red hot" color of the hair. Many mild mannered people have red hair and plenty of black haired people have bad tempers. Studies have shown that there is about the same percentage of bad tempers among red headed people as among all other people.

NO CONSTITUTIONAL DESPOTISM.

Rockford, Ill., May 29.—We act first and think afterwards. With untold millions spent in frantic and impractical experiments during the last two years we now discover the constitution cannot be stretched by visionary theorists to set up a political despotism under the pretense of economic planning. The astonishing thing about our progress in the science of political economy is the long way we have yet to go. C. L. C.

MAKEUP AND THE CAMERA.

Wilmette, Ill., May 26.—In the rotogravure section of your SUNDAY TRIBUNE of May 26 you have devoted a full page under the heading of "Magic in Makeup" to showing a number of movie actresses in "supposed" before and after photographs. Its misrepresentation [unintentional, I am sure] prompted me to write to you about it.

Being a portrait photographer, I think it only my duty to see that credit due photography should be properly placed. In the first place, the "before" photographs are "news" snaps and are candid to a degree; however, they have no higher standing as photographs than the proverbial passport photos, taken and finished while you wait. Secondly, the "after" photographs are studio portraits executed by capable camera men under a controled light and masterfully retouched.

So as you see, the group does not constitute a before and after proof, and, furthermore, were they truly before and after photos the credit for the change still would belong to photography and not to makeup. A capable photographer does not rely on makeup to produce most flattering results. In short, my contention is, that makeup had nothing to do with the result shown in the "after" portraits of the ladies. My belief is that the boost the beauticians received by your "Magic in Makeup" is at the expense of photographers, and the correction of that impression will be appreciated not only by the entire photographic profession but by the intelligent laymen who saw the incongruity of the page as well. A. A. K.

TAGGER'S MINIMUM.

Chicago, May 27.—Since when have taggers placed a restriction on the amount of money acceptable for donation? On Monday, at the southwest corner of Clark and Adams street, I placed a five cent piece in the box and was curtly informed that the price was ten cents. When I told the woman that that was the only small change I had she asked the newsboy to change whatever money I had. If that is the spirit in which donations are taken I will not attempt again to contribute what little I can. W. M. R.

IN RECOGNITION OF KINDNESS.

Chicago, May 25.—This morning at 8:15 I boarded a Clark street car at Division street and wish to comment on the unusual courteous treatment given to a woman who apparently was ill. The conductor helped her off the car about Oak street and took her into a restaurant where she received attention. He kept the passengers waiting a few minutes, but doubtless had the admiration of all the people on the car due to his sympathetic treatment of this woman. I failed to get his number. A SUBSCRIBER.

JUST OUTSIDE SUBURBIA.

Equality, Ill., May 20.—With the inauguration of THE TRIBUNE'S platform for improved and better suburban steam railway service, a little might be said as to the railroads' seeming reluctance in improving the service to and from those sections beyond the suburban zone which are suburban in character.

The speeding up of the long distance and medium distance trains has only emphasized the impossibly slow schedules that these trains make. Local trains arrive in the city at all times from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., but rarely before these times, and consequently are of no use to most people going to Chicago who desire to arrive in the early morning. The worst offenders are C. B. & Q.'s train No. 4 and the Santa Fe morning local which arrives at 12:15 p. m. Train No. 4 has often made up 30 to 40 minutes when late, and it is difficult to see the object of the Burlington route keeping the present slow schedule in the face of what this and other trains can do. With the advent of daylight saving time in the metropolitan district matters are only made worse, for no one traveling on business can afford to arrive after the morning is over and the afternoon rush is just beginning.

The railroads run their through trains on schedules that provide for early morning arrivals. For the same reason why shouldn't they do the same for the local passenger? He pays the same fare, his business interests are just as important to him as if he were riding the Twentieth Century instead of No. 4; he should be accorded the same service as much as possible.

For this reason, inability to see what the local passenger desires, the railroads have lost their short haul trafic, and it has been in this field that the decline in railroad passenger trafic has been greatest. Low fares may stimulate a little, but they are of little use if the schedules and services are unattractive.

GERMAN BARBED WIRE.

Niota, Ill., May 22.—In the yard of a farm neighbor the other day was a spool of new barbed wire tagged "Made in Germany." The farmer showed the proper American spirit by saying: "I would not have taken it had I seen that tag."

Why import barbed wire; do we not have wire and fence mills? Are they so overrun with orders that they cannot produce all the barbed wire needed? Or is it a part of the asinine policy of the present administration to keep German workers employed while those of the United States are on relief?

According to reports England is making remarkable recovery from the depression. Many hold England's "Buy British" campaign is largely responsible for it. Why not help the United States to recover by buying goods made within its borders? GEORGE A. WICKWIRE.

THE CHURCH OF ETHIOPIA.

Joliet, Ill., May 24.—Permit me to call your attention to a misstatement in this morning's TRIBUNE, page 4, column 2, regarding the relation of the Church of Ethiopia [which is a branch of the Eastern Greek Orthodox and Apostolic church] to the "Catholic religion." A little skirmish with the history of Abyssinia and Ethiopia will prove a good antidote to such misstatements.

FEDERAL COUPONS GIVEN

MOVE TO BLOCK DIVORCED WIVES' PENSION PLOTS

City to Protect Police and Fire Funds.

Efforts of divorced wives of deceased Chicago policemen and firemen to obtain lifelong incomes from the city's pension funds by having their divorce decrees set aside will be halted under legislation now pending in Springfield, George F. Mulligan, assistant corporation counsel, said yesterday.

The city is supporting a bill, introduced in the senate by Senator John M. Lee of Chicago, which would bar widows of city employés from pension benefits if their claims are not filed within a year of the death of the employé, and would not recognize the setting aside of divorce decrees unless the action occurred within five years from the time the decree was granted.

Two Try for Pensions.

"Our request for passage of the bill resulted from two attempts of ex-wives of city workers to collect benefits by having divorce decrees set aside," Mr. Mulligan said. "The cases have not yet been finally decided, but we wish to protect the pension funds from further such raids."

The first case came before the policemen's annuity and benefit fund officials following the death of Patrolman James J. McGuire in September, 1934.

McGuire, in 1898, had married Maria Shanley, who, in 1907, suffered an attack of recurrent melancholia and was sent to the state hospital at Kankakee. She returned to her husband in the summer of 1909, and in December, 1910, sued him for divorce, charging drunkenness. She obtained the decree by default.

Asks $50 Pension.

Patrolman McGuire did not remarry, and shortly after his death, Mrs. McGuire, living with her parents in Utica, Ill., applied for a pension of $50 a month in McGuire's name. The application was denied, and Mrs. McGuire then sought to have her divorce decree set aside on the grounds that she was incompetent at the time it was granted. The pension board contested this action before Circuit Judge Robert E. Larkin, who now has the case under advisement.

In a second action involving the pension board, Mrs. Mabel Bernero, 2459 West Superior street, a former wife of John D. Bernero, a fireman who died in May, 1933, had a divorce decree granted to Bernero set aside on the grounds that he had given false affidavit as to her place of residence.

Fireman's Ex-Wife Applies.

Mrs. Bernero then sought to obtain a pension of $45 a month in Bernero's name.

Following his divorce, on charges of desertion, Bernero had remarried, but his second wife had died a few months preceding his own death.

The pension board, according to Mr. Mulligan, did not know of Mrs. Bernero's action until she made application for a pension. The board has now taken a petition for a right to intervene in the decree proceedings to the Appellate court.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Away from It All

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

This Memorial day is sure to be long remembered by Ireene Wicker. At 5:30 today during her W-G-N-NBC Singing Lady broadcast she is to be awarded a gold medal for distinguished service to radio by Radio Stars magazine. Mrs. John Sharpless Fox, president of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, will be on hand to add her felicitations.

On this day, too, Ireene will be reminded that there will be few holidays for her in the future. As the new leading lady of the NBC serial, "Sally of the Talkies"—an assignment she agreed yesterday to undertake—she will have to work Sundays, also, her only day of leisure now. Basil Loughrane will be the leading man in this revamped show. Henry Saxe, Isabelle Randolph, and Murray Forbes round out the cast. Ireene also appears in "Today's Children" and "Song of the City," written by Walter Wicker, her husband.

Evening broadcasts from Trafic court will be launched next Thursday over WBBM. Supplementing the 10:30 morning broadcasts, started seven months ago, a 30 minute broadcast will be heard from 7:30 to 8 o'clock every Thursday from the court, with Judge John Gutknecht presiding. Mayor Kelly will inaugurate the first evening broadcast, speaking from his office. Afterward Chief Justice Sonsteby of the Municipal court and several safety leaders will speak from the court.

Helen Oelheim, soloist on Capt. Henry's Show Boat, was engaged for starring rôles with the Metropolitan Opera company for next season yesterday by Manager Edward Johnson.

Yes, it's another amateur hour! When Ed Wynn leaps astride his horse for a summer's vacation June 4, Eddy Duchin, the musical director of the Fire Chief hour, will begin a tour of the nation's bigger cities to conduct "a national open tournament for new radio talent." They'll visit Chicago sometime next month. At the end of the summer the pick of the finds will be taken to New York to put on a final broadcast.

Halloween Martin, who is the voice of the Musical Clock mornings on WBBM, has an added interest in the Indianapolis auto races today. Her husband, Roy Kurtzeborn, has a car entered. Parker Wheatley will pinch hit for her today.

PLAN FUNERAL TOMORROW FOR MRS. CARPENTER

Funeral services for Mrs. Lucy A. Carpenter, 86 years old, of Norfolk, Va., long prominent in musical and other cultural activities in Chicago, will be held at 1 p. m. tomorrow in Rosehill cemetery chapel. Mrs. Carpenter died in Norfolk Tuesday of pneumonia after a brief illness.

Mrs. Carpenter was born in Chicago, daughter of Levi Day Boone, who was mayor from 1855 to 1857, and was the widow of George B. Carpenter, head of the old Central Music hall, who died in 1888. Upon his death she became director of the Central Music hall at State and Randolph streets, which she conducted for several years.

An accomplished singer and pianist, Mrs. Carpenter was for many years music critic for the Chicago Evening Journal, and was long active in musicians' organizations. She helped found the Cordon club and the Amateur Music club of Chicago, now the Musicians' Club of Women, which she once headed. Mrs. Carpenter was a member of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra association at its foundation. She was a member and twice past president of the Chicago Woman's club.

Mrs. Carpenter lived in Chicago until four years ago. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. John B. Mills, with whom she lived in Norfolk, and a son, George, of Medford, Ore.

RITES TOMORROW FOR OTTO HEPER, FLOWER LOVER

Funeral services for Otto Heper, 73 years old, 224 South York street, Elmhurst, a resident of the Chicago area his entire life, will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. from the chapel at 134 South York street, Elmhurst, and burial will be in Calvary cemetery. Mr. Heper died Monday at his home, after a heart attack.

He was born on Chicago's west side, and moved to Elmhurst 25 years ago, where he was active in civic affairs, serving for many years as a member of the park board. He was employed by Cooper Kanaley company, Chicago brokers.

Mr. Heper's hobby was flowers and his gardens drew admiring visitors every year. He is survived by his widow, Alice M. Heper, and two sisters, Mrs. John Milloy of Holland, Mich., and Mrs. Paul V. Troup of Evanston.

BILLY IRELAND, CARTOONIST, IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Columbus, O., May 29.—(AP)—W. A. [Billy] Ireland, 55, noted cartoonist, died at his home here today.

The widely known artist for the Columbus Dispatch, whose sketches have been reproduced in newspapers and news magazines throughout the country, died unexpectedly.

Ireland was known to his friends as a man who knew how to live. He took life good naturedly, and each spring made what he termed a "gypsy tour" through southern states.

Day in Country Holiday Plan of Many Folk

Fishing and Golf Will Be Enjoyed.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MEMORIAL DAY, made a legal holiday for commemorating the soldiers and sailors who served in the civil war, still is observed with the decoration of graves and patriotic exercises by school children and members of patriotic organizations, but to many adults flying the flag in front of the house is the extent of observing the original significance of the holiday.

It is a day of recreation, and to many urban residents the most pleasant way to spend a lovely spring day is to go to the country. So this morning the roads to the various country clubs, north, south and west, will be crowded with members and their families bound for a day in the sunshine, we hope!

Many of the clubs are having their formal openings today with golf tournaments for men, but few are having dances tonight, most of them preferring to dance on Saturday night.

The holiday falling on a Thursday is making it possible for some to go far from home for long week-end trips, and fishermen especially are taking advantage of the opportunity to go to Wisconsin and fish for everything but black bass. That season does not open until June 20, so any one who pulls a black bass from the water and keeps it may spend his holiday in jail. But there are plenty of other kinds of fish to lure an angler to Wisconsin waters. The young Denis E. Sullivans left by motor yesterday morning for Hayward, hoping to catch some muskellunge, and a large party of Lake Foresters will be at the Coleman Lake club for the four day holiday. Mr. and Mrs. A. Watson Armour, the Harold C. Smiths, the Robert Hixons, and the Francis Manierres motored up yesterday, and the Hampden Winstons, the Edward Shumways, and the Huntington Henrys went by train last night.

William E. Clows at Coleman Lake.

The William E. Clows, who will celebrate their 53d wedding anniversary on Saturday, left by train last night for the Coleman Lake club, too, and they will be there on June 1, just as they were last year for the 52d anniversary of their wedding. Mrs. Clow has given up fishing, but there is nothing she enjoys more than joining her husband at noon and helping him cook and eat his catch. The Armours and the Shumways were at Coleman lake last year when the club cook prepared a special dinner for the bride and bridegroom of more than half a century ago.

The Glen View club is one of the few that is having its opening dinner-dance tonight. During the day there will be golf events for the men and the pool will be ready for use today, although there may be no members brave enough to use it, unless the temperature is higher than it has been lately.

Some of those who will have guests tonight are the Frank R. Elliotts, the Henry H. Windsors, Mr. and Mrs. Shepard Roberts, Miss Helen Johnson, the Chester D. Tripps, and the Norman Fords.

The Flossmoor Country club also will have its opening dinner-dance tonight, following a day of golf for the men and bridge for the women. There will be a mixed foursome after 3 o'clock.

Others Will Hold Dances Saturday.

The Chicago Golf club at Wheaton, the Exmoor club in Highland Park and the Knollwood club in Lake Forest are having their first dancing parties of the season on Saturday, and the Indian Hill and the Skokie clubs will have theirs on June 8. The popular Sunday buffet luncheons were started at the Shoreacres club a month ago, but no dances are planned as yet.

The Exmoor club will open its new pool much later in the season and the Indian Hill club plans to have its new pool ready for swimming by July 4. The pool at the Chicago Golf club will be filled in a day or two, and the one at the Knollwood club is ready for use today. The Onwentsia club had its first dinner-dance of the season last night and today its pleasant pool will be ready for intrepid swimmers.

The Stage

A movement to strengthen the economic position of the legitimate theater in New York by the legalization of Sunday night performances has received a setback from the actors. A vote taken among the members of the Actors' Equity association in New York, announced yesterday by its president, Frank Gillmore, gives the following results:

Against Sunday performances under any consideration, 152. In favor of Sunday performances providing that actors will receive double pay, 152. In favor of Sunday performances at a normal salary, 10. In favor of a trial period of one year, 36.

This vote is not decisive, since the referendum is to be national among members of the association. The play producers in New York, however, are almost unanimous in the feeling that if the actors' union consents to Sunday performances only if granted double pay managers will not take advantage of legalization.

"While the City Sleeps," an old-school melodrama dealing with villainy and heroism under the street lamps of New York forty years ago, went into performance last night on the showboat Dixiana as the eleventh revival of its career in Chicago. Janet Logan, popular young actress of boys' rôles, has rejoined the company.

The North Shore Drama festival will open its ticket sale on June 1 at the Central School playhouse of Glencoe, at Lyon & Healy's in Evanston, and at the organization's Chicago headquarters, 72 East 11th street.

Bishop Sheil to Be Guest at Silver Jubilee Dinner

Fred E. Smith, principal of the Gregory Elementary school, 3715 West Polk street, who is retiring next month after thirty-one years of service in the Chicago public schools, was the guest last night at a dinner at the Palmer house given by a group of Gregory school teachers. Mr. Smith has been principal of the Gregory school for the last twelve years.

Mary Pickford Will Produce, Star in Film

Hollywood, Cal., May 29.—(AP)—Mary Pickford intends to fill a double rôle in the movie industry—producer and star.

In announcing as one of the owner-producers in the United Artists group that the studio will not merge with any other company, Miss Pickford said today she would produce at least four pictures with her company in one of which she will take the leading rôle.

She asserted that Charles Chaplin, Samuel Goldwyn and herself, three owner-producers, have "somebody in mind" for president of United Artists to succeed Joseph Schenck, who resigned. Her former husband, Douglas Fairbanks, fourth owner-producer in the group, was reported on his way to Hollywood.

Rumors that United Artists would combine with another of the major companies followed the resignation of Schenck and the withdrawal of his Twentieth Century pictures from the United Artists group to merge with the Fox group.

Indications that Walt Disney, producer of Mickey Mouse and Silly Symphony cartoons, would become the fifth member of the United Artists group and also greatly expand production, were given in an advertisment published by Disney in newspapers today. The advertisment called for artists in wholesale numbers and setting the deadline for applications for June 9.

United Artists has released the Disney Productions for several years.

A DOG with a wide flannel bandage on his throat was being walked along Sheridan road by his mistress. As they waited for a trafic light a stranger who had patted the dog and had been told that the dog had tonsilitis patted him again, saying, "Poor doggie." Whereupon the dog's owner gave him a queer look.

"O, he doesn't know it," she explained.

THE above brings to mind another true story told by Virginia Culver about a woman who was walking her dog. She approached a man who, as it happened, was toothless because his plate was at the dentist's. As she had seen him several mornings during her promenade with her dog she felt privileged to speak to him.

"Why don't you get some false teeth?" she had the temerity to inquire after observing his toothless condition.

"Madame, when I wear them I bite women and dogs," he replied.

A SPECIAL writer on an evening newspaper stayed overnight at a hotel near his office so he could be at his office early following primary election day. He paid $2.50 for his room. As he was leaving the hotel he encountered the hotel's press agent.

"Next time you come in," said the p. a., "tell the clerk you're on my list. He'll fix you up with the best room possible for the minimum price." [Knowing the integrity of the newspaper man, he did not offer the room free.] "Don't let it bother your ethics; it's a regular thing."

On election night the newspaper man again went to the hotel. He told the clerk who he was and that he was on the p. a.'s list.

"Yes, yes," said the clerk, calling him by name. "How about something for $3?"

"O. K.," replied the writer and followed the bellhop to the elevator and into the very room he had been given previously and without "influence" for a half dollar less.

Gay Costumes of Old Vienna Worn at Ball

Happy May Party Presents Striking Scene.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

All of the romance, color, and gayety of old Vienna was revived last night at the Germania club, Clark street at Germania place, to produce one of the most delightfully picturesque parties of many a social season.

More than 150 persons, most of them in costumes reminiscent of the days of the great Franz Josef, ascended the club's broad stairs to the second floor ballroom shortly after 8 o'clock. They stopped for Mai-bowle [May wine in English] in the outer foyer and then moved on into the candle lighted dining room for a supper typically Viennese from the highly seasoned chicken paprika to the linzer torte.

There was no blare of trumpets nor beat of drums. The music was by a stringed orchestra and the waltz was the dance of the evening. In every detail the evening was "Mai im Wien" [May in Vienna], just as the mysterious telephoned invitations had promised a fortnight before. Few of the guests knew, until they arrived, who was responsible for the party, and then it took more than a little sleuthing to discover that Alfred Wolfe and the Madlener twins, Otto and William, were committee members.

It would be impossible to name the loveliest costume—they were all so strikingly pretty. Especially stunning was the white organdy bouffant dress worn by Mrs. John R. Winterbothain Jr. with a delightful coiffure created by means of a white wig. Black ribbons caught the curls in place. Just as striking were Mrs. Walter S. Brewster with fresh flowers delicately twined through her hair and Miss Jean Stevens in a white organdy dress that was her own.

Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed and Mrs. W. Irving Osborne also wore formal gowns from their own wardrobes, which indicates, perhaps, that fashion's fancy has reverted to the beauty and elegance of another day . . . just as her arbiters decreed last fall. The gown worn by Mrs. Goodspeed, who was having a hilariously good time, was pink ruffled chiffon. A round corsage that she carried and flowers in her hair enhanced her beauty.

With her silver curls piled high and her pink taffeta gown fashioned into a bustle, Mrs. Howard Linn was another who might well have been the queen of the ball. The dress of Mrs. Charles H. Swift was black net and taken from among the many costumes that she has preserved from her days on the opera stage. There was a suggestion of the frivolous in the Alpine feather Mr. Swift tucked in his hat. Arriving with the Swifts were the Tiffany Blakes.

Masculine honors went to George Lynes, who came as Napoleon. Mr. Lynes was in a party with Miss Alice Roullier, who portrayed a peasant girl strolling through the Prater, Vienna's famous park. Her costume combined the colors of the rainbow and on her head she wore a Leghorn hat, flower trimmed.

A Leghorn hat trimmed in a wreath of roses and jauntily tilted over one eye was becoming to Mrs. Arthur Cable, whose dress was a pin striped green taffeta. Mrs. George T. Senseney was a Viennese ballerina in a black and white net knee length dress, while Miss Janet Fairbank looked as if she had just stepped off the stage. Miss Fairbank wore the pink satin gown that she appeared in recently in the production of one of Thornton Wilder's plays at the University of Chicago.

Miss Francise Clow insisted that her white organdy waltzing frock used to be a "robe de nuit," but her friends were skeptical. Mrs. Adlai Stevenson was assured by more than one guest that she will still be a stunning matron when her hair silvers, for the white wig she wore last night with a black taffeta dress and a heavy black shawl was exceptionally becoming.

Black was also the choice of Miss Theodora Shaw, who was escorted by her fiancé, John L. King. Mr. King was garbed to represent a member of the Royal Guard. Most of the gentlemen, however, depended upon a few medals or a false moustache to make them suitable Austrian beaux.

Good Morning!

If you're in the neighborhood of the pleasant little Julian theater, drop in and see "En Natt" [One Night]—a first run, first rate Swedish film that's now showing there.

While all of the dialog is in Swedish, English subtitles are flashed for the benefit of English patrons—a scarcely necessary gesture, so splendid, so comprehensible is the acting of the well chosen cast.

The story—fatalistic in tone—and daring an unhappy ending, concerns one Armas, who joins the rebel forces and is captured when his troop train is wrecked. His brother Wilhelm, an officer in the federal army, permits Armas parole for a night in order that he may visit their mother, who lives near by. For reasons the picture will show, Armas does not see his mother but goes to spend his last hours with his Russian sweetheart. He gives his solemn word of honor to return in time for his execution. And so . . . ?

You will find the photography most creditable, and that the director knew his business down to the ground.

Real Flowers in Vogue for Any Costume

Wide Choice Is Offered for Each Occasion.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Practically every one wears real flowers these days. Boutonnieres for your suit lapels can be a single flower or a compact nosegay depending upon your imagination and loose change.

Large corsage arrangements feature color contrast and unusual combinations. For afternoon you wear them tucked in the belt. Cornflowers, white or deep red, or the blazing scarlet carnations are used for trim tailored suits whether of tweed or smooth dark woolens. Lilies of the valley in big effective bunches are swanky white contrasts for dress parade black, navy, brown, and every other dark color ensemble. These fragile feminine flowers are perfect as the white accent for prints also. Yellow centered daisies are also used for suits and street outfits of linen or cottons.

With the fluttering evening gowns of chiffon, in both printed and plain colors, real flowers are again used. A pair of snowy white gardenias slanting upward, just above the ear, or two tucked low on the neckline at the back, or a halo effect of tiny buds are among styles for evening. Pale pink rosebuds combined with violets make a hoop of flowers to wear with dance dresses of pastel colored nets, organdies, and lace.

Yellow rosebuds with cornflowers are lovely combines for Titian haired charmers. Pansies, even though they wilt a bit sooner than other flowers, are used for boutonnieres as well as wreathes and nosegays tucked in belts, over the ear, or as wrist bracelets. Carnations, spicy and colorful, seem to dramatize the crispness of summer dance dresses of dotted Swiss, pique, organdies, and mousseline de soie.

Whatever you wear from dawn till the wee hours of the next day, if you know your fashions, you'll wear real flowers every chance you can.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

You might be interested to know what a celebrated nerve specialist has to say about relaxing your way to beauty. He's a great believer in cat naps and sessions of utter listlessness and thinks they do more for beauty and youth of face than any other kind of a beauty treatment.

When your nerves are all kinked up all of the time you can bet your life that it will show in your face. You'll have a grimness of expression that's definitly unattractive, for one thing, and for another those facial muscles you hold so taut will eventually bring you a contour no artist would love to paint. And nervous women, this man pointed out, are the ones who habitually frown or glower and who invariably have a tension about their mouths. From such as these deep wrinkles are born.

Then he took up the matter of grace. He swears no woman can have bodily grace unless she is either relaxed by nature or trains herself in the fine art of letting go. The woman who's always jangled of nerve can't possibly have the smooth, beautiful coordination of the cat. When she sits in a chair she plants her feet tightly or winds one around the other instead of failing into the relaxed position that is always attractive.

And this tenseness shows itself especially in walks. The jittery woman is always in a rush—and the rushing carriage isn't beautiful. She forgets all about free and easy posture and is inclined to hunch up her shoulders and practically lead with her chin in her mad rush to get from here to there. The effect of smart clothes is completely destroyed, too.

And she's a fiddler—she plays with the silver and wriggles her fingers; this has been known to drive onlookers mad with irritation. There isn't a bit of charm to it.

So you'd better relax, all you beauty seekers. Get into the habit of letting every nerve unkink. It will be hard at first, but when you get the hang of it you'll have a charm and beauty secret.

ELEANOR NANGLE.

THE SLEEPING CHILD

By Alice Grant Rosman.

SYNOPSIS.

The girls of the Chevening family of Fendon Edge are pursuing careers, Pauline producing plays; Eleanor is studying medicine; Jenny, the youngest, runs a hat shop and changes fiancés now and then. Audrey, an orphaned cousin, with a talent for design, has for fifteen years been as a daughter to Anne and George Chevening, the girls' parents. Audrey becomes engaged to Miles Buchanan. Miles has been forced, through adversity, to shut up most of the Priory, his inherited home. He and Geoffrey Burton are partners in a stock breeding venture. Albert King, wealthy newcomer to Fendon, wants to buy the ruins of an ancient monastery on the Priory grounds. Anne Chevening had been in love with Audrey's father, Hector Chevening. Her parents had broken up the romance and persuaded her to marry his cousin. Later Hector, a victim of the war and penniless, had brought his wife and child to visit the Chevenings, at George's invitation. Anne still loved Hector and knew he still loved her. Shortly after they left, Hector shot his wife and himself. Neighbors had heard them quarrel. Audrey was in the next room, apparently asleep. No one ever spoke to her of the tragedy. Anne loves Audrey as her own child, but her sense of guilt has formed a barrier between them. When the engagement is announced, gossip begins. Miss Dorset, Miles' aunt, has stated that Audrey's father was killed by the Turks. Miss Fell, village gossip, calls Audrey a cuckoo in the nest. Both remarks are overheard by the rector's children, Minx and Binks. They come to Fendon Edge for a visit and repeat the remarks to Audrey. Eleanor brings home a detective magazine with a lurid cover of a murdered woman and carelessly leaves it before Audrey. Eleanor tells Geoffrey Burton that his faithless wife has returned to the neighborhood.

INSTALMENT XXXIV.

DANGER TO MILES.

Burton went home that night and got drunk, a panacea he generally denied himself. He had been infatuated with his wife, who had used him vilely. A pretty, calculating young woman, she had taken everything and given nothing, recklessly spending his money, involving him right and left, and walking off with another man when it was evident there was no more to be had. His struggle to avoid bankruptcy had perhaps saved him from going to pieces, but his disillusion was complete, and he loathed Mabel and every memory connected with her.

Next morning he was in one of his worst moods, cursing the men and falling foul of Miles, who let him alone until midday, and then persuaded him into the house to go through some accounts.

"Gosh, I've got a head on me, Buchanan," he said.

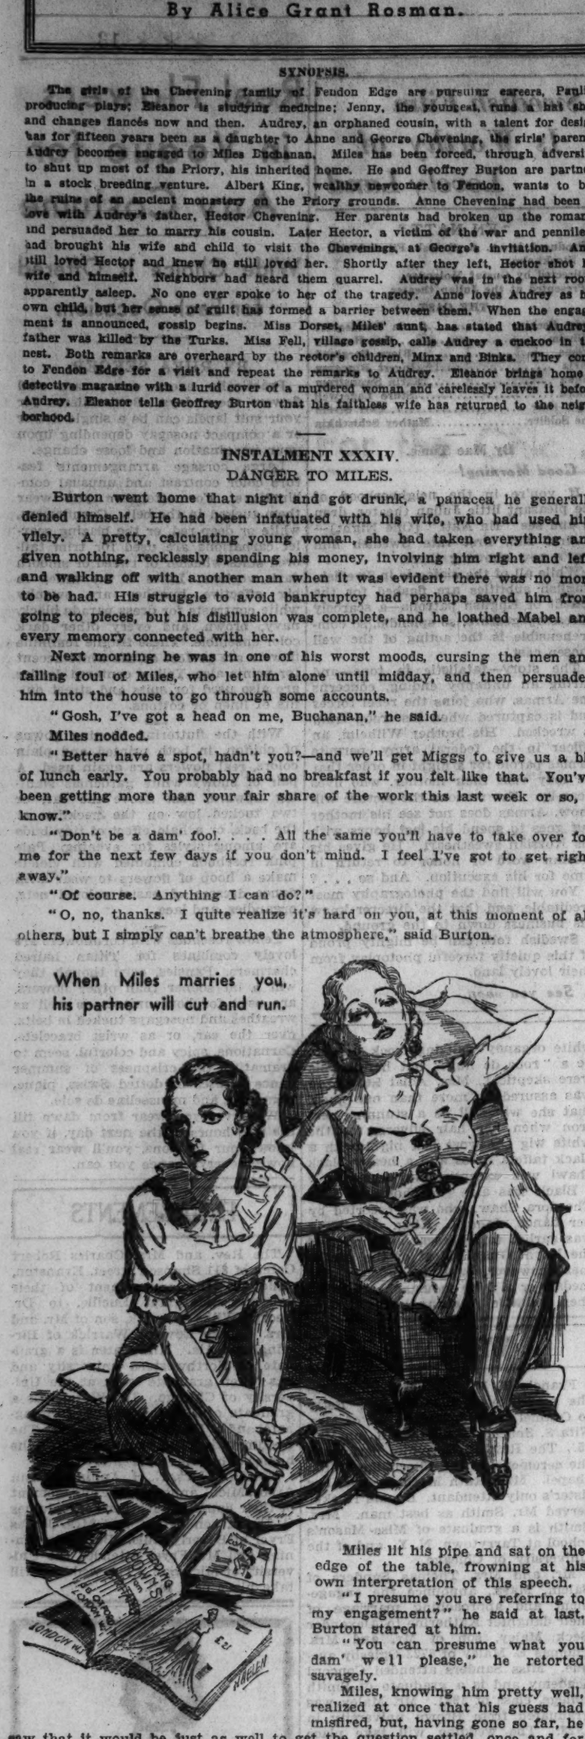
Miles nodded.

"Better have a spot, hadn't you?—and we'll get Miggs to give us a bit of lunch early. You probably had no breakfast if you felt like that. You've been getting more than your fair share of the work this last week or so, I know."

"Don't be a dam' fool. . . . All the same you'll have to take over for me for the next few days if you don't mind. I feel I've got to get right away."

"Of course. Anything I can do?"

"O, no, thanks. I quite realize it's hard on you, at this moment of all others, but I simply can't breathe the atmosphere," said Burton.



Miles lit his pipe and sat on the edge of the table, frowning at his own interpretation of this speech.

"I presume you are referring to my engagement?" he said at last. Burton stared at him.

"You can presume what you dam' well please," he retorted savagely.

Miles, knowing him pretty well, realized at once that his guess had misfired, but, having gone so far, he saw that it would be just as well to get the question settled, once and for all, and, choosing his words, he said:

"There's no need to get your hair off, old chap. If you feel the position is going to be untenable now I'm going to be married, hadn't we better face it?"

"In simple language for the young, you want me to clear out, in fact?" Burton caught him up at once.

"No, you fool; I'm merely scared stiff that you will want to quit."

"You can't have supposed I expected you to remain single for the rest of your life to suit my convenience," he said, dryly.

Miles grinned.

"Phew! Well, that's a relief, anyway, and I'm glad I've got it off my chest. I mean to say, things are beginning to move, Geoff, and it would be a thousand pities . . . frankly, it would put me up the spout, for you are the brains of this outfit. And by the way, if you want a spell, suppose you take the car and go up north to see that fellow Jefferson's stud? Kill two birds with one stone. . . . Unless you had something else in mind?"

"No, nothing . . . good idea if you can spare the car."

Burton got up and came to the table to get to work, stared straight in front of him for a moment, and then found himself saying:

"It's Mabel."

He had very rarely spoken to Miles about his private affairs, except obliquely in some sudden outburst. There were times when the ten years between their ages seemed to him more like fifty, but insensibly he had grown to appreciate the younger man for his sanity and balance, and to be grateful to him for bearing with his moods and withholding misplaced sympathy. Buchanan, he had found, could hold his tongue.

Speech this morning was something of a relief to him, but Miles, as he heard of the encounter with Eleanor, cursed that self-satisfied young woman luridly, though in silence.

It was not the dance, but the danger of a personal encounter that was upsetting Burton, however, he found. Hazel King liked to mount her guests and parade the countryside with them ostentatiously, and twice already Burton had walked into the precious cavalcade, riding to Underhill to view the budding inn. The chance of encountering Mabel among them was one he had no intention of taking, and it soon became clear to Miles that the trip to the north, which would keep Burton out of the way until the house party might be presumed to have dispersed, was the best solution.

"What became of you this afternoon?" Eleanor had asked Audrey when she reached home. "I called in at the Priory, thinking you would be there counting your precious sheets."

This was merely self-defense, because Miggs would be certain to mention the incident.

"But didn't you hear Miles say he was going to town? Of course you did," returned Audrey. "I'm going over tomorrow."

"O, yes. I forgot you'd want him to hold your hand. Sorry! I ran into Geoffrey Burton as I was waiting for you," said Eleanor. "He's a bit mental, if you ask me."

Audrey, deep in catalogs, looked up.

"You think we're all mental."

"We-ell . . ."

Eleanor eyed her, toying with temptation and smiling a little. "I wouldn't answer for you, though I'm not exactly likely to think that of my own immediate family," she said sweetly. "I was talking of Geoff Burton, anyway."

"W-what did he say?" faltered Audrey, pulling herself together.

"He didn't say. He merely burbled, 'Women!' When Miles marries you I expect he'll cut and run."

Eleanor left the room and Audrey found the catalogues had lost interest for her.

"If only the time would pass and I could see Miles," she thought desperately. "But I mustn't worry about it, I mustn't," and set herself to fight this weakness and think of other things instead.

There was Geoffrey Burton. Nell had put into words her own uneasiness about him, and throughout the evening they continually returned to her mind. She was sorry for him and could see how their happiness might make worse his own sense of loss, but she did not want him to leave Miles.

Going up to bed at last and looking out into the night, which was cloudy and dark, wondering anxiously whether Miles had come home yet.

At that moment down in the valley she saw a light waken, very small and far away in some one's window, just where the Priory ought to be—Miles, perhaps, safely returned and going to bed.

She was still child enough to believe it joyfully, and to draw back her curtain and switch on her own light, sending him a greeting if he chanced to look out.

Relaxation of Vacation Due Every Mother

Change Involved Needed by Housewife.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

This appeal is directed chiefly to mothers. Plan a vacation for yourself this year, even if the youngsters have to suffer a bit. They're better able to stand up under the loss than you are. We don't need to worry about the business woman getting away from her job, forgetting the office irritations, monotony, and so on. She gets her two weeks for which she plans months in advance. She gets the change she needs. And the rest she needs. You see how she comes back, a revived and radiant person whose work takes on a new zest. It's the same old work, but a new woman tackling it.

You say: "That's all well for you to talk. But where's the money for vacations?" And perhaps, regrettably this year it will be impossible for some of you to get away. But I do know there are many women who have gotten into the habit of passing up vacation periods for themselves, perhaps through an overconscientiousness about the running of their homes and, perhaps, through a growing inertia about themselves. Something pretty akin to laziness, if you don't mind my calling it by its right name.

Perhaps you say that you don't need rest. You get to bed early. But that's not the rest you women need. It's a change. A sightseeing trip, a camping trip, a boat trip. Something, anything, to get away from the usual daily routine. What it shall be, you must decide. I can only guarantee you that the release from the nervous tension and worries, money, and family, will endow you positively with a new face and your family with a much more lovable companion.

We all get grouchy doing the same thing day after day, week after week. The only way we can appreciate how lucky we are to have even the same thing to do day after day, week after week, is to get away from it for a while and see how much we miss it. There's nothing like a change in environment to give us new life, new hope, and new zest for the old job. And I repeat, there's nothing like it to take those wrinkles out of your face and lift the mouth corners into a better semblance of their old merry selves.

Fishing and Golf Will Be Enjoyed.

beautiful part of the country will celebrate Memorial day by attending the annual baseball classic between Amherst and Williams colleges on Weston field at Williamstown. According to Williams statistics the two colleges have played 141 games during the last forty years with Amherst winning 71 and Williams the victor in 70.

The James Ransom Walkers have Mrs. Alice Peck Curtis of Rochester, N. Y., and their son, James Monroe Walker of Dedham, Mass., and their grandson, Richard Walker, with them for the holiday at their lovely home, Fair Acres, in Stockbridge. Mrs. John H. P. Gould [Lee Higginson] and her children have gone from Boston to spend the summer with Mr. and Mrs. George Higginson at Mahkeenac farm in Stockbridge. Mr. Gould will join his family for week-ends.

The Misses Helen and Estelline Bennett have left to motor to Providence, R. I., to attend the marriage of their niece, Miss Virginia Bennett, to John F. Moulds Jr. of Chicago next Tuesday. The wedding will take place at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the private chapel at the home of the Rt. Rev. James De Wolfe Perry, presiding bishop of the Episcopal church, with Bishop Perry and Bishop Granville Gaylord Bennett, auxiliary bishop of Rhode Island and father of the bride, officiating. Miss Betty Bennett of Providence will attend her sister who also will have a flower girl, 6 year old Frances Moulds, the bridegroom's sister.

Charles Moulds will serve as his brother's best man. Following the ceremony there will be a reception at the home of Bishop and Mrs. Perry, and then the bride and groom will leave for Chicago, where they will live. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John F. Moulds of 5739 Kimbark avenue.

Atwater-Folds Nuptials June 22.

The date for the wedding of Miss Katharine Atwater, daughter of Mrs. J. Charles Atwater and the late Mr. Atwater of Montclair, N. J., to Thomas McKey Folds, son of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Folds of Evanston, has been set for June 22. The ceremony will take place in Dwight Memorial chapel at Yale university at 4:30 o'clock and a reception will follow at the Faculty club.

Miss Josephine Setze of Augusta, Ga., will attend Miss Atwater as maid of honor, and the bridesmaids will be the bridegroom's sister, Miss Camilla Folds, and Miss Grace Fearey of Albany, N. Y.

Charles Weston Folds will serve his brother as best man, and ushering will be Wayland Wells Williams and Richard A. Rathbone, both of New Haven. After a wedding trip Mr. Folds and his bride will make their home in Exeter, N. H., where he is a master at the Phillips academy. Mr. and Mrs. Folds are hoping to go east for the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Gifford of Fair Knolls, Delavan Lake, Wis., are inviting their friends informally to be present at the wedding of their niece, Alison Gifford Pegg, to Robert Tilt Borchardt, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Borchardt of Chicago, on Saturday, June 8. The wedding will take place at 4 o'clock in the afternoon at Fair Knolls.

The bride-to-be has made her home with her uncle and aunt since the death of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Edmund Paige Pegg of Winnetka, years ago. She attended the University of Wisconsin and the National College of Education.

Miss Jean Dunbar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Dunbar of Wheaton, and her fiancé, Lawrence Eugene Denman, son of the Burt J. Denmans of Wilmette, will arrive at home the middle of June from their respective institutions of learning and then they will begin making plans for their marriage. Miss Dunbar is finishing her sophomore year at Wellesley and Mr. Denman has another year at the Harvard school of business administration, but it is probable that they will not wait until they finish college to be married.

Ellwoods to Spend Summer Here.

Mr. and Mrs. William M. Riach of Evanston are making preparations to welcome a very important guest early in June, their grandson, Perry William Ellwood, who was born in St. Angelo, Tex., on March 23. Young "P. W.'s" paternal grandfather, Erwin Perry Ellwood, is going to Texas to bring the baby and his mother, Mrs. Isaac Leonard Ellwood, north on the train while "I. L." motors from Rinder Brook ranch, where the young Ellwoods live.

The younger Mr. and Mrs. Ellwood and the baby will spend the summer in the north, dividing their time between the Riachs' residence in Evanston and the older Ellwoods' summer place on Lake Geneva, and not returning to Texas until the middle of October.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Nolan are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son Monday evening at the Presbyterian hospital. The baby has been named Peter Fortune Nolan for his maternal great-grandfather. Mrs. Nolan is the former Jane Fortune, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Fortune.

Lydia Swift Recuperating from Shoulder Operation.

There is a steady flow of visitors to Miss Lydia Swift's room at the Passavant hospital, where Miss Swift is recuperating from an operation on her shoulder. The shoulder was injured while Miss Swift was in New York. For the rest of the summer Miss Swift will be obliged to wear on her shoulder and arm a cast which will not permit her to take part in any sports, much to her regret. On the same floor with Miss Swift is Frederick L. McNally, who to the delight of his family and friends is convalescing from a fall at the University club in which he suffered a brain concussion. Mr. McNally, who is a prime favorite with the younger set in which his stepdaughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Y. Freeman Jr., move, will spend another three or four weeks in the hospital and then will go away with Mrs. McNally for a rest.

Mrs. Moisant Griffiths and her daughter, Miss Gloria Griffiths, sailed Tuesday night on the Bremen to spend the summer in Europe.

BY MARY MEADE.

Porch suppers or their equivalent to porchless folks are among the most pleasant ways to dine in early summer. Even a table set in unaccustomed place in front of open windows may create the porch atmosphere, regulation surroundings lacking, and the casual enjoyment of this civilized approach to the picnic requires a delightful minimum of preparation time.

Here are a few recommendations to early season porch eaters. Plan a simple supper, preferably one which may be prepared mostly in the morning. Choose dishes which are easily served from a tray or tea wagon and which ask little extra silver and china. One hot dish, no matter what the weather, ought to be included in a truly tempting summer time meal. And look over the attractive doilies, napkins, and even plates and cups that are being made of paper. They may contribute to the spirit of the supper, and tossing them away afterward means less dish washing and more time to enjoy the early evening.

Just as a sample of the appetite appeal that a simple, fairly substantial porch supper can carry, perhaps you will want to try this menu at the start of the season:

Scalloped Ham and Corn
Combination Vegetable Salad
Orange Bread Sandwiches
Chilled Apricots in Jelly Wafers
Iced Tea or Coffee

The casserole dish may be assembled in the morning and shoved into the refrigerator until shortly before supper time. Vegetables for the salad may be cut and combined, ready for dressing at night. Even the sandwiches may be made and wrapped in a damp towel or waxed paper ahead of time. The dessert, of course, will come out of the refrigerator just before serving time and the wafers probably out of a package.

Scalloped Ham and Corn.

1 small green pepper
1 small onion
2 tablespoons butter
1 cup medium white sauce
Salt, paprika
1 cup canned whole kernel corn
1 cup cooked diced ham
1 cup buttered cracker crums

Cook the chopped green pepper and onion gently in the butter for several minutes. Combine with the white sauce, seasonings, corn, ham, and about half the cracker crums. Turn into a buttered casserole and top with the rest of the crums. For a half hour before serving bake in a moderate oven.

QUICK ORANGE BREAD.
(One Loaf.)

Cut the rind of two medium size oranges into fine slivers. Cover with water, add one-half cup of sugar, and cook until tender. Remove the peel and continue cooking the liquid until its volume is about one-third cup. Combine one-half cup sugar, two cups of flour, two teaspoons of baking powder, and one-half teaspoon of salt. Mix with one well beaten egg and the liquor in which the rind was cooked, plus enough milk to make a total of two-thirds cup. Stir in the slivers of rind, turn into a loaf pan, and bake in a moderate oven for 45 minutes.

CHILLED APRICOTS IN JELLY.

Stiffen the juice of canned apricots with a small amount of granulated gelatin. (Add the soaked gelatin, about one teaspoon, to the heated juice, stir, and chill.) Arrange the apricot halves in individual dessert dishes, pour the gelatin mixture over them, and chill. Serve garnished with a sprig of fresh mint or with halved green grapes.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

THE ADVANTAGES OF BAD DISTRIBUTION.

Having just learned that the things that "fold their tents like the Arabs, and as silently steals away," are "the cares that infest the day," I feel safe in referring to the illimitable caravan of hands that marches across the bridge horizon year after year. The following one, culled from the procession, is unique not so much in the play as in the fact that both the king and queen of a suit must lie over an ace, jack, ten combination for the contract to be made.

NORTH
♥A-Q-8
♦A-J-x-x
♣None

WEST
♠x-x
♥x-x-x-x-x
♦x-x

EAST

♦K-Q-8-7
♣J-9-x-x

SOUTH
♥K-9-2
♦10-3-2
♣A-10-x-x-x

The bidding was very involved. Suffice it to say that North arrived at six spades, after he had bid diamonds, and the suit had been hesitantly supported by South. East made a close double on the basis of the bidding and the fact that he held both the king and the queen of the off suit.

North gathered as much. In fact, since he did not hold the nine of diamonds he would have been greatly disappointed if the two outstanding honors were not together in one hand—either East's or West's.

The jack of hearts was opened. North took with the ace and played five rounds of trump, leaving this situation:

NORTH

♥Q-8
♣None

WEST
♠None

EAST

♦K-Q-x
♣J-9-x

SOUTH

♦10-x-x
♣A-10

The queen of hearts was led and a small heart played to the king. East, perforce, parted with another club. North discarded a diamond on the ace of clubs and ruffed out the ten spot to remove East's last exit card.

After the play of a small diamond toward the ten spot East was effectually end-played. He had to return a diamond back into the A-J.

North must hold a trump. Otherwise East will simply blank his K-Q of diamonds and beat the contract. The way North handled the hand, however, an early blank of the two diamond honors will simply result in the play of the ace and another by the declarer and the contract will still be made.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

In the days of auction, South, the declarer, made three no trumps on the above hand. The play is colossal.

Costello, Star of Early Films, Suffers Stroke

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., May 29.—[Special.]—Maurice Costello, an outstanding idol in motion pictures two decades ago, has just suffered a stroke, his second, and is under treatment at his modest home in Beverly Hills. Costello was visited by his daughter, Dolores Costello Barrymore, from whom he was estranged at the time of her marriage to John Barrymore.

The father, daughter and son-in-law became reconciled some time ago and the father's illness and his daughter's divorce break with Barrymore drew the tie closer.

Costello's condition, a few days ago regarded as alarming, is not at present viewed as imminently threatening. Costello had been an American stage favorite for many years before going on the screen to become the first great male movie star. He was born Feb. 22, 1877. His second daughter, Helene Costello, recently arrived in Hollywood after several years of retirement and resumed her film career. Costello suffered a first stroke of apoplexy here in 1932.

Ruth Selwyn, actress and wife of the film producer, Edgar Selwyn, flew from here to New York as the companion of Baroness and Baron Phillip de Rothschild of France.

Jerome Kern has been engaged by Radio-RKO studio to write melodies for Lily Pons' motion picture debut this summer in "The Love Song." . . . Fred Astaire's and Ginger Rogers' "Roberta" with Kern's "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes" and other songs recently made the big hit of the 1935 tunefuls for the same studio, which imported Irving Berlin to do the harmonies for "Top Hat," current Astaire-Rogers film.

Mrs. Valerie von Stroheim, wife of the Austrian director, today found herself launched in the beauty shop business as partner of the man—James Simonsillo—with whom she has waged a series of bitter lawsuits covering the last two years. She won a $125,000 judgment against Simonsillo for burns suffered during a facial in his shop and yesterday acquired the shop for $5,000 at sheriff's sale as against the judgment. She then accepted Simonsillo as minority partner to reopen the shop.

Alfred Wins High Praise in Song Recital

BY EDWARD MOORE.

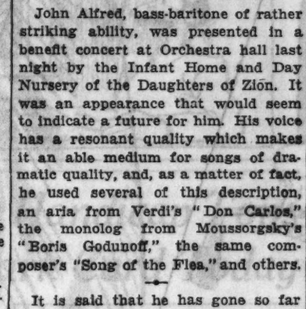
John Alfred, bass-baritone of rather striking ability, was presented in a benefit concert at Orchestra hall last night by the Infant Home and Day Nursery of the Daughters of Zion. It was an appearance that would seem to indicate a future for him. His voice has a resonant quality which makes it an able medium for songs of dramatic quality, and, as a matter of fact, he used several of this description, an aria from Verdi's "Don Carlos," the monolog from Moussorgsky's "Boris Godunoff," the same composer's "Song of the Flea," and others.

It is said that he has gone so far into the matter of tongues that he is able to sing in a dozen different languages including Hungarian and Japanese. This is further than most singers penetrate, but it is quite as much to the point to record that he sings excellent English. He gave a brilliant performance of the "Boris" excerpt both through excellent singing and the use of English, one of the few times it has been heard hereabouts in that language. He was assisted by Alexander Aster, pianist and accompanist, and Josef Rosenstein, a talented violinist.

The People's Civic Concert series continued in Kimball hall last night with a joint recital by Beulah Appelman, pianist, and Leola Aikman, soprano. Miss Appelman, heard in two sonatas of an early age by Scarlatti and the fully developed specimen of the form, Opus 81, by Beethoven, displayed laudable technical dexterity, and, more laudable, a set of definite ideas of how the music should be recreated and projected.

Miss Aikman followed with a group that began with Mozart's "Alleluia," continued with a pair of songs, and ended with the Mad scene from Donizetti's "Lucia di Lammermoor." She, too, displayed unusual technical ability together with a voice of fine quality, all of which gave poise and assurance to her performance.

Wide Variety in Color Allowed by Nasturtium Quilt



Nasturtium.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The "Nasturtium" block gives the quilt maker a chance to use all the shades of reds and yellows, through the pastel tints, to the darkest purple. A combination of these colors will make a most attractive and realistic quilt. The leaves, of course, are green. The coverlet may be made entirely of appliqué blocks, in which case fifty-six squares are required.

Best Education Urges Child to Creative Work

Individuality Should Be First Concern of School.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

How dull it would be if every one were like every one else! How colorless life would be if the efforts at uniformity that prevail in most of the lower and higher educational systems of learning were 100 per cent successful! As it is, their percentage is much higher than it should be.

What we need to do is to develop the individual child. This can only be done by regarding the schools and colleges, not as factories to the machinery of which a child must conform and from which he emerges with a pattern stamped on him similar to that of every other child—but as a means of real education so vital, flexible, and dynamic that it can fit itself to the child. If all of us who care insist upon this aim for our schools, perhaps in time it will come to pass.

To my great satisfaction Stanwood Cobb talked to this effect at a recent luncheon of the New York Kindergarten association. Among other arresting things he said:

"One of the chief reasons for the failure of education is its emphasis on false values—values external to the soul of the child or youth—a false emphasis on marks, entrance requirements, and units."

Mr. Cobb, incidentally, is the founder of the Progressive Education association and principal of Chevy Chase country school. He said further:

"Mechanically our educational system is superb. It is designed to shunt a vast number of children through a given number of text books in a given number of years by a sort of mass production method—an endless belt system like Ford's.

"Let us try the dangerous experiment of letting children remain creative," he said. "And as they mature to manhood and womanhood perhaps they will remake the world nearer to the heart's desire."

EACH DAY UNFOLDS NEW FASHIONS AT Carson's

With each turn of the calendar bringing summer closer—and all the varied activities that it implies—we make it a point to be on our toes with fashions that fit into every phase of the summer scene from active sports to leisurely lawn parties—with plenty of thought for those taxing warm days in town. A few typical Carson summer fashions are shown here. See the sketches above.

(1) SHIRTWAIST TYPE

A dress that may either play or look on with equal propriety is this sports dress of the shirtwaist type, with flaring tie of cravat material and a belt to match. The dress buttons all the way down the front—a strong point in its favor for active sports. White, powder blue, pink, maize. 14 to 40. $8.95

Sports Shop, Fourth Floor.

(2) SPORTS SHOP

A tennis frock with saucy bows on the shoulders and a low, sun-inviting neckline in back that ties across. There's a full, active skirt. It comes in pink, blue, white, and yellow. 12 to 20. Both this frock and the one described above come in an ideal sports fabric, with a smooth, wrinkle-resisting finish. $8.95

Sports Shop, Fourth Floor.

(3) DRESSY SHEER

Is a "must-have" for every well regulated summer wardrobe. This one has rows of hand-fagoting forming a yoke at the neck and continuing to create the sleeves. It comes in navy with a lighter blue flower and belt, dusty pink with brown, light blue with navy. It comes in misses' sizes. $25

Better Dresses, Fourth Floor.

(4) TOPCOAT CLASSIC

In white is the best all-occasion coat that any summer wardrobe can choose. The jacquard weave fabric gives a dressy look to the simple tailored lines. There are raglan shoulders and notched lapels. In the smart three-quarter length. Wide range of sizes from 12 to 38. White only. $10.75

Moderate Price Coats, Fourth Floor.

(5) COTTON SHOP

A gingham suit represents Carson's famous Cotton Shop in this grouping. It's an unusually up-and-coming one, with its pique ascot tie, its shirred back with stitched-down belt, its notched lapels, its bright buttons marching two and two. In navy, brown, or red. Sizes 12 to 20. Exceptional value at $3.95

Cotton Shop, Fourth Floor.

(6) PURE-DYE SILK!

That alone is enough to make this youthful cherry print frock extraordinary at the price—but it has fashion points galore. There's a pleated cape that goes all around, a slenderizing V yoke in back, and such colors! Dubonnet red, wood violet, and blue. Sizes from 36 to 44. Priced at $10.75

PLAY!

Sturdy as its young wearer—this two-piece play suit of pre-shrunk poplin. Pleated shorts and a no-button blouse top are tailored for comfort and freedom. Tubfast, with double stitched seams for extra long wear. We think it's particularly grand for camp-bound girls. In blue, green, gold, and suntan. Sizes from 8 to 16 years.

WHITEHEAD AND FISCHER TO HURL DOUBLE HEADER

Hildebrand, Hudlin Foes Today.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox, still cheerful despite rough handling in the east, will be back on their own lot at 1:30 this afternoon, and it will be an occasion of importance. They play their first doubleheader of the year with Cleveland's Indians in the other half of the act. They must do things in a big way to keep from tumbling out of first place, which they hold by a few points margin. One of the largest Comiskey park crowds will be present. That's what makes it an important day for the south siders.

JOHN WHITEHEAD.

Possibly another feature of the program will be the appearance in one of the games of John Whitehead, the sensational youth whose major league career is represented by seven straight victories. In the other battle Carl Lefty Fischer, ex-Tiger, will make his debut before his new constituents. The Cleveland mound workers probably will be Oral Hildebrand and Willis Hudlin, neither of whom can be regarded lightly.

Home May Help Batting Eyes.

The Sox came home yesterday happy in the thought that a sight of their own park might restore their batting eyes, and still happier when they learned that Jack Hayes may return to second base within a few days. Eastern doctors prescribed a two weeks' rest, but the club physician, after breaking the cast in which Hayes brought his injured hand home, declared the bone chip in the thumb was of no importance.

If there is any disappointment over what the Sox did while roaming the seaboard provinces it can easily be dispelled by a mere mention of the tail-end aggregation of a year ago and several years before that. Since Ted Lyons was a young man the Sox have deemed it an achievement to win even one game per series during an eastern jaunt. They did far better during the last two weeks, and only three game series were scheduled in each place.

New Pitching Scheme Needed.

It is becoming more and more apparent each day that Manager Dykes must devise a new scheme for the rotation of his pitchers. The veteran Sam Jones is out for the time being because of a bad arm, and even if his arm wasn't troubled, there is reason to believe that he has about arrived at the end of his customary spring effectiveness.

Dykes has displayed amazing patience, if not faith, in Les Tietje, the young man who was a pitching wizard during the spring exhibitions with the Pittsburgh Pirates. Tietje has made six starts since the season opened and has gone the route only once. He won that game, but only because his mates reared up in the ninth and scored three runs off Dusty Rhodes and Johnny Welch at Boston. So long as Tietje can't win, nothing would be risked by trying one of the bull pen occupants in a starting rôle. Rest might snap Tietje out of his losing complex.

One feature of the Sox that augurs for continued success, although not enough to warant pennant predictions, is that they are able to take it and bounce back. They've proved it several times. The Red Sox gave them two sound maulings at Chicago, but the next day they mauled the Red Sox. They moved east and lost a tough thirteen inning opener at Boston. They responded with two wins over the same crowd in the next two days. The Yankees slaughtered them in the opener, but they won the second. They were crushed in the final at New York and in the first at Washington, but the next day took the Senators for a bumpy ride. Then they flopped again after capturing the first at Philadelphia.

Can't Keep 'Em Down, Now.

Bouncing up and winning easily after one or two days of miserable work means something. It proves that Dykes has his fellows so well pepped up that their spirit can't be crushed. As long as they continue in that frame of mind they are not going to tumble into any protracted losing streaks which are the things that carry a team down in a hurry. Thus far they haven't lost more than two in a row. That has happened three times.

After today's double header and a single affair here tomorrow with the Indians the Sox must move out again but they'll be back in a week. They are scheduled to appear at Detroit Saturday and Sunday and at St. Louis Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday. From June 7 to June 28, inclusive, the Sox will have the pleasure of performing on their home ground and, if recent performances there mean anything, they should prosper.

CUBS TO ENGAGE PIRATES TODAY IF RAIN STOPS

French and Carleton Hurl Double-Header.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 29.—Came the dawn and a little later the Cubs' 1935 opener in Pittsburgh had been called off to make another double header bye and bye. This makes 11 postponement double headers now on the Cubs calendar exclusive of scheduled double headers like tomorrow's.

As things turned out, it was just as well that today's encounter was called off early. There were intermittent showers during the day. But the Pittsburgh office took no chances on the sun breaking through. The day seems not far distant when the majors will begin calling off games scheduled for a week or so in the future.

If you think we seem to be so tired of it all, you have us wrong. We are studying to be a writer on crop prospects. Though we come from a long line of Whigs and Republicans, we figure that sooner or later Secretary Wallace will make room for one more burocrat.

Nothing but Dodge Rain.

Since last March 1 we have done practically nothing but come in out of the rain, from the shores of California to the rockribbed coast of Maschusetts. We have about arrived at the finding that rain in excess is goshawful depressing. If the AAA wants to curtail something why doesn't it curtail precipitation? Our favorite duck is the teal, especially the green winged teal, the male of which has a chestnut head, with a green eye patch and a metallic green area on the wing.

But where were we? O, about tomorrow's double header. It is possible that the big comparative test, Larry French pitching against Guy Bush, will be staged tomorrow. Larry welcomes the prospect and it does not seem likely that Guy again will fight his way out of the series. At any rate, Larry is to pitch one game and Tex Carleton the other for the Cubs. The Cubs expect the rather sensational Cy Blanton in one of the contests.

Early Practice Threatened.

Vice President Grimm spent the day wondering if the Cubs will rediscover the purpose for which ball bats are made. Plenty of bats were brought to Pittsburgh. Now all the fellows have to do is use them, weather permitting.

There are several reasons why the Cubs had better start hitting. Among them is involved the matter of morning practice. So far the players have been allowed to wander into Wrigley field any time from 11 o'clock till noon. If they don't hit tomorrow, batting practice will start at 10 o'clock every morning the team is at home. Ten o'clock is the middle of the day for Vice President Grimm, but at that time most of his hirelings just begin to think about getting up to put on the coffee pot.

HOW IS IT, DOC?

Ross to Fight Next Bout In Chicago This Summer

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, N. Y., May 29.—Barney Ross, welterweight champion of the world by virtue of his brisk aggressiveness in 15 rounds against Jimmy McLarnin at the Polo Grounds last night, will fight in Chicago this summer. This was gleaned from discussions this afternoon with Sam Pian and Art Winch, Ross' managers.

Whom Ross will fight, where and when, is up to Joe Foley who will promote the bout. Foley's been sitting around Chicago for a year waiting for his promotional chance. He's waived contractual rights several times to permit Barney to harvest from the lusher New York field. Now the boys are turning the next show back to Foley as they promised they would.

Today Barney was greeting friends in Park Central headquarters. His left hand was firmly bandaged and Dr. John P. O'Connell, Barney's physician, suspects a fracture of the first metacarpal. An X-ray will be taken on Ross' return to Chicago. Whether fracture or sprain, Barney plans an immediate vacation, after which his left hand will be ready for his next opponent.

Ross' opponent in this Chicago bout probably will be a lightweight. Lou Ambers is distinctly a possibility now that he has lost to Tony Canzoneri. During his spare time the last year, when not fighting McLarnin for the 147 pound championship, Ross has just about exhausted the lightweight field with the exception of Ambers.

Barney Can Make Weight.

And don't make a mistake about Ross' weight. He may be a trifle heavy for 135 pounds ringside, but Barney can make the weight and undoubtedly will when it's financially worth while. Ross scaled 141 pounds yesterday afternoon, but he had rested for 24 hours and made no change in the hours of his meals. Ross ate lunch just before reporting to the commission headquarters.

Ross' decision to toss the lightweight title out of the window was dictated strictly by business policies. It placated the New York commissioners, who then gave permission for the third fight with McLarnin. The series of three fights has been a splendid year for both McLarnin and Ross. The champion in each bout received 40 per cent of the net receipts and the challenger 25 per cent. McLarnin thus had an advantage in two of the 40 per cent cuts.

Fighters Reap Profits.

Approximate gross receipts for these three bouts were: May, 1934, $196,000; September, 1934, $137,000, and May, 1935, $138,000. Last night McLarnin probably earned $42,802, as compared with Ross' $26,751. In these fights McLarnin has taken in more than $100,000, while Ross' salary for the year will top that of President Roosevelt.

Pop Foster, who last night after the bout announced McLarnin's retirement, hadn't retracted today and he was outspoken in criticism of officials and the commission. McLarnin's retirement practically took place two years ago, for he's fought only three bouts since he licked young Corbett III. for the welter championship. Unless a fourth edition of the McLarnin-Ross feud can be brought off the presses McLarnin probably will retire.

Managers Ready for Another.

"If Foster wants McLarnin to fight Ross again," Pian said today, "it's O. K. with us, but the fight must be promoted by Joe Foley in Chicago."

AFRAID OF THAT FIRST TEE? THEN JOIN GOLF CLASS

Free Lessons to Start Next Week.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The annual prevalence of that pernicious golfing malady known as first teeitis is upon us once more, and the third annual free golf school, conducted by THE TRIBUNE on the thirteen member courses of the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association is about to become a laboratory-clinic wherein the professionals of the Daily Fee association will seek to stamp out this epidemic for the third straight year.

The school will open next Tuesday night on the association's 13 courses with the first classes for women and girls, and men and boys will have their initial inning on Wednesday. No charge is made for the series of six lessons, which will require three weeks to complete. Simply fill out the coupon appearing in an adjoining column with name, address and age [all pupils under eighteen will be assigned to the classes for boys and girls], check the course at which you plan to take your lessons, and mail it to the golf editor, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

It's Common Ailment.

The aforesaid ailment of first teeitis is a common one among those who yearn to play golf, but cannot bring themselves to step upon that first tee because of the frustrating fear of the embarrassment that follows a dubbed drive. The symptoms are unmistakable. The victim has wistful hopes of being able to smack a ball a furlong, even as some of his more fortunate friends, but because he has never swung a club, he dreads the thought of doing it for the first time in the presence of others. He might, of course, accidentally get a respectable effort away, but more than likely, with muscles tensed and brain knotted, he would be lucky to escape the tee under five swipes. They'll grin when I take my stance, he thinks, but they'll probably bust out laughing after I swing.

Professionals of the Daily Fee association, who have battled this disease in all its virulence for the last two years, have diagnosed it as one of the major causes for keeping folks who wish to play golf from doing so. During those first two years of the school, however, they conquered innumerable cases of it, so that today hundreds of men and women who were afraid to play solely because of that fear of the first tee are regulars in the army of golf.

Pupils Gain Confidence.

The plan of THE TRIBUNE school, built upon the simple things of golf, is such that most sufferers from first teeitis are graduated with a complete confidence that enables them to step on a tee without any of the old qualms.

The complete plan of the school for the three week term follows:

Tuesday, June 4—Opening classes for women and girls.
Wednesday, June 5—Opening classes for men and boys.
Thursday, June 6—Women and girls.
Friday, June 7—Men and boys.
Tuesday, June 11—Women and girls.
Wednesday, June 12—Men and boys.
Thursday, June 13—Women and girls.
Friday, June 14—Men and boys.
Tuesday, June 11—Women and girls.
Wednesday, June 19—Men and boys.
Thursday, June 20—Women and girls.
Friday, June 21—Men and boys.
Friday, June 28—Final form contest.
Saturday, July 6—Final medal play contest.

Classes for women and girls will be held together, and for men and boys, likewise. The former will take their lessons on Tuesdays and Thursdays, and men and boys on Wednesdays and Fridays. Lessons at the three inner courses—Evergreen, Big Oaks, and Mid-City—will open at 7 p. m., and at the 10 outlying courses—Big Run, Cog-Hill, Elmgate, Indian Head, Mission Hills, Techny Fields, Northbrook, Vernon, Wabansee of Aurora and Westgate Valley at 7:30 p. m., the extra half hour being given so that the pupils at these courses may reach them more easily.

The form and medal play contests on June 28 and July 6 will bring together the 52 prize pupils of the school, four from each course. Prizes, including playing memberships, golf clubs, bags, balls, and trophies will be awarded these by the Daily Fee association and THE TRIBUNE.

Blue and Gray Handicap Tops Washington Park Card Today

BY FRENCH LANE.

Chicagoans get their first peep at the older handicap performers in a route stake affair this afternoon, when the $5,000 added Blue and the Gray handicap will be run at Washington Park.

A dozen performers were named over night for the race and the entries were hardly off the press when the 6 year old Late Date, from Rogers Caldwell's Brentwood farm near Nashville, was installed as the favorite. The odds posted against her were 2 to 1.

Second choice in the overnight wagering was Watch Him, from the stable of Mrs. John Hertz, at 7 to 2. The Nash Brothers' entry of Evergold and Dust Girl, both noted muddy track performers, was the third choice at 4 to 1.

Concerned with Track.

The players who began celebrating the holiday at Washington Park yesterday were not so much concerned about the betting odds as they were about the probable track conditions. The track was deep in mud while yesterday's program was run off, and while the sun broke through the low hanging clouds at times the racing strip did not improve to any extent. Should the sun shine brightly this morning the track will be in fairly good condition and it could be fast by the time the handicap is run.

Late Date's stout support developed because of her easy victory in the Inaugural handicap at Latonia last Saturday. Ever since she came to the races she has been a great favorite with Chicago racegoers.

Derby Candidates to Run.

There are other popular horses in the field with Gusto, still the mystery horse of the race. The track was heavy when he won the American Derby at Washington Park. He finished last on a good track earlier in the week, but his new owner, L. T. Whitehill, believes he will run much better this afternoon. Owners always are in that frame of mind.

A 3 year old race engaging several American Derby candidates backs up this afternoon's feature race. Count Arthur, Calumet Dick, Our Reigh, Ann O'Ruley, and Irksome are some of the better known starters in the field.

The first of the graded handicaps was run at Washington Park yesterday, and the winners in the two races fashioned for these horses were Mrs. A. M. Creech's Band Wagon, and Ridgemor, owned by Thomas C. Worden of Chicago.

Each came from behind to win with much to spare. Band Wagon's margin over Dusty Devil was three lengths, while Ridgemor beat the heavily back favorite, Hastinola, by a length. The graded handicaps created great interest among the spectators. They were the first ever run here. They also produced the heaviest betting of the afternoon. Crowds at Washington Park are likely to see a lot of them during the next few days.

Washington Park officials made plans yesterday, despite the threatening weather, to entertain one of the largest crowds of the season today.

DRIVERS DEFY DEATH IN TEST BEFORE 150,000

Californian Draws Pole Position.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., May 29.—Moving upon the speedway here tonight, by highway, rail, and air, is a crowd that the management forecasts will exceed the 150,000 record of 1930 for the annual 500 mile automobile race tomorrow.

REX MAYS.

The forecast is based upon advance ticket sales, which account for 80 per cent of the gate tally. Reservations, it was announced, are slightly heavier than in 1930, and far heavier than at the 1934 event, with its estimated crowd of 138,000.

The magnet attracting this throng includes the publicity the race received last week in the deaths of two drivers and a mechanic—H. W. Stubblefield, Leo Whitaker, and John Hannon.

Crash Signal Most Exciting.

The speedway, in operation since 1910, has received much publicity about being a proving ground for mechanical advancements, but there are few who buy tickets to watch the performance of a new manifold design or a new carburetor. The crowds in the grandstand stop munching hamburgers and rise to their feet when the yellow flag signals there has been a crash.

The field that will line up for the starter's gun at 11 a. m. [Chicago daylight saving time] is the fastest in the track's history. The average of the qualifiers in their twenty-five mile tests was 114.942 miles an hour, two miles an hour faster than last year, when Wild Bill Cummings established a new course record in winning with an average of 104 miles per hour for the 500 miles.

At the pole in the first row of the column of threes at the start will be Rex Mays, 22 year old Californian, who won this choice position by averaging 120.736 miles per hour on the twenty-five mile preliminary. This was a record qualification speed, with the single exception of 122 miles per hour average attained in 1928 by Leon Duray. Duray, however, was driving a single seat supercharged job, whereas the rules now call for a riding mechanic and superchargers are barred.

Gordon in No. 2 Spot.

Cummings is in the race this year, starting in the center of the second row. To his left, in the pole position of this row, will be another former winner, Louis Meyer, who took the king's share of the $100,000 prize money in 1928 and again in 1933. Fred Frame, who triumphed in 1932, is starting in the third row.

Henry Ford's V-8 owners will watch with interest the performance of four of his products that are in the lineup. They were converted into racers by Harry Miller, veteran builder of competitive speedsters.

These cars have little in outward

CAVALCADE AND DISCOVERY OPEN NEW TURF DUEL

Rivals of 1934 Meet at Belmont Park.

Five other thoroughbreds, including Mrs. Silas B. Mason's Head Play; C. H. Knebelkamp's King Saxon, undefeated this year; Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Singing Wood; Mrs. D. Howe's Only One, and Vanderbilt's Identify, were named today for the mile and a quarter test, but the main interest will be in Discovery's attempt to avenge the beatings he took from Cavalcade last year.

Cavalcade Too Good.

Discovery would have been the 1934 3 year old champion, in all likelihood, had there been no Cavalcade. The latter won fixture after fixture last season with Discovery thundering home in second place consistently.

Despite his defeat by Head Play in the Ben Brush mile a week ago, Cavalcade ruled an 8 to 5 favorite tonight to make his second start as a 4 year old a winning one. The Vanderbilt entry of Discovery and Identify was held at 9 to 5, King Saxon at 5 to 1, and Head Play at 7 to 1.

Can King Saxon Last?

Although unbeaten so far, King Saxon, it is figured, will not like the distance. At a mile or less, the Knebelkamp star has been invincible. He whipped Singing Wood, Only One, and Discovery in that order in the Metropolitan handicap of a mile two weeks ago.

The secondary feature on tomorrow's program, the Juvenile, will bring together the two outstanding 2 year olds of the early season, Ogden Phipps' White Cockade and the Coldstream stud's Coldstream.

Choices Have Terrible Day at Homewood

The race patrons who play short priced favorites put in a disagreeable afternoon at Washington Park yesterday. Among the stoutly backed choices to lose were Schuie in the first race, Prince Sulleman in the second, Good Cheer in the third, Hastinola in the sixth, and White Legs in the last. Most of them were soundly beaten.

Two horses were claimed yesterday. Jimmy Emery of Chicago took Johnny Bane out of the first race for $1,500 and Thomas C. Worden of Chicago grabbed Towson out of the third for $2,000.

Col. Edward R. Bradley's fillies Black Helen and Bloodroot were shipped from Washington Park to Belmont Park yesterday to fill their engagements in the Coaching club American Oaks on Saturday.

Most of the owners and trainers at Washington Park are picking Cavalcade to win the Suburban handicap in New York this afternoon.

Joseph J. G., the notorious, was dropped into a $2,000 top and bottom claiming race at Washington Park yesterday and finished third. Trainer Lou Peters declared he would have won sure had it not been for the trip he made in a van from the Aurora course to Washington Park yesterday morning. The trip required six hours and Joseph J. G. was leg weary when he arrived, according to Peters.

B. S. Michell, who gained fame in Chicago by conditioning the champion Reigh Count, is attracting considerable attention at Washington Park. He has saddled eleven horses and seven of them have been able to finish in the money. He trains for L. E. Komorous.

BOBSLEIGH IS SCRATCHED FROM ENGLISH DERBY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, England, May 29.—Bobsleigh, owned by Lord Derby, second choice in the betting to win the Epsom Downs Derby next Wednesday until a week ago, today was withdrawn from the race. The decision to scratch the 3 year old colt was reached following a short workout which showed the horse had failed to recover from a leg injury suffered last week.

Bobsleigh's withdrawal reduced the starting field to 17, one American owned—Mrs. Corlette Glorney's Assignation. All are colts and will carry 126 pounds in the classic. Aga Khan's Bahram remained as the favorite at 5 to 6 in the last callover of odds.

The other horses which will go to the post include Field Trial and Plymouth Sound, owned by Lord Astor; E. T. Thornton Smith's Barberry; Theft and Hairan, also property of the Aga Khan; Fairbairn, owned by Lieut. Col. Giles Loder; Lord Glanely's Screamer; C. W. Gordon's Sea Bequest, Mrs. C. Evans' First Son, A. E. Berr's Peaceful Walter, F. W. Dennis' St. Boltoph, Lord Derby's Fairhaven, and Japetus and Robin Goodfellow, owned by Sir Abe Bailey.

YANKS DEFEAT SENATORS, 7 TO 4, IN SIX INNINGS

3 New York Runs Wiped Out by Rain.

Washington, D. C., May 29.—(AP)—Just as the Senators were beginning to solve Charley [Red] Ruffing's delivery and cut down some of the tremendous lead the Yankees had rolled up, a storm struck the field and washed out further proceedings, leaving New York the victor in a six inning clash today, 7 to 4.

Washington put on its spurt in the sixth to score three runs, and after the Yankees had equaled that burst in the seventh Jake Powell continued the home team's work by hitting a home run. The rain, which had begun to fall earlier, became so heavy at this juncture that the game was ended and all the seventh inning scoring was wiped out.

RED SOX, 10; ATHLETICS, 9.

Boston, Mass., May 29.—(AP)—Unsteady pitching and fielding marred the free hitting game which ended with the Boston Red Sox defeating the Philadelphia Athletics 10 to 9 today. The Red Sox used four pitchers.

Although outhit 13 to 10 by the Athletics, Boston combined five hits, two errors, and three bases on balls in a wild seventh inning, chasing eight runs across the plate, nullifying a previous 6 to 1 lead which the Athletics had held. Dietrich, Cascarella, and Caster all worked on the Philadelphia mound before the Red Sox had been retired in the seventh. Score:

Braves Defeat Phillies, 8 to 6, on Early Runs

Philadelphia, Pa., May 29.—(AP)—The Braves presented Babe Ruth with a victory for one of the Babe Ruth days he has been having around the National league, slamming out an 8 to 6 decision over the Phillies today. Ruth, however, had to be content with a floral offering, two bases on balls, one run, and no hits.

The Braves pounded Orville Jorgens, Al Thomas, and Euel Moore for seven of their runs in the first two innings. Syl Johnson finally tamed them with one run after the third and drove in three with a double when the Phils rallied in the fourth. Philadelphia didn't get a hit after than inning, however, as Bob Smith came in to relieve Dutch Brandt and hurl perfect relief ball for five innings. Wally Berger and Jimmy Wilson hit homers. Score:

CARDINALS, 6; REDS, 3.

St. Louis, Mo., May 29.—(AP)—The Cardinals pounded Young Gene Schott today, taking revenge for a five hit defeat handed them by the Cincinnati rookie hurler earlier in the season, and won the series opener from the Reds, 6 to 3.

The Cardinals bunched four hits and two passes in the second inning to hammer across four runs and send them off to a 3 run lead.

The Cardinals stretched their lead with runs in the third and sixth on singles. Alex Kampouris, Cincinnati second baseman, knocked a long home run to the left field seats in the fourth inning. Score:

MRS. MOODY MAY PASS UP U. S. TOURNAMENT

LONDON, May 29.—(AP)—Helen Wills Moody "probably" will rush straight home to California after she plays in the all-England tennis championships at Wimbledon, she told the Associated Press today, "without waiting for anything at Forest Hills."

The former world champion, attempting a comeback after being on the sidelines for more than a year because of a back injury, will play only singles at Wimbledon.

It has been assumed that Mrs. Moody would play in the American championship tournament at Forest Hills this year, provided her play at Wimbledon indicated she had entirely recovered from the back injury she suffered in 1933. Tennis observers still believe, as a matter of fact, that she will attempt to regain the United States championship if she makes a good showing at Wimbledon.

Washington U. Arranges Game with Notre Dame

St. Louis, Mo., May 29.—(AP)—Announcement was made here today that Washington university's football team will meet Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind., Oct. 10, 1936. The contract for the game was received by Jimmy Conzelman, Washington coach, from Elmer Layden, athletic director of Notre Dame.

Talking It Over

(Copyright, 1935, By The Chicago Tribune.)

CUB officials refuse to be worried about the low attendance figures at Wrigley field until the double header season gets around. . . . The Giants drew 253,000 for their first 13 afternoons of home endeavor. . . . About two-thirds of the total was run up at double headers. No twin bills have been played this year at Wrigley field. . . . Howard Jones, Southern California coach, has expressed the opinion that Notre Dame will not be as strong next fall on the gridiron as in 1934. . . . This will be of considerable interest to several schools, among them Notre Dame. . . .

Ray Steele says that many present day wrestlers earn as much as $60,000 a year and that Jim Londos is good for $200,000, if he wrestles in 200 matches. . . . When Illinois goes to Bloomington to play Indiana in 1937 it will be the first appearance of the Illini there since 1910. . . . They defeated the Hoosiers, 3 to 0, on that occasion. . . . Jimmy Sheldon, old Maroon captain, was the Indiana coach. . . . Tom [Rooster] Hammond, Detroit sportsman, has sent on a certified check for $5,000 to bet on Joe Louis against Primo Carnera at prevailing odds. . . . Oklahoma, with team championships in baseball, outdoor track, wrestling, tennis and golf, won the All Sports title in the Big Six conference this season. . . . Kansas State was next with championships in football and indoor track. . . .

Al Pedersen, Northwestern pitcher, had his share of bad breaks in a recent game with Chicago. . . . After holding the Maroons to two hits and two runs in nine innings Pedersen came to bat in the last of the ninth with one man on base. . . . He smashed one of Pitcher Yeodor's fast balls into right field. . . . The ball cleared the sidewalk on Lincoln street and appeared to be a certain home run but it crashed through the window of a parked automobile, enabling the Maroon outfielder to retrieve it. . . . Pedersen was held to a double. . . . Only one run scored and the Wildcats lost the game, 2 to 1. . . . But that's only half of the story. . . . The car that had its window smashed was Pedersen's. . . .

Otto Miller, coach of the Brooklyn Dodgers, once caught a baseball dropped from an airplane 450 feet above the ground. . . . Floyd Vaughan, Pittsburgh shortstop, played only one season in the minors, with Wichita in 1931. . . . He roams with Hans Wagner when the Pirates are on the road. . . . Henry Brocksmith, Indiana's two time national cross-country champion, is enrolled in the state university medical school at Indianapolis. . . . Rogers Hornsby fared pretty well in his winter deals with the Washington club. . . . He sold Pitcher Irving Hadley to the Senators for $20,000 and Catcher Luke Sewell. . . . He then sold Sewell to the White Sox for $6,000. . . . Coach Zuppke of Illinois will be guest of honor at the annual dinner and ball game of the Intercollegiate Alumni club of Detroit on June 1. . . . The Amateur Athletic union has invited Fred Caserio, former Golden Gloves champion, to serve as coach of an American team that will sail for Paris June 6 to fight a team of French champions. . . .

When Al Simmons goes to his hotel room at night he carries with him a few bottles of chilled beer, always the product of his favorite Milwaukee brewery. . . . The Duke says the amber fluid makes him sleep well, and the proof of it is in the fact that he seldom arises until shortly before noon. . . . President Ford Frick of the National league predicts that night baseball in the major leagues will grow in popularity. . . . Jack Sharkey thinks that Jim Braddock will be the next heavyweight champion. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—More than 145,000 watched Peter De Paolo win the Indianapolis auto race and smash all records. . . . His time for the 500 miles was 4 hours 56 minutes. . . . Ed Lewis retained his heavyweight wrestling title by tossing Wayne Munn two out of three falls. . . . Paul Berlenbach won the light heavyweight championship by defeating Mike McTigue in 15 rounds before 45,000 at New York.

33 Cars Race in Indianapolis Speed Derby

appearance that resembles their cousins from the Dearborn factory. They are streamlined, even to the point of having wind cutters on the axles. They are low enough for the two riders to touch the pavement with their hands while seated. Power is delivered to the front wheels.

Harry Miller built the majority of the engines, four cylinder jobs, that will push the 33 bright colored little chariots around the two and half mile oval tomorrow. The engines of the starters and the alternates consist of 24 of four cylinders, six of eight cylinders in a row, and five of V-type eights. Eight are front wheel drives and one pushes with all four wheels.

The qualifications ended yesterday, and today the rough brick pavement of the speedway was being washed. Mechanics were making last minute adjustments on the mounts.

Drivers Listen to Rules.

Drivers attended a meeting in the afternoon and heard contest officials of the American Automobile association deliver final instructions, rules for safe driving. There have been 28 drivers and mechanics killed on this track in the last 26 years.

The race must be run on no more than 42½ gallons of gasoline and six and one-half gallons of oil. Gasoline tanks hold only 15 gallons, necessitating three stops for fuel.

Outside the track tonight a carnival spirit prevailed. Ferris wheels, tent shows, freaks, and other entertainment were offered persons parked in long lines of automobiles waiting the opening of the gates at 6 o'clock in the morning.

Notables Are Present.

Albert Schmidt, 72, a Frenchman, came from Cannes to see the event. He witnessed the first race here and has missed only three othrs. Schmidt is a pioneer automobile builder. His wife is with him.

Harvey Firestone, Lawrence P. Fisher, Vincent Bendix, Ralph Teetors, and M. S. Dewitt—all prominent in the automobile business—were here for the race. Gar Wood, motor boat racer, also was present.

GOLFER BEATS SISTER, ENTERS BRITISH FINAL

NEWCASTLE, Ireland, May 29.—(AP)—A bitterly fought golfing duel between two sisters marked play in the semi-final round of the British women's tournament today. The winner was Pamela Barton, runnerup for the title a year ago; the loser was her younger sister, Mervin Barton.

Mervin was 5 down with only six holes to go, but staged a dramatic comeback to win the next four holes with 4—3—4—4. She was bunkered off her drive at the 17th, however, to give Pamela the victory and a berth in the finals, 2 and 1.

Pamela's opponent in the 36 hole championship round tomorrow will be Wanda Morgan, runnerup for the title in 1931. Miss Morgan elminated Jessie Anderson of Scotland, 2 and 1.

DIXIE HOWELL SIGNS TO COACH MEXICO ELEVEN

Little Rock, Ark., May 29.—[Special.]—Dixie Howell, star football and baseball player at the University of Alabama last season, revealed today that he has signed a contract to coach the University of Mexico eleven during the 1935 and 1936 seasons.

Howell, who was the hero of Alabama's Rose Bowl victory over Stanford last New Year's day, has been playing with the Birmingham club of the Southern association, a Detroit Tiger's farm.

Lindblom and Tilden Win in Extra Innings

Two extra inning games featured the first semi-final round games in the Chicago Public High school baseball league yesterday. Tilden defeated Harrison, 1934 city champion, 8 to 7, in a 13 innings at Gage park, and Lindblom scored a run in the tenth to beat Kelvyn Park, 6 to 5, at Sparta field.

In the other semi-final games Lane defeated Bowen, 4 to 1, at Logan Square park, and Senn remained undefeated in league competition by whipping Parker, 1 to 0 at Winnemac park.

Harrison Ties Score in Sixth.

Harrison scored a run in the sixth inning to tie Tilden, 4 to 4, but during the next six innings neither team could get near the plate. In the thirteenth three errors and two walks enabled Tilden to score four runs, after which Harrison made three runs on two hits and a pair of walks. Each team used one pitcher, Charlie Dieringer working for Tilden and Slonka pitching for Harrison. Dieringer struck out 15 and Slonka 14.

Lindblom pushed over three runs in the ninth to send its game with Kelvyn park into extra innings and then broke up the battle in the tenth when Carl Stastny doubled and scored when Jimmy Urban also doubled. Stastny made four hits, three singles and a double, in five trips to the plate.

Error, Hit Win for Parker.

An error, followed by Pitcher Swen Wallin's single scored the run that enabled Senn to defeat Parker. Each team made three hits. Wallin struck out 13 and Carpenter of Parker fanned 10. Senn scored in the fifth when Bramman was safe on an error, stole second, and advanced to third on a grounder by Harvey Cohn. Wallin then singled him home.

Pitcher Andy Gadus of Bowen committed two errors and walked four men in the first two innings to give Lane a three run lead, which the Tech team easily held. Gadus held Lane to three hits and struck out 11.

The second round of the semi-finals will be played tomorrow. Score:

FIND AZUCAR'S WATCHMAN DEAD ON EVE OF RACE

Detroit, Mich., May 29.—(AP)—Steve Rogoski, 60, employed by the racing stable of Col. Fred M. Alger Jr., was found dead in Palmer park today, his throat slashed and $1,463 in currency in his pocket.

A police investigation indicated Rogoski had taken his own life. A razor, which apparently came from a case found in the man's pocket, lay near the body.

Rogoski was employed as a watchman and assigned to the stable where the Alger interests keep Azucar, former steeplechaser, which captured the $100,000 handicap at Santa Anita.

Although police scouted the theory of foul play, they intended to continue their investigation since Rogoski's death came in the wake of conflicting reports about Azucar's appearance in the Memorial handicap at the Detroit race track tomorrow.

John Silvy Thrown by Zack Malkov at Marigold

Zack Malkov, Chicago, threw Johnny Silvy, Hamilton, Ont., in 33 minutes in the windup match at the weekly wrestling show at Marigold Gardens last night. In other matches Gerald Lauth pinned Mike Kilonis in seven minutes, Charley Peterson and Jack Gacek wrestled a 30 minute draw, and Rudy Hoffman threw Jim Daugherty in 19 minutes.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

MEMORIAL DAY.

Again we consecrate this day
To silent armies of the dead
Who gave their all in war's dread sway
That we might nobly voyage ahead.
And, too, we consecrate this day
To those who stand among us now—
The men in khaki, blue, and gray,
With valor writ upon each brow.

Our spirits humbly meet with theirs
And those of hosts beneath the sod,
To offer reverence and prayers
Of thanks, the while we ask our God
To help us tend the seeds of peace,
Whose fruits shall bring us war's release. Fan O. Smith.

Wake Mail Box.

Dear Wake: I read that Helen Wills Moody is going to try a comeback. Here's wishing her all the luck in the world! I hope she wins every tournament she enters and is again champion. And I hope she makes sports writers, columnists, feature writers, and commentators eat the unkind words that most of them, either by inference or bold statements, uttered when she was forced into retirement two years ago by an injury.

Mrs. Moody was an "honest" champion. She gave all she had to the game. She worked her own way to the top. The French Suzanne Lenglen is the only one Helen Wills didn't beat and Suzanne retired with her honors.

Helen Wills Moody gave women's tennis its greatest impetus. A smart, clean player, a good sport, never flaunting her honors, she was lauded by the word peddlers, only to be called "yellow" when she defaulted to a player whom she probably could beat any time she was right. She couldn't finish a match which her medical advisers told her in advance not to start. It will be interesting to note how the press "comes back" if she does win.

Pop of Rho.

Montgomery and Stone did not play in "The Wizard of Oz" at the Grand Opera house in 1893, as stated recently by a Helper. Frank L. Baum had not then written the play and Montgomery and Stone were little boys. It was about 10 years later.

New York, May 29.—The development of an improved market for public utility bonds, particularly those of lower grade, was an outstanding feature today.

Growing belief that the blow administered to NRA by the Supreme court would have an important bearing upon the Wheeler-Rayburn control bill now being considered by the senate was credited with responsibility for the revived interest in utility bonds.

Treasury List Quiet.

Trading in treasury issues and most other high grade bonds dwindled to the vanishing point, and prices were not much changed from yesterday's closing. The whole turnover in the treasury group, at least on the stock exchange, did not equal what it sometimes appeared as a normal day's business for a single issue. Banks were preparing to submit bids this afternoon for the $100,000,000 block of 3 per cent bonds, the medium employed by the treasury for feeling out sentiment for periodical offerings of long term securities.

Some of Strong Issues.

Material gains were recorded in such utility issues as International Hydro 6s, North American Edison 5½s, New Orleans Public Service 5s of both issues which recovered a substantial part of their Tuesday losses, Central Illinois Electric 5s, and American Water Works 5s.

Among other classes of second grade bonds there was no uniformity of trend. Manati Sugar 7½s, one of the chief beneficiaries of the improvement in sugar conditions, reacted after a long upturn. Substantially lower prices were recorded, on small transactions, in Consolidation Coal 5s, and Studebaker 6s.

Pennsylvania Power and Light.

Investors' Guide: Kindly give me whatever information you have on Pennsylvania Power and Light 7 per cent preferred. Thank you for answer. I inclose stamped envelope.—H. W.

Answer: Pennsylvania Power and Light company is controled by Lehigh Power Securities corporation, which is part of the National Power and Light system. It supplies electricity to 633 Pennsylvania communities north of the Philadelphia metropolitan district and gas to 29. Some of the centers served are Harrisburg, Allentown, Bethlehem, and Wilkes-Barre.

Earnings have covered preferred dividend requirements by good margins over a considerable period. For the twelve months to March 31, 1935, operating revenues were $34,176,000 and net income was $8,731,000, which was 2.27 times preferred dividend requirements.

Gross revenues for 1934 were $34,038,000, against $32,749,000 for 1933 and $34,451,000 for 1932. Net income for 1934 was $8,807,000, which was 2.29 times preferred dividend requirements, against net of $9,320,000, which was 2.42 times preferred dividend requirements, for 1933. Net income for 1932 was $9,883,000, against $10,494,000 for 1931.

Current position at the close of 1933 was strong. There are outstanding 605,608 shares of $5, $6, and $7 dividend no par preferred, all of equal priority. The stock is fairly high grade.

Consolidated Gas of New York.

Investors' Guide: Please give me your rating on Consolidated Gas of New York 4½s, due 1951.—H. A. W.

Answer: Although earnings of Consolidated Gas Company of New York have declined substantially during recent years fixed charges are still being covered by wide margins. The 4½s, due 1951; 5½s, due 1945, and 5s, due 1957, are sound.

The company covered fixed charges 3.58 times during the first quarter of 1935, against 3.88 times during the first 1934 quarter. Fixed charges were earned 2.58 times in 1934, 3.16 times in 1933, 3.70 times in 1932, 4.72 times in 1931, and 5.28 times in 1930.

Current position at the close of 1934 was strong. Ratio of current assets to current liabilities was about 1½ to 1.

There has been considerable agitation for rate reductions. After threats by the city of New York to purchase electricity from the federal government the company cut its rate to the city virtually 35 per cent, which revised offer has practically been accepted.

The company furnishes electricity and gas to four of the five New York City boroughs, to Westchester county suburban area and steam heat in Manhattan. This is a highly concentrated, populous area, having a broad diversification of industrial and commercial consumers, an ideal utility location.

FRENCH BOURSE CLOSES TO HELP END GOLD DRAIN

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 29.—Following the adverse vote of the finance committee of the chamber of deputies on Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin's appeal for dictatorial powers to save the franc, the outlook for the government in tomorrow's debate is blacker than ever, and financial authorities tonight reported that they had decided to close the bourse Friday to halt the "gold hemorrhage" until a new government can be formed.

Tomorrow is a holiday and on Saturday the bourse is never open, so if Friday's market session is suppressed, President Albert LeBrun will have three days to whip together a new cabinet which may inspire confidence.

Flandin Continues Fight.

Despite the gloomy outlook Flandin, instead of resigning tonight as some expected, announced that he will face the chamber tomorrow despite his illness, and that he will go down fighting. A special support was fitted to the speaker's rostrum so that he can rest his injured arm while making his speech.

The premier is pinning his hopes on turning defeat into victory by diverting debate from political aspects to a tirade against speculators in which he is expected to denounce by name Raymond Patenotre, wealthy publisher who is one of the leading French champions of devaluation. It was rumored yesterday that the government debated the advisability of arresting Patenotre for undermining the credit of the state.

Last Chance Seems Gone.

The premier's last chance, however, seems to have gone with the hostile vote of the finance committee today. This morning the committee called on him in a body and Flandin gathered all his strength in a final plea to rally them in support of his request for full powers.

The committeemen were impressed by the premier's forceful arguments and by his courage in trying to carry on the battle despite his illness. The committee seemed in a friendly state of mind when they left Flandin and for a couple of hours the political sky seemed much brighter. Then the committee met again at 3 o'clock, and after a long discussion voted 25 to 15 with one abstention against giving the government the full powers it asked.

Another hostile indication which in the end may turn to Flandin's advantage is that the radicals have accepted an invitation to hold a joint meeting with the Socialists and communists and other left groups before the session tomorrow to attempt to work out a common policy.

May Swing Right Into Line.

Some observers think this flirtation of the radicals with the left opposition may work in the government's favor by swinging the right into line behind him to block a possible cartel government from emerging from the crisis.

While politicians were busy in the lobbies the market was agitated as usual today and purchases of gold continued unabated. The flight of capital to England was so intensive that today, in several of the biggest Paris banks, it was impossible to find a single pound note for sale at any price. This financial stampede likewise is reflected in the forward premium on sterling, which today rose to the fantastic figure of 2 francs 75 centimes to the pound for one month and 4 francs 50 centimes for three months. There was also a noticeable run on postal savings banks.

Gold Withdrawal Figures.

Daily gold withdrawals are estimated at a billion francs, equivalent to $65,800,000. The Bank of France, however, today managed to give the franc the appearance of stability by selling dollars to all comers. As a result the franc rallied slightly in terms of American funds and closed at 6.60 cents, an advance of 1¾ cents from yesterday's closing quotation.

New supplies of British and American bank notes arrived in Paris today to supply the demand of those who are converting their money into foreign currency or into gold.

Estimates of the gold withdrawals from the Bank of France for the last three days ranged as high as $200,000,000. The new French steamer Normandie, sailing today on her maiden voyage, had $20,000,000 of gold in her vaults, and four American vessels carried similar consignments.

POWER TO REVALUE GOLD TO BE SOUGHT BY CANADIAN MINISTER

OTTAWA, Ont., May 29.—(AP)—Premier R. B. Bennett today announced that the government would introduce legislation in the house this week or next empowering it to revalue gold. While it might not be necessary to use the power, the premier said, he declared his belief that any government should have it.

New York, May 29.—(AP)—The Canadian government's quest for power to revalue gold was seen in Wall street today as a step in preparation for possible international stabilization of currencies at a later date.

It was pointed out that while the Canadian dollar has depreciated along with the American dollar, Canada has taken no official steps to change the gold content of the Canadian dollar, as the United States did in reference to the American dollar in January, 1934. With power to revalue gold, the government would be free to put the Canadian dollar back on a gold basis when it felt conditions favored, it was explained in Wall street.

Reserve Chief and Roosevelt Discuss Franc

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt discussed the French monetary crisis with Gov. George Harrison of the New York Federal Reserve bank today, as talk of an early stabilization conference filled official circles here and abroad.

Great Britain, France, China, and the United States have recently affirmed their official willingness or anxiety to discuss stabilization, but each is waiting for some other to call the world conference.

Admits Calling Harrison.

Mr. Roosevelt admitted at his press conference today that he had called Gov. Harrison, the man most closely in touch with foreign monetary developments, to talk over the French situation.

Just why this was done or what effect the French developments may have on this country, the President refused to say. He ducked questions by remarking that the matter was a deep secret about which he could not talk. Inquiries should be made at the treasury, he said, but the treasury refused all comment, as usual.

American intervention solely to help France out of her present predicament is unlikely, although there would be a precedent for such action in the loans on gold which the reserve banks made to Belgium while the belga was under pressure. Similar temporary aid might be extended to France.

France Key to Situation.

French departure from the gold standard might hasten the general move for world stabilization of the currency. While the atmosphere in official circles here becomes increasingly friendly to such suggestions, Prime Minister James Ramsay MacDonald indicated in the house of commons today that Great Britain was willing to talk stabilization.

At the same time the Chinese government, as hard pressed on silver as France is on gold, announced its desire to discuss a world monetary agreement. France has from the first been anxious to reach an agreement which will end the drain of gold from its vaults.

Commons Opposes British Move.

London, May 29.—(AP)—Shouts of "no" from government supporters today greeted a suggestion in the house of commons that Great Britain approach the United States with a view toward obtaining the international stabilization of currencies.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald categorically denied reports that the British government recently had been in communication with the United States with a view of a conference on currency stabilization and the reduction of trade barriers.

Edward Lancelot Mallalieun, an opposition Liberal, asked, in view of the speeches of persons in authority on the other side of the Atlantic, which appear favorable to a new approach to this question will he [MacDonald] not take the initiative?" Mallalieun referred to MacDonald's duty as president of the world economic conference to call for its resumption whenever world conditions are considered favorable for an agreement.

Shouts of "no" interrupted the questioner, and then MacDonald replied: "We do not need at this late hour to take the initiative. We have been trying to get the initiative taken, but up to now we have not been successful."

INVESTMENT MEN ARE EXPECTED TO KEEP CODE RULES

The "fair practice" provisions of the investment bankers' code will be maintained as a voluntary contractual agreement of members, it was indicated by developments yesterday. The Supreme court's NRA decision invalidated the code as an instrument of law, but members of the association have taken steps to salvage the section government trade practices which incorporates the reforms the Investment Bankers' association had endeavored to put into effect for many years.

Prior to the court's decision a movement had been started within the association to transfer the administration of the code from NRA to the Securities and Exchange commission. Whether such a move is still feasible is uncertain.

Francis A. Bonner, vice chairman of the association's national code committee, was confident yesterday, however, that a way can be worked out to retain the code. He said the NRA decision simplifies the question of regulation in many respects, regardless of whether administration can be shifted to the SEC.

Ralph T. Crane of New York, president of the bankers association, yesterday telegraphed an urgent request to members to continue to operate under the fair practice provisions until further notice.

Cuba to Pay on All Loans Except Chase Bank Debt

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, May 29.—Starting July 1 Cuba will begin paying interest and amortization on all foreign loans except those contracted by President Gerardo Machado with the Chase bank of New York, the latter totaling around $60,000,000, Secretary of the Treasury Despaigne announced today. "Not one penny will be paid the Chase bank on Machado's dubious transactions as long as I am secretary of the treasury and Carlos Mendieta is president," Despaigne asserted.

MARKETS, BANKS TO CLOSE TODAY

The principal commodity and security markets in this country as well as banks will be closed today in observance of Memorial day. Exceptions to the general closing are the New Orleans Cotton exchange and the Savannah Naval stores. Foreign markets will be open as usual. Regular business will be resumed Saturday morning.

OWEN D. YOUNG ASSAILS NEW BANKING PLAN

Asserts Inflation May Result.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—Owen D. Young, chairman of the General Electric company, told the senate banking and currency subcommittee today that "careful conservatism, not radical new departures," would restore the confidence of business men and bring about recovery in this country.

OWEN D. YOUNG.

Testifying on the Eccles central bank bill, which is a part of President Roosevelt's "must" program, Young stated frankly that he was "scared" of inflation. He said inflation itself had not arrived, but that a basis for it existed in the authority of banks to exchange government obligations for new currency.

"It is like intrusting your safety to a chauffeur who is a morphine addict," he said.

Wants Congress to Adjourn.

When the witness was urging congress to do less and threaten less, Senator Couzens [Rep., Mich.] asked whether he thought congress ought to adjourn at once.

"I think that would be a good idea," he replied.

Senator Couzens agreed with him and Senator McAdoo [Dem., Cal.] said if such a motion were made he would second it.

Young was then asked by Senator Couzens what he thought of the prediction by Gen. Charles G. Dawes of Chicago that prosperity would arrive in July.

"I told the general that it was all right to be a prophet, but that he shouldn't fix dates," replied.

Young said he opposed title II of the Eccles bill, which centralizes the control of currency and credit in the hands of a politically dominated reserve board, "not only because it threatens to retard recovery, but even more because it will postpone the banking reforms we need."

Sees Political Threat.

"It works from the top down rather than from the bottom up," he said. "It creates a central bank by indirection. It carries with it the threat and potentialities of political domination of that bank, not by congress, but by the executive."

The witness said that if the bill was to be passed, it should be amended so as to preserve some of the checks and balances of the present system, with an adequate and independent regional representation.

"It is by the revision of our whole banking structure, the commercial as well as the reserve system, that we may hope to correct the faults which have been disclosed, and prevent recurrence of the disasters we have experienced," he said. "Then, and not until then, will congress have met its full duty and responsibility in giving the American people the kind of banking system they ought to have."

Unemployment Causes Concern.

The great concern of the country today, Young said, is the absorption of unemployment. This must be done, he averred, before budgets can be balanced, all fear of uncontroled inflation avoided, exchanges stabilized, and foreign trade restored.

"The key to our whole situation then is business activity, particularly in the field of durable goods where most of our unemployment lies," he said. "As durable goods have to be financed on long time, that market is particularly sensitive to drastic changes or threats of change in our financial structure. Business in durable goods has undoubtedly been reassured by the failure of the Patman bill. It is still apprehensive about the political domination of our central bank system, with the resulting threat to the commercial bank system.

"The passage of the bill, either because it is not understood or because it is understood, will to some extent retard recovery. On whether business should be apprehensive over the bill views will differ, but the fact is that business is apprehensive.

Bank Credit Ample.

"We have vast reserves in the banks, more than 2¼ billions, the base for 25 billions of additional credit, awaiting us, an ample amount, certainly, to get all the expansion we need.

In response to a question, Young said he didn't believe the 4 billion dollar work relief spending program would stimulate recovery.

"Most of the money will go for labor and thence into consumers' goods," he said. "The effect on the materials market will be slight."

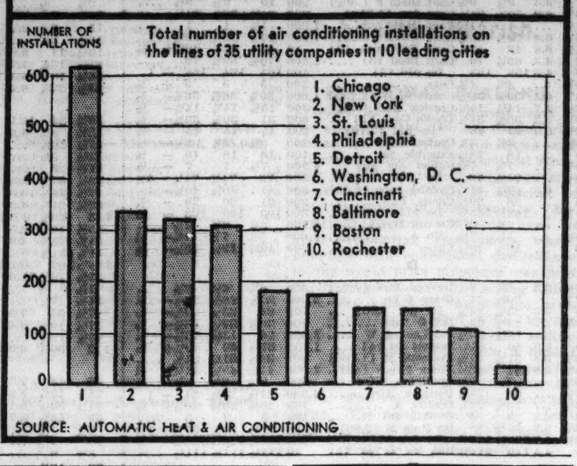
C. D. PARKER & CO. PRESIDENT IS SUED FOR $100,000

Boston, Mass., May 29.—(AP)—An attempt to salvage $100,000 from the alleged $20,000,000 financial wreckage of the bankrupt C. D. Parker & Co., Inc. and its allied securities firms, was started here late today.

Counsel for receivers of Parker company filed suit for that amount against Chauncy D. Parker, head of the company, and his stepmother, Mrs. Mary E. Parker. Parker & Co., collapsed after the recent suicide of its banker-general manager, Bowen Tufts.

The receivers charge Parker borrowed the $100,000 from his company on demand notes, and they further allege that Parker has transferred substantial assets to his stepmother to evade the claims of creditors.

Chicago Leads the Country in Air Conditioning Installations



Buying by U. S. Bank Pushes Franc Higher

New York, May 29.—[Special.]—French francs showed remarkable strength in New York today despite the rejection of Premier Flandin's economic program by the finance committee of the French chamber of deputies. After opening at 6.59¼ cents, the franc moved up to close at 6.6 cents, a net gain of 1¾ points over yesterday.

This gain in the value of the franc gave the dollar a value of $1.0051 against $1.0077 yesterday. Based on the old parity of the franc the dollar was worth 59.36 cents, against 59.52 cents yesterday.

Despite the advance in spot prices on the franc the nearby future quotations showed weakness. One day deliveries were discounted at from ¾ to 1 point. Tuesday franc deliveries were quoted at 3 to 4 points discount; one month francs at 25 points discount as against 20 yesterday, and three month francs at 40 to 42 points discount, as against 32 last night.

Supported by U. S. Bank.

It was revealed, however, that the remarkable strength of the spot franc in the face of threatened disaster for the last few days was due primarily to the strong support given it by the Guaranty Trust company, acting presumably for one of the stabilization funds—either the Bank of England, the Bank of France, or the United States treasury.

Swiss francs also joined in the upward movement in the French franc, gaining 5 points to close at 32.35 cents, but still 8 points below the gold export level. Dutch guilders, on the other hand, lost 1 point to close at 67.55 cents. Belgium belgas rose 7 points to 17.10 cents.

Pound sterling slumped in the New York market, losing 1⅞ cents at $4.92⅜, after closing at $4.93⅛ in London, compared with the overnight rate of $4.94¼.

Chinese silver currencies showed sharp losses as a result of sliding world silver prices. In New York the price of foreign mined metal for commercial use dropped ⅞ cent to 73½ cents, following a decline of 1½ cents yesterday. The London price fell ¾ penny to 32 15-16 pence a fine ounce, equivalent to 73.31 cents, on speculative unloading.

Causes of Decline.

The market here attributed the unloading to a feeling that the treasury was not proceeding as actively as recently in buying up all the world's silver and to the chill given inflationists by the effects of the Supreme court decision. Incidentally there is now a good deal of talk in bullion circles of challenging the constitutionality of the 50 per cent tax on profits of traders in silver, on the same grounds that the processing taxes are being called into question, namely, that they are discriminatory taxes upon one class of the people.

The decline in Hongkong dollars amounted to 65 points, placing its value against the American dollar at 59½ cents, while the Shanghai dollar was off 22½ points at 41.87½ cents.

In London the price of bar gold was advanced 1½d to 141 shillings 9d a fine ounce, equivalent to $35.02, and placing the price there above the treasury's price of $35 an ounce.

CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO ASKS BIDS ON LARGEST '35 EQUIPMENT ORDER

The Chesapeake and Ohio railroad yesterday invited bids for what is believed to be the largest equipment order of the year. In some quarters the announcement was regarded as signalizing the beginning of a definite upturn in the heavy goods industry.

The railroad requested bids for five heavy high speed modern passenger locomotives, 5,000 steel hopper coal cars of 62½ tons capacity, 50 live stock cars, and 75 flat cars.

The locomotives sought by the road are expected to be the most powerful of the type ever developed. They will be of the 4-8-4 type with extraordinarily large fire boxes and a steam capacity capable of maintaining high speed with heavy steel pasenger trains. The engines will not be streamlined.

The new equipment is expected to cost about eleven million dollars. The financing of the orders will be done through the sale of equipment trust certificates and no request will be made for a public works administration loan, it became known.

Only a year ago the Chesapeake and Ohio sold about $16,000,000 of equipment trust certificates for the purchase of 6,000 hopper coal cars, 1,000 steel gondola cars, 650 steel box cars, and other equipment.

VALUE ESTATE OF R. B. MELLON AT 21½ MILLIONS

Pittsburgh, May 29.—(AP)—The estate of the late R. B. Mellon, brother of Andrew Mellon, is valued at $21,615,170 in an inventory filed late today with the register of wills. This is exclusive of real estate. The bulk of the estate, $21,235,092, is in stocks. The remainder is in bonds, mortgages, notes, and cash.

The inventory was made by H. A. Phillips and E. B. Clarke, appraisers, and the value placed on the various items represents either their market or fair value at the time of Mellon's death, Dec. 1, 1933. The same inventory of assets will be filed later with the federal government. Since the liabilities were not listed, no estimate of the inheritance tax due on the estate is available at this time.

Part payments against the total taxes have already been made to the federal and state government.

THIRD CHINESE BANK SUSPENDS; BLAME NEW DEAL

SHANGHAI, May 29.—(AP)—As a result of the acute financial situation in China, the Shanghai Tingsun native bank, one of the largest Chinese-style banks, closed its doors today. The Tingsun bank is the third financial house to collapse during the last week, the others having been the American-Oriental bank and the Minghua Commercial Savings bank.

Officials of the American-Oriental bank blamed their difficulties on the American New Deal government's silver purchasing policy.

Hiawatha Speeds 410 Miles to Twin Cities in 6½ Hours

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., May 29.—[Special.]—Carrying steam's challenge to the newer forms of motive power, the Milwaukee road's new streamlined train, the Hiawatha, slipped out of the Chicago Union station at 2 o'clock (Chicago time) this afternoon and streaked 410 miles to St. Paul in six and a half hours. It arrived in Minneapolis a half hour later on the first run of the latest high speed service between Chicago and the Twin Cities. Its average speed between Chicago and St. Paul was about 63 miles an hour.

The train reached Milwaukee in one hour and ten minutes, five minutes ahead of time, having reached a top speed of 108.5 miles an hour on the run. The first five miles of the trip was done in ten minutes, so that the train covered 80 miles of the 85 mile run in exactly one hour.

Crowds Line Right of Way.

Crowds lined the right of way in Chicago and the countryside as the brilliant orange colored train, drawn by an oil burning steam locomotive, flashed down the tracks.

Shortly after leaving Chicago the train slipped into its stride and cruised along at speeds in excess of 90 miles with ease. In the middle cars of the six car train riding was particularly easy, while starting and stopping was marked by an entire absence of the jolts of ordinary travel.

The Hiawatha took curves at 90 miles an hour, but at this speed travelers said walking was like moving about on the deck of a ship in a heavy gale.

Northwest from Milwaukee the Hiawatha streaked through a rolling countryside bright in the green of spring. At every crossroad and village groups gathered to watch it pass.

Just out of Mauston, Wis., the northbound Hiawatha passed its companion, the southbound Hiawatha, which had left Minneapolis at 12:30 p. m. on its first run to Chicago. There was just a whisper as the two streamlined trains passed each other, the roar that accompanies the heavy standard trains when passing being absent.

Crosses Mississippi River.

Reaching La Crosse at 5:10 p. m., the Hiawatha crossed the Mississippi and turned to follow the river along its west bank to its destination.

Brief ceremonies marked the departure of the train from Chicago. Mayor Kelly lauded the railroads for the progress they had made during the depression. Jeannie Dixon, daughter of W. B. Dixon, general passenger agent, cracked a bottle of champagne over the nose of the 120 mile an hour locomotive pulling the train and the Hiawatha was off.

The train yesterday consisted of two parlor cars, three coaches, and a combination dining car and tap room. The capacity of the train is two hundred and on yesterday's trip all seats were taken.

UTILITY STOCKS RISE, BUT OTHER SHARES DECLINE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 29.—[Special.]—Despite the absence of the confusion which characterized dealings in stocks yesterday, the share market was a bearish affair again today, with nearly every section of the list pursuing a downward course. The only bright spot in an otherwise drab market was the action of public utilities, which came in for enough constructive attention to raise their price levels slightly.

One encouraging sign to traders was the fact that volume was reduced on the decline, total transactions amounting to 1,494,260 shares.

Early Rally Lost.

After early attempts at minor recoveries were unsuccessful, selling descended on the metals, oils, tobaccos, and most of the industrials.

For a while the rails appeared to withstand the assault, but even in this division bullish ammunition seemed lacking and losses replaced earlier gains. The carriers were not nearly as sensitive to offerings as the volatile silvers and some of the high priced specialties, which led the upward advance.

The rise in the power shares coincided with news that Rhode Island had taken steps to wipe out all pending state utility legislation bills. The action encouraged traders who have an eye on the Wheeler-Rayburn bill.

Even the utilities were compelled to back water a little in the final hour as news was heard that the holding company bill was being submitted to the senate judiciary committee. Leading issues like Public Service, Consolidated Gas, American Water Works, United corporation, and Standard Gas and Electric moved ahead from major fractions to almost 2 points.

Other Factors an Influence.

Other factors which were blamed for the liquidation in stocks were the break in grains and unsettlement over the French financial and economic crisis.

The hardest hit group of stocks today was the so-called blue chip issues. American Can, Westinghouse, General Electric, Eastman Kodak, Bethlehem Steel, and Allied Chemical giving up from major fractions to 4½ points. These industries, it was pointed out, were heavily codified.

Motor stocks were lower, and chemicals were heavy. The sugars were badly hit. American Crystal was off more than a point, American Sugar lost 2½ points and Cuban American Sugar preferred was hammered down more than 4 points. Tobacco shares felt the effect of price cutting. Metal shares found the going rather bumpy. Liquor shares declined moderately.

IMPORTS OF U. S. EXCEED EXPORTS FOR LAST MONTH

Washington, D. C., May 29.—[Special.]—An unfavorable balance in the nation's trade during April was reported today by the department of commerce. Exports fell below imports by $6,217,000, and total trade declined. It was the first unfavorable balance since June, 1933.

April exports aggregated $164,350,000, compared with $184,603,000 in March and $179,427,000 in April of last year. The shrinkage from March was 11 per cent, against a seasonable average of about 6 per cent.

Imports were $170,567,000, against $177,275,000 in March, and $146,523,000 in April, 1934. The decline from March was 4 per cent, while the average is 3 per cent.

While maintaining a favorable balance of $20,353,000 during the first four months of this year, the nation's excess of exports over imports is far below the same period in 1934, when the excess was $132,250,000.

From Jan. 1 to April 30 exports totaled $688,166,000 compared with $705,337,000 the same period of 1934. Imports amounted to $667,313,000 against $573,087,000.

Gold brought into the country amounted to $148,760,000 against exports of $62,000. March imports were $13,543,000. The excess of imports over exports for the first four months of the year was $433,775,000 compared with $741,889,000 in the same period of 1934.

Silver imports were $11,002,000 in April and exports were $1,593,000. March imports were $20,842,000. In the first four months net imports were $59,651,000, against $5,816,000 in 1934 at this time.

Confusion May Be Factor in Market Slump

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Partial explanation of the slump in the markets since the Supreme court decision junking the NRA may lie in the confusion in the public mind regarding the connection between the New Deal scheme for regimenting business and the New Deal scheme for inflating currency and credit.

"Many of our customers seem to reason it this way," says one loop banker. "The NRA is dead. Therefore, we go back to the old order. The old order was deflationary. Therefore, we are in for deflation."

Inflation has to do with the relation between the volume of money and the velocity of its circulation on the one hand and the volume of trade on the other. If money—including demand deposits in banks—expands at a rate greater than that demanded by the volume of trade the result is inflation. It has nothing to do with the NRA or any other scheme for the regimentation of business.

* *

Inflation begins when a nation's budget gets out of balance and it doesn't end until the budget is put back in balance. In the United States the budget deficit is still growing. The government is borrowing more and more money from the banks and there is no present sign of a letup in this program. In fact, the administration now has pending in congress its banking bill which would facilitate even greater borrowings from the banks by the government. Each increase in the federal debt results in an increase in bank deposits and this expansion of deposit money is out of all proportion to the demands of trade.

The key to inflation lies in the condition of the federal budget not in the progress of the New Dealers' collateral schemes for regimenting business.

Hams, sweet pickled skinned, 14-16 lbs.	17.75c	19.00c	+ 7.0
Bacon bellies, dry cured, 10-22 lbs.	21.75c	22.75c	+ 4.6
Pork loins, 10-12 lbs.	20.75c	24.50c	+18.1
Lard, prime steam, tierces	12.45c	13.57c	+ 9.0
Beef, good steer	17.00c	17.00c	....
Butter, fresh standards	28.75c	25.25c	—12.2
Eggs, fresh firsts	24.13c	24.00c	— .5

The cost of practically every packing house product went up during the first three weeks of May, except butter and eggs, which normally drop at this time of the year. Both butter and eggs soared to exceptionally high levels earlier this year.

Old Man High Cost Pictured in Latest Government Figures.

A similar story about the return of Old Man High Cost of Living is told by the current monthly report on retail prices of food by the United States department of labor.

This compilation shows that, taking the nation as a whole, the householder is now paying 50 per cent more than a year ago for a chuck roast of beef, 62 per cent more for plate beef, 36 per cent more for round steak, 49 per cent more for sliced bacon, 38 per cent more for pork chops, 86 per cent more for lard, and 35 per cent more for eggs.

Butter costs him 19 per cent more and if he turns to oleomargarine he finds that that is 55 per cent more expensive than last year. Potatoes are 22 per cent cheaper and bananas are down 4 per cent, but cabbage is up 81 per cent and the onions that he bought last year for a dime now cost him 17 cents. Corn meal has gone up 20 per cent and even a bag of navy beans takes 7 per cent more cash than last year.

* *

Compared with May, 1933, the increase in the cost of living is even more marked. The price of bacon now compared with two years ago is up 82 per cent, lard 111 per cent, pork chops 86 per cent, plate beef 70 per cent, onions 97 per cent, butter 25 per cent, wheat flour 47 per cent, and sirloin steak 44 per cent.

In Chicago, according to these official figures, the average cost of all food is 18.9 per cent greater than a year ago and 29.6 per cent greater than two years ago. Other central west cities have had similar experience.

RAILS REPORT HOLIDAY TRAFIC ABOVE YEAR AGO

A substantial increase in holiday trafic as compared with last year was indicated by preliminary reports obtained from railroads yesterday. The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific asserted that all indications were that passenger trafic over the long week-end will be well in excess of a year ago. Advance reservations were much higher last night.

The North Western road reported that the Ashland Limited, which serves Eagle River, Woodruff, and Watersmeet, left Chicago in three sections last night, while the Duluth-Superior Limited, serving the western part of the North Woods, left in two sections.

The Pennsylvania has put 200 extra cars into service to accommodate the heavy holiday crowds. Rock Island also reported substantial increases.

The Burlington reported that the overflow that could not be accommodated on the Zephyr was larger yesterday than usual, and that extra cars were put into service.

SMALLER BANKS' OWNERSHIP IS MUCH VARIED

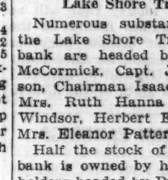
Ownership of Chicago's smaller downtown banks and the outlying institutions varies from control through members of a family to stockholdings so thinly spread that no connecting power is apparent.



F. H. PRINCE.

The rolls of the county assessor also disclose names of prominence dotting the lists of several banks' stockholders. The old Chicago packing families, the Morrises in particular, fall in this category. Also, there are the Swifts and the Wilsons. Edward Eagle Brown, president, and several others with interests in the First National bank own stock in smaller banks, though the amounts appear small in a number of instances.

Nichols Owns Over Half.

J. H. [100 Per Cent] Nichols, president of the First National of Englewood, is an example of the active banker who controls his institution. He owns 1,190 of the 2,000 shares outstanding. The William Wrigley Jr. company owns 4,136 of the National Boulevard bank's 5,000 shares.

F. H. Prince, Boston capitalist and chairman of Armour & Co., dominates the Live Stock National bank through personal ownership of 503 shares and possession of 30,112 of the 50,000 total through F. H. Prince & Co. Western Associates has 8,327 shares. The names of Swift and Wilson also appear, but the next largest holding is 790 by Frank P. Monroe, of Boston.

The largest interests among Personal Loan & Savings bank stockholders are Hinshaw & Co., 4,107; President Willoughby G. Walling, 2,377; Julius Rosenwald estate, 1,700, and Calvin Fentress, 1,114. More than a score own in excess of 100 shares.

Lake Shore Trust Owners.

Numerous substantial investors in the Lake Shore Trust and Savings bank are headed by Col. Robert R. McCormick, Capt. Joseph M. Patterson, Chairman Isaac Miller Hamilton, Mrs. Ruth Hanna Simms, Lina B. Windsor, Herbert E. Devereaux, and Mrs. Eleanor Patterson.

The Amalgamated Trust & Savings bank's 2,000 shares are mostly accounted for by Director A. D. Marimpietri, et al., trustees, with 1,505.

More than 10,000 of the Lawndale National's 25,000 shares are owned by five persons, headed by President Frank G. Hajicek, with 3,168. The late Mayor Cermak is listed for 515 shares.

Has 20 Per cent of I. C. Bank.

Personally and through his family President Irwin I. Altschuler owns nearly 20 per cent of the I. C. Bank and Trust company. The Schnadig family also is heavily interested. A number of other persons have over 200 shares.

Thirty per cent of stock in the two Drovers' banks is owned by William C. Cummings, president. Other top officers and the Swifts and L. A. Carton are substantial investors.

The Morrises and Helen Swift Neilson hold two-thirds of the Mid-City National's 4,000 shares. They also have substantial interest in the well distributed shares of the Halsted Exchange National and in the Liberty National. The latter also lists prominently E. E. Brown, W. M. Heyman, and the Julius Rosenwald estate.

The Uptown State roll shows 2,927 of its 3,000 shares in the name of Julius O. Sorg, nominee of the First Chicago corporation.

Detroit Trust in Ætna State.

The Detroit Trust company has a substantial interest in Aetna State, where President James Maltman is the leading stockholder. The Drexel State bank has a dozen substantial shareholders, but no dominant one.

In direct contrast with instances of concentrated ownership is the Upper Avenue bank, where a wide distribution among prominent Chicagoans is revealed. Only four of the Howard Avenue Trust and Savings shareholders possess more than 100. The South Chicago bank's 8,000 shares are well distributed. The East Side Trust and Savings bank's 2,000 shares were scattered thinly through the entire community by a stock subscription drive to reopen the bank. The largest holding is 64 shares; few have more than 20.

EMERGENCY RAIL ACT IS HARMFUL, PELLEY ASSERTS

Labor Provisions Prevent Economy Moves.

Instead of helping the railroads to improve their financial position through economies to be obtained from consolidations and joint operations, the emergency railroad act has been harmful to the roads, John J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, asserted yesterday at a joint meeting of the Chicago Association of Commerce, Traffic Club of Chicago, and other transportation groups at the Palmer house.

Pelley explained that labor provisions in the act prevented any new economy moves and at the same time put a stop to voluntary efforts toward consolidation and joint operation which the roads had been making for many years.

Coördination Old Practice.

"There is nothing new about the coordination of terminals and joint operation of facilities," Mr. Pelley said. "A study some years ago showed there were joint operation by two or more railroads of 24,000 miles of line, 263 engine terminals, 1,366 freight houses, 1,902 passenger stations, 618 yards, 472 large bridges and 1,013 points where freight cars were interchanged."

Believing that labor provisions of the act would block only such actions as were instigated by the federal transportation coördinator, the railroads proposed to put in economies on their own initiative. However, they were informed that they could not do this as such action would violate the intent of the act, Pelley said.

Law Prevents Savings.

"To indicate the possibilities in joint terminal operation, we find in a study of only 663 projects made by the railroads, which in a number of instances were made with the assistance of the coördinator's staff, that there was a possibility of saving $8,231,413 annually. None of this could be undertaken on account of the labor provisions of the act."

With proper answers to its problems and a reasonable recovery from the depression, Pelley said there is no doubt but that the railroads will be a great factor in leading the country back to prosperity.

Whether the Supreme court decision on the NRA will affect the railroad business will depend on whether the dropping of the codes will lower price levels, Pelley said.

"Price increases since the advent of the NRA have cost the railroads of the country $137,000,000 a year," he said.

Lawrence M. Judd, former governor of Hawaii, told to the meeting the great amount of money that will be spent in the Hawaiian Islands in the next few years for defense purposes is an important reason for Americans ritory. He urged Hawaii be admitted as the forty-ninth state of the Union.

POWER OUTPUT FOR LAST WEEK BEST SINCE 1930

Production Off Slightly, but Tops 1934 Total.

While production of electricity in the United States last week dropped to the lowest level so far this year it was the highest for that particular week since 1930, according to the Edison Electric institute.

The total of 1,696,051,000 kilowatt hours produced was 0.2 per cent below the preceding week, but 2.5 per cent above the corresponding week of last year. In the preceding week of this year the gain over a year ago amounted to 3 per cent.

In the Chicago district power output amounted to 96,644,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 96,009,000 in the corresponding week of last year, a gain of 0.7 per cent, the Commonwealth Edison company announced.

Total Down for Week.

Compared with the total of 98,679,000 in the preceding week, production last week showed a considerable drop. This was attributed to brighter and warmer weather. The percentage gain over a year ago was lower than that shown during preceding weeks due to the difference in weather conditions and to the opening of A Century of Progress at this time a year ago.

Week Ended.	1935.	1934.	Per cent Increase.
May 25....	96,644,000	96,009,000	0.7
May 18....	98,679,000	94,217,000	4.7
May 11....	97,659,000	94,347,000	3.5
May 4....	100,731,000	91,780,000	9.8

The Associated Press index of electric power production, based on a two-week moving average, with 1929-'30 taken as 100, declined for the week ended May 25 to 95.4 from 96.1 the previous week, and 95.4 a year previously. The index is adjusted for seasonal and long term trend.

STEEL TRADE CONFUSED

Killing of NRA by the Supreme court has brought confusion to the steel industry, especially the price structure of iron and steel, the magazine Iron Age commented yesterday. Aside from a possible break in prices, however, the market outlook is encouraging, the journal says.

District offices of most iron and steel producers have been instructed to continue commercial practices outlined in the steel code, maintaining all current base quotations and extras, but it is commonly conceded that market stability in the future will depend entirely on the voluntary action of individual companies, according to the review.

Despite the absence of forward buying and the approach of the summer season, ingot production has declined only ½ point to 42½ per cent. Recessions of 1 point to 43½ per cent at Chicago and 4 points to 68 per cent in the Wheeling district were offset partly by a 2 point gain to 45 per cent in the Cleveland-Lorain area.

The magazine's composite prices for finished steel and pig iron are unchanged at 2.124 cents a pound and $17.83 a ton, respectively.

SEC EXTENDS STOCK EXCHANGE UNLISTED TRADE

Washington, D. C., May 29.—[Special.]—The date on which trading in unlisted securities on exchanges must terminate was extended today by the Securities and Exchange commission until May 31, 1936, the statutory limit set by the securities exchange act of 1934.

This amendment to the commission's rules applies only to unlisted trading privileges on an exchange in which securities were admitted to such privilege prior to March 1, 1934, and which have been continued on that basis at the request of the exchange and with the consent of the commission.

Meanwhile the commission will continue its study of the subject of unlisted trading in securities, a problem on which it is called upon by the act to report to congress by January, 1936. It has been estimated that about 1,100 securities have the unlisted trading privileges, more than half of these on the New York curb exchange.

The commission explained that the extension does not apply to unlisted trading privileges granted to securities on one exchange after March 1, 1934, which are listed and registered on another exchange. Trading in such securities on an unlisted basis must terminate on June 30, 1935, in accordance with the terms of the securities exchange act.

WHEAT PRICES DECLINE TO NEW LOW FOR SEASON

Crop News and Canadian Situation Bearish.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Wheat sank to the lowest level of the season in the Chicago market yesterday on favorable crop news and growing evidence of the critical situation into which the Canadian government is heading with its attempt to hold up prices in that country. Belief that Canada will soon have to start liquidating tremendous wheat holdings with consequent disturbance to the world price structure was held partly responsible for the selling which depressed values in the market here.

The market showed little buying resistance and the moderate selling sent prices down 2½ cents a bushel to establish new low quotations for the season on the May and July futures. The volume of trading was not large. The final price on July wheat was 84¾ cents and May 83⅜ cents.

Falls 5c at Minneapolis.

With prospects promising a much better wheat harvest in this country than was anticipated a few weeks ago the market is not in a position to stand much in a way of a shock which would affect the world situation.

Attention was focused on the Canadian situation yesterday by a decline of 2 cents a bushel in wheat in Winnipeg. The break brought down the market to within 2 cents a bushel of the pegged prices maintained by the government pool. At the same time it was reported that representatives of the western grain interests in Canada were on the way to Ottawa to confer with Premier Bennett on means of disposing of the big surplus.

May Create Selling Unit.

It was guessed in market circles here that the Canadian government will soon be forced to create a commission to attempt an orderly liquidation of the wheat. Forcing the hand of the government is the fact that a new crop is in the making with the promise of a big harvest.

The break in wheat in the market here overshadowed trading in other grains. Corn was again weak with the May delivery declining a cent a bushel. Deliveries yesterday against the May future were 320,000 bushels, and the open interest at the close of business Tuesday was 3,692,000 bushels. The open interest must be closed out Friday, the only day remaining in the life of the current May futures. May oats fell nearly 2 cents a bushel Closing quotations on rye were 1¾ to 2⅛ cents below Tuesday.

	Yesterday.	Tuesday.	Wk. ago.
Wheat	.84¾	.87⅛	.90⅝
Corn	.78	.78⅝	.81⅝
Oats	.33⅝	.34¼	.36⅝

HULL ASSAILS U.S. PLAN TO RULE FOREIGN SHIPS

Fears Regulation Will Hurt World Trade.

Washington, D. C., May 29.—(AP)—Foreseeing possible treaty fractures, Secretary Hull today voiced his "serious objections" to proposed federal regulation of rates, fares, and charges of foreign ships using American ports.

His stand, backed by a resolution of the interdepartmental committee on commercial policy declaring such regulation would prove "injurious to American foreign trade," coincided with a senate attack on the administration's reciprocal tarif policy.

Senator Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] introduced a resolution proposing that "hereafter no foreign tarif agreements be entered into" and that "any heretofore entered into should be terminated at the earliest possible date."

Contends Authority Exceeded.

He contended that under the NRA decision congress had exceeded its authority in delegating the treaty making power to the President. The state department has concluded trade agreements with Cuba, Brazil, Belgium, Haiti, and Sweden. Others are under negotiation.

Hull's opposition to foreign ship rate regulation was directed specifically against sections of the pending ship subsidy and Eastman water carrier regulation bills. He wrote senate and house committee chairmen, saying in his letter to Senator Wheeler of the interstate commerce committee:

"I do not feel that an attempt by this government to prescribe minimum rates which may be charged by foreign vessels on the cargoes which they carry between American and foreign ports would be in harmony with that basic principle in our treaty structure under which we have granted to foreign shipping the right of free access to our ports and in return have obtained for our ships the right of free access to foreign ports.

Sees Conflict with Laws.

"Such regulation would be in conflict with the generally accepted practices of international law.

"A most serious objection to any unilateral attempt by this government to fix rates in foreign commerce lies in the fact that this procedure would add one more form of restriction to the entangled and conflicting mass of nationalistic restrictions from which our foreign trade is suffering today.

"The impracticability of such unilateral regulation can readily be appreciated if one considers the impasse that would result if another government should adopt the same practice, but should prescribe rates covering its trade with us differing from those our authorities prescribed for the very same trade."

Hull said in his letter that the Danish minister already had made representations to this government against provisions in the Eastman bill.

A RECORD FOR 1935
400 Lots Sold in One Week.
Does that sound like depression? Do you blame us for being excited? Do you blame us for being happy? When we announced the purchase of the remainder of the old JOHN WANAMAKER ESTATE in Evergreen Park recently, we predicted that the lots once offered for sale would go like "hot cakes." They did, and are still selling that fast.

Think of It!!!
Homeseekers! Investors!
Improved lots, with gas, water, electricity, sidewalks and streets, now selling for ONLY
Terms—$1 Down
$1 a Week
And all in a built up neighborhood. A new brick school right on the property. Stores, churches right on the property. The village of Evergreen Park on the property. Many homes already built and occupied. New homes going up now. Neighborly neighbors, and American children for your children to play with. The restrictions are reasonable. Frame buildings are permitted. Money is now available for building. Some of the finest and widest boulevards and highways on the South Side make this property easily accessible to all important centers of activity.

Do you wonder why these lots are selling so rapidly? Why customers' demands encourage us to keep open from 8 in the morning until 8 at night seven days a week?

We can furnish a Chicago Title and Trust Company guaranty policy with every lot. So of course the title is clear. We give a warranty deed to every purchaser.

We admit the fact that we bought this property from the Wanamaker Estate "DIRT CHEAP" for cash. We are also selling the property "DIRT CHEAP"—and on easy terms.

The reason we sell more lots on the South Side than any other firm in Chicago is because we believe in volume sales—a small profit on a large number of sales instead of a large profit on a small number of sales.

Drive out to our office any day, or come by Western-av. street car or 95th-st. street car buses. (Yes, the new buses are running.) If you prefer phone us for a car to take you and your family to see this beautiful property as our guests. Or if you would rather see the property by yourselves go to 95th and Keeler and look it over—then come to our office.
